Explorer Sends Message of Arrival at Point Barrow Without Accident

Captain and Pilot Expected to Return to Fairbanks Within Day or Two

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FAIRBANKS (Alaska) April 2. Capt. George Hubert Wilkins and his pilot, Ben Eielson, in their monoplane, the Alaskan, arrived safely at Point Barrow, on the Arctic coast Wednesday afternoon after a flight from here, according to word received at the Detroit Arctic Expedition's base here last night by radio from Capt. Wilkins.

Howard Mason, chief radio man of the expedition, was in communication with Wilkins from 11:12 to 11:19 p.m.

Capt. Wilkins's signals, while weak, were readable. The time of the arrival of the Fokker at the northernmost spot in Alaska, 560 miles from here, was given as "two three," but whether this meant 2:03 p.m. or between 2 and 3 p.m., Mason was unable to determine. The single-engined Fokker plane left here at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

RADIO RECORD SET

The flight established a world record and made new history in the fact that for the first time an airplane carrying a light set landed and communicated over such a distance. The set was rigged with an emergency antenna on the plane, the same as will be used in the expedition's exploration flights over the Arctic ice in search of undiscovered land in the great polar basin. The complete set weighs only about fifty-eight pounds.

With Mason at the local receiving set in the hangar on the landing field here, Lieut. H. G. Mesner and Technical Sergeant C. G. Clark of the Signal Corps, assisting in listening in, and the other members of the Detroit Expedition gathered around, the long vigil of watching for word from Capt. Wilkins was carried out after the plane's departure.

Last night at 11:09, Mason first heard faintly "KDA," the call number of the Alaskan, and a few minutes later the message was coming over the Arctic air.

As soon as Wilkins signed off Mason tuned in on Robert Waskry, radio operator, with the expedition's overland party in camp on

SQUIRRELS USE SMELL AS SIGNAL

Anatomist Session Told of Communication Means Used by Western Animal

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) April 2.—Habits of a little animal in the West were described today by R. Robert T. Hatt of New York University, speaking at the annual meeting of the American Association of Anatomists here. Dr. Hatt told of the golden mantled ground squirrel found in some of the Western States, which, by the means of a strong-smelling oil, sends messages to others of its kind. This ground squirrel has an oil gland between the shoulder blades and Dr. Hatt says he is convinced the gland is used for no other purpose than that of conveying messages.

As the animal passes through vegetation, he said, the oil from the gland leaves definite clews for his fellows, not only of his identity but also of his state of mind, his recent menu and his temper.

Dr. Simon H. Gage of Cornell University, who has made a fifty-year study of lamprey eels, traced the life history of the various types of lampreys, dwelling at length on his refutation of the old belief that the brook lampreys live on the blood of fishes.

"They exist," he said, "without eating anything from the time they emerge from the larva stage until they consume all the nourishment in their bodies and die. They live in the mud for three or four years, storing up nourishment while they are in the larva form, and then use it during their life in the water. The lake lampreys, however, are parasitic, living on the blood from fish."

DEBATE DECISION UP TO RADIO LISTENERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EUGENE (Or.) April 2.—Decision in radio debate between the University of Oregon and University of Southern California tomorrow will be left to the listening audience. Ballots will be mailed in to the KGW broadcasting station of the Portland Oregonian. Five days will be allowed for voting, after which the results will be announced to The Oregonian. The contest will start at 8 p.m. Oregon will be represented by Donald Beeler of Warrenton and James Johnson of Hood River, who will uphold the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, that war, except in cases of insurrection or invasion, should be declared by direct vote of the people of the United States."

Immunizing of Human Beings Forecast in Physicians' Work on Animals

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ALBANY (N. Y.) April 2.—Excellect results from the use of an antitoxin for all types of pneumonia when the patient is treated within forty-eight hours of the appearance of the disease were reported today by a group of Minneapolis physicians at a joint meeting of the American Association of Immunologists and the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists.

When the antitoxin was administered more than forty-eight hours after symptoms had appeared, however, little or no beneficial effect was obtained, it was reported. The Minneapolis physicians reporting were Dr. B. J. Olson, Dr. G. H. A. Clowes and Dr. W. A. Jamieson.

Hitherto only one of the four types of pneumonia has yielded readily to antitoxin treatment.

Dr. Olson warned that the experiments have not been made with a sufficient number of cases as yet to warrant sweeping statements, but that in more than 100 cases those treated immediately, responded quickly.

EARLY TREATMENT

In this connection he emphasized the importance of early treatment, even when diagnosis is not positive. Sharp pains in the chest, chills, rise in temperature and coughing were sufficient symptoms, he said, to warrant injection of antitoxin as a preventative measure. No harmful effects from such treatments have been observed, he said.

Dr. Olson said that about 50 per cent of normal individuals tested showed a skin reaction to the injection of a small amount of pneumonia toxin, indicating their probable susceptibility to the disease. While experiments in immunizing human beings have not gone far enough to report upon yet, he said, it has been demonstrated that immunity from pneumonia can be conferred upon animals.

Dr. W. P. Larson, also of Minneapolis, reported the effectiveness of an antitoxin made by mixing bacterial cultures with soap made from castor oil. Injections of the mixture in animals make them immune from the kind of bacteria used in the cultures and from the toxins produced by these bacteria.

Dr. Larson's theory of the effect of this antitoxin is that it lowers the surface tension of the organisms, making them less able to penetrate the body tissues. At the same time it neutralizes their poisons.

SCARLET FEVER

Advice not to use scarlet fever antitoxin as a preventative measure but as a curative only, was given by Dr. William H. Park, director of the vaccins and chemical laboratories of the New York City Health Department.

Dr. Park said his suggestion is based upon the observation that scarlet fever is not a highly contagious disease, only nine out of every hundred contacts in families in which scarlet fever occurs contracting the malady.

Dr. John F. Anderson, of the staff of a research laboratory at New Brunswick, N. J., said reports regarding scarlet fever antitoxin from Detroit, Boston, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Pittsburgh and San Francisco, indicated that the antitoxin developed in his laboratory is a specific against scarlet fever in widely separated sections of the United States.

Stolen Bank Papers Found in Letter Box

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN JOSE, April 2.—Search for the bandits who yesterday robbed the Security State Bank of Turlock of about $25,000 turned to San Jose this evening when it was discovered that between 4 and 6 p.m. today an unaddressed envelope containing non-negotiable securities stolen from the bank was dropped in a downtown letter box here.

The letter was opened after the carrier returned to the postoffice. It was found to contain certificates of deposit, stock certificates and certified checks of value only to the bank.

Search was undertaken by police at the Hotel Montgomery, from whose box the carrier thought the letter might have come, and other places in the vicinity, but without success. Chief of Police Black notified San Francisco and Oakland authorities on the theory that the bandits might have passed through here on their way north.

The fees will be used to defray expenses to the government in making and supervising leases.

The Hat She Didn't Get!

MIDWEST AGAIN BLANKETED

From Three to Five Inches of Snowfall During Day With Unsettled Weather Predicted

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, April 2.—A fresh fall of snow today laid an Easter mantle of ermine over the Middle West, sweeping eastward from the Rockies toward the Ohio River Valley.

From three to twelve inches of snow had fallen tonight over most of the area and although the Weather Bureau said the sun might come out on the Easter parade, there appeared to be no hope that the snow would even begin to disappear by Sunday.

Unsettled weather threatens overcast skies for tomorrow, with more snow for most of the States from Michigan to Colorado.

Aggravating the serious traffic conditions brought by the midweek storm, today's snowfall capped a post-season phenomenon of winter unmatched in the records of the Weather Bureau. The total snowfall since Wednesday is now as much as eighteen inches in some localities, while in Chicago, it is almost twice as great as the six-inch fall of Easter Sunday, 1920, which held the previous record for unseasonal snowfall.

The second of the twin snowstorms descended upon the Central West just as it had begun to make headway in digging itself out of the midweek deluge. Roads are impassable in many parts of the region, and even city streets were a morass, despite efforts of street cleaners to keep them cleared.

Temperatures throughout the storm-stricken region hovered about the freezing point.

NO LET-UP REPORTED BY IOWA BUREAUS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DES MOINES (Iowa) April 2.—Eastern Iowa was in the path of the second spring blizzard of the week today, snow fell and weather bureaus reported no let-up in sight.

At Cedar Rapids nearly an inch covered the ground within an hour and the fall at Clinton made highway and street travel difficult.

The Keokuk Weather Bureau recorded five inches of snow in twelve hours, following an eleven-inch fall early in the week.

Officials and Employees of Florida Jockey Club Face State Charges

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TAMPA, April 2.—Thwarted in previous attempts to end horse-racing at Tampa Downs, County Solicitor R. E. L. Chance today filed a bill of information in Criminal Court naming forty officials and employees of the West Coast (Florida) Jockey Club. The bill contained five counts, all charging conspiracy to violate a State law and sponsoring betting.

Harvey Myers, president, was among those named. The others were ticket sellers, starters and other employees of the club. Capiases for their arrest were turned over to the Sheriff. Each will be required to give bond.

The charges filed today, a week before the meet is scheduled to close, followed appeals previously made to the State Attorney-General and the Florida Supreme Court to close the track.

Several days before the club opened on February 18, last, an injunction was granted against the club, restraining racing. Attorneys for the club obtained a supersedeas order from the State Supreme Court and the racing is now being held under that order.

Trial of the turfmen on the charges preferred today probably will come up in Criminal Court during the term which begins the 19th inst.

SENATE MOVES TO PAY FOR CIVIL WAR COTTON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Steps to pay for a quantity of cotton seized sixty-three years ago in Louisiana by Union officers during the Civil War were taken today by the Senate. BABY "DIGESTS" LEGAL PAPER

At Least He Bites Off Large Chew of Document Which State of Rhode Island Thoughtfully Places in His Hands While Imposing Phrases Are Gravely Read to Him

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BERKELEY, April 2.—Although he is little more than a year of age, Norman Morrison Hodgkin of Berkeley today fully satisfied an imposing edict of the State of Rhode Island that he receive and "digest" a lengthy legal document relating to the disposition of his mother's estate.

In conformity with the Rhode Island law, the baby held the document while it was being read to him, and tried in his baby way to figure what it was all about. He then put the paper in his mouth and tore off a large chew before it could be taken from him. The paper is being sent to Rhode Island with his teeth marks on it to prove that he has satisfied the law.

The baby is the former Lawrence Beckwith, potential heir to a $400,000 Massachusetts estate which is being adjudicated in Providence, R.I. He was adopted recently by Miss Anita Hodgkin of Berkeley.

STECK CASE HELD OVER BY SENATE

Contest With Brookhart on Election to Come Up for Consideration Monday

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senate consideration of the Brookhart-Steck Iowa Senatorial contest was deferred today until Monday.

The agreement to postpone consideration was reached because Chairman Ernst of the Senate Elections Committee was not prepared to present the majority report. Senator Stephens, Democrat, Mississippi, author of the minority report, said he favored presenting his argument after the majority side has been heard.

Senator Borah served notice on the Senate last night that he would insist on taking up the case at 2 o'clock today, and it then was agreed to go ahead with the minority argument regardless of whether the majority was ready. This position was reiterated early today, but after a series of conferences agreement was reached to bring it up next week.

Five Killed and Scores Hurt in Theater Crash

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MEXICO CITY, April 3.—Five persons were killed and ninety-two men, women and children were injured, many of them, it is believed, fatally, when an entire section of the balcony collapsed at the Titanic Motion Picture Theater here this evening and fell upon the spectators below.

The accident was due to overcrowded balconies, that section of the house being packed by a Good Friday crowd. The collapse occurred while all the lights were on, otherwise the casualties probably would have been greater. The Titanic Theater is in one of the poorest wards of the city. All the victims belong to the laboring class.

Subsidiaries of Loan Firms Ruled Invalid

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Building and loan associations in California must keep their business entirely separate from associated or subsidiary corporations, A. R. Falch, State Building and Loan Commissioner, declared in an order issued here today.

The order affects 176 associations in the State with total assets of $180,000,000.

Building and loan associations also will be required to furnish a "call" financial statement four times a year, which must be published in newspapers of general circulation.

Falch said the order was intended to safeguard the integrity of the associations.

GOVERNMENT URGES BILL TO TIGHTEN LIQUOR ACT

More 'Teeth' in Andrews Measure; All but Officials Barred as Dry Hearing Witnesses

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senate wets who are behind the drive for modification of the prohibition laws today received a couple of rather severe jolts.

The first came with the refusal of the Judiciary Subcommittee to sommon other than government officials as witnesses at the prohibition hearings to begin Monday.

The second was in the form of an administration bill tightening up the Volstead Act as an essential to more successful enforcement of the dry statutes.

This measure, containing seven more or less severe amendments to the Volstead Act, recommended by Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury, was introduced by Senator Goff, Republican, West Virginia, and will be referred to the judiciary subcommittee.

OPEN TO DEBATE

Thus it will be open for discussion during the two weeks of prohibition hearings and the drys are expected to urge it at the same time they are condemning the liberalization bills offered by Senators Edge, Republican, New Jersey, and Bruce, Maryland, and Edwards, New Jersey, Democrats.

The judiciary subcommittee action aroused Senator Edge, who had submitted a list of eighteen witnesses, including State and municipal officers, whom he desired to have summoned. He accused the subcommittee of "splitting hairs in favor of the drys," and with acting to prevent the wets "from presenting valuable information."

On the other hand, Chairman Means and Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, said the subcommittee was following a long-established practice at hearings on legislation. In such cases summonses rarely are issued, proponents and opponents being required to supply their own witnesses.

The amendments proposed by Assistant Secretary Andrews, who is in charge of prohibition enforcement, are designed primarily to dry up sources of liquor supply. Perhaps the most severe would permit warrants to be issued for the search of private dwellings on evidence of manufacture of liquor for commercial purposes.

OTHER AMENDMENTS

Other amendments would authorize these steps:

Imposition of severe penalties for the counterfeiting of permits, prescriptions and other liquor forms.

Imposition of heavy penalties upon those who make, sell or transport liquor made from denatured alcohol or rum.

Requirement of registration of buildings and apparatus which have been set up in such a way as to make the manufacture of beer possible.

The summary condemnation of vehicles seized in liquor violations.

Before having the bill drafted Secretary Andrews consulted with Secretary Mellon and officials of the Department of Justice and the measure has the full support of the administration.

SENDS LETTER WITH BILL

In a letter accompanying the bill, Mr. Andrews explained the search of private dwellings amendment by saying that liquor operators are taking advantage of existing statutes to use homes as distilleries with immunity.

"They rent these dwellings and

PRESIDENT MAY IGNORE CONFERENCE

Believes Reservations Voted by American Senate Self-Explanatory

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—While feeling that the League of Nations has properly observed international courtesy in inviting the United States to participate in a League conference on the conditional adherence of the United States to the protocol of the World Court, President Coolidge does not believe that circumstances or other considerations require this nation to accept the invitation.

The President's views on the subject were discussed by the White House spokesman quite frankly today and the explanation was made that Mr. Coolidge has virtually decided not to send a representative to the conference.

His decision, it was said, is based both on a conviction that the reservations voted by the United States Senate to the adherence of this country to the World Court are self-explanatory and on a feeling that the League itself has no authority to dispose of the matter. President Coolidge is convinced that the only agencies concerned are the forty-eight nations adhering to the Permanent Court of International Justice and that an understanding can be reached only by dealing directly with these nations.

AMERICAN ATTITUDE SURPRISES LEAGUE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, April 2.—League of Nations circles expressed astonishment tonight on the receipt of dispatches from Washington saying that the action of the League in sending a circular letter to the members of the World Court inviting them to a conference to consider the American reservations had caused surprise in official circles of the American capital.

Officials of the League said that however Washington may have felt about the Council's original decision to convoke a conference for the purpose of discussion of the reservations put forward by the United States, there can be no justification for surprise over the actual dispatch of the invitations.

These officials explained that the sending out of the circular letter to the court signatories was nothing but routine procedure called for by the decision of the Council.

SUZANNE MAKES IT LOVE ALL

Miss Lenglen, Tennis Star, Fails to Keep Heart in Bounds and Forfeits to Poet

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, April 2.—Suzanne Lenglen is engaged to be married to Jacques Brindejonos Offenbach, poet and writer and grandson of Jacques Offenbach, composer of the "Tales of Hoffman," it was learned today.

The temperamental queen of the courts chose her intended husband outside the ranks of tennis players, but M. Offenbach is considered one of the most delightful poets of the younger generation of French letters.

In spite of official denials, Mlle. Lenglen is known during the last five years to have frowned upon the proposals of dukes, counts, earls and American millionaires.

This engagement is hailed as a real love match. Suzanne will be 27 years of age May 24, while M. Offenbach is 36.

POET DIVORCES WIFE

M. Offenbach, unable to wield a racquet and seldom seen about the tennis courts, was smitten with Mlle. Lenglen during the hard-court tournaments at St. Cloud in 1921, in which the French champion defeated Mrs. Molla Mallory.

During the intervening time, while reports of Mlle. Lenglen's engagements succeeded one another, the poet kept well in the background. Recently he and his wife were divorced by mutual consent.

The announcement of the betrothal today came as a great surprise to Paris. M. Offenbach has been accepted by the Lenglen family, but it has not been decided whether the wedding will take place before the Wimbledon tournament this summer or after.

Mlle. Lenglen's fiance is a poor man compared with the distinguished noblemen possessing lofty titles who in recent years have offered to lead Suzanne off the tennis courts into matrimony. He is a reporter for the newspaper Le Gaulois, acting as musical and literary critic, with an income from this source of not more than 1200 francs (about $42) a month.

However, he receives royalties from his grandfather's musical works, but the royalties on these will cease in 1930, when they revert into the public domain.

ENTRY TO STAND

While the marriage will take place at an early date, it is not definitely known whether it will be before or after the Wimbledon tournament, but it is understood that Mlle. Lenglen's entry in that tournament will stand in any case. Likewise it has not yet been decided whether she will continue to play tournament tennis after her marriage or definitely retire from the championship. The couple expect to make their home in Paris.

Reports of the engagement of Suzanne Lenglen have been frequent during the last few months. Last fall after she had been playing tennis in Germany and Austria her name was linked with that of Count Ludwig Salm-Hoogstraeten, who is separated from his wife, the former Millicent Rogers. The tennis star laughingly denied that any such marriage was in prospect. During the Riviera season there have been rumors of her engagement to the Duke of Westminster, who was divorced last summer and who has been a constant attendant at the French star's matches this winter, but Suzanne laughed these reports off, also.

Another name linked recently with that of Mlle. Lenglen is that of Dr. Charles Wilen, an American dentist, who has been living on the Riviera. They are said to have been often together during the past season.

COOLIDGE ORDERS SURVEY OF PHILIPPINE PROGRESS

Report Made in Co-operation With Gen. Wood Will Have Bearing on Policy in Islands

BY KYLE D. PALMER
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—An exhaustive survey of economic, social, educational and governmental conditions in the Philippine Islands, destined to have an important bearing on the Philippine policy of the United States, is to be undertaken by Col. Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, O., as a special representative of President Coolidge.

Although the increasing importance of the native movement for independence is believed to be chiefly responsible for the President's designation of Col. Thompson as an observer of Philippine conditions, the White House spokesman, in making the announcement today, was careful to emphasize the fact that the mission is in no sense an investigation as the term is generally used.

On the contrary it was pointed out that Col. Thompson and Gov. Wood are on terms of close intimacy and that the President, in sending an emissary to the islands at this time, desires to assure Gen. Wood of the administration's desire to aid him in every possible way.

One of the chief reasons for selecting Col. Thompson, it was explained, is due to the fact that he is Commander-in-Chief of the Spanish War Veterans, whose activities brought the Philippines originally under American protection.

NOT BLOW AT WOOD

The absence of any critical attitude on the part of President Coolidge in seeking a comprehensive report of island affairs is made plain by reports from various independent sources showing that Gov.-Gen. Wood, even under the handicaps imposed by a preceding island administration, has brought order and efficiency out of chaos in the insular government.

Peace and order prevail in virtually all parts of the islands; the people are prosperous and for the most part contented; revolutionary movements no longer exist and finances, both public and private, are regarded as being on a basis of unprecedented safety and solidity.

However, the movement for independence, official reports show, has attained proportions it has not possessed in two decades—and wholly under peaceful conditions. A condition not so much in harmony as a divergence in fundamental policy has marked a growing inability of the Governor-General to obtain co-operation from the native officialdom.

The long-standing division among the Filipinos themselves, which has tended to maintain three general groups antagonistic to each other, is said to be disappearing to a considerable extent. Those opposed to Philippine independence, for the present at least, are disposed to credit the excellence of the administration of Gen. Wood with full responsibility for the condition of confidence in the islands that inspires renewed agitation for independence.

HOSTILITY DYING

Regardless of the cause, however, all reports indicate that the old hostility among the native elements is dying out. The two factions of the Independence party have united and have added to their group a great many of the conservative Filipinos who hitherto had denied them all support. In fact, semiofficial reports received here indicate that Aguinaldo himself is the only outstanding Filipino leader who has refused to join the new movement for independence and who supports Gen. Wood's rule and existing American policy which approves that rule.

STATES AGAIN SNOWED UNDER

day were slowly recovering from the havoc wrought by the storm which swept Ontario Wednesday. Many parts of the Province are isolated from the outside world and it is considered that it will be Monday at least before communication facilities are normal. Latest estimates place the storm damage in the province at more than $2,000,000.

The telegraph and telephone systems suffered the most complete paralysis in years. The railways are almost back to normal service and the hydro-electric commission is able to provide all its patrons with power.

One result of the storm was to disrupt communication between brokers, bankers and investment houses in Toronto and the markets in Montreal and New York. Brokers have been at their wits' end trying to keep in touch with the fluctuations in the stock and foreign exchange markets. Customers asking for quotations were given the last available prices and most brokers traded on these quotations, taking the chance of losing money on the deals. A system was worked out giving each broker, banker and investment house half an hour at a time on the wires that were available.

Reports from Western Ontario cities indicate slow recovery from the storm.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN AREA FACES WET EASTER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DENVER, April 2.—A few hours of sunshine and partially clearing skies today held out only a false hope to Rocky Mountain folk for a balmy Easter, the weather man declared tonight after perusing incoming reports and casting an eye over certain low pressure areas that hovered over the surrounding country.

However, the lull in the storm permitted resumption of air mail service between Cheyenne and Salt Lake City, and allowed bus companies to bring 300 delegates to the annual convention of Pi Kappa Delta, marooned in Estes Park, to the nearest railroad points and start them on their journey homeward.

While white folk bemoaned the forecast that put a damper on the annual Easter parade of finery, red men of the Southwest went ahead with their annual rituals in emulation of the scenes on Calvary two thousand years ago. In the fastness of New Mexican hills, members of the penitentes order continued their flagellations, apparently with greater fervor because inclement weather had prevented the usual influx of curious tourists to pry into their zealously-guarded secrets. Near Tucson, the Tacqui Indians plunged ahead with their long drawn out ceremonial dances and presentation of the Indian version of the passion play.

Nothing had been heard today from the rescue party that plunged into the Galuira Mountains near Tucson, Ariz., yesterday in an attempt to bring out Mrs. Max MacMurray, Cleveland woman and Arizona ranch owner, who is held in a rude camp by injuries received March 23, last, when she was thrown from her mount during a lion hunt. Severe storms that have swept the mountains have forced the woman to undergo great hardship, reports received in Tucson said.

MARCH CANAL TRAFFIC EQUALS HIGH RECORD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PANAMA (Canal Zone) April 2. Commercial traffic through the Panama Canal in March equaled the high record set in December, 1925, 406 ships using the waterway, it was announced today. The tolls, however, were $137,483 less than the December record of $2,338,729. Canal officials attribute the present increase in traffic to general trade development, rather than heavier shipments of any particular commodity.

FLAGS MAY FLY OVER NEW LAND

Polar Aviators Likely to Find Large Area

Discovery Must be Followed by Actual Use

Arctic Continent May Have Value as Air Base

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—With the polar explorers planning to crowd the northern airways during the brief season this year until it looks as though traffic regulations might be required to prevent a jam, the question of what flag will fly over new lands which may be discovered takes on new importance.

Of the six or more expeditions preparing to hop off for the pole, shooting at it from almost every angle, some are 100 per cent one nationality or another in personnel, while the others are mixed. If the nationality of the actual discoverer is to govern future sovereignty of lands in the Far North, difficult and embarrassing problems might arise within the mixed national groups.

It seems quite likely, however, that the principle gradually developed through the years, that discovery must be backed up by bona fide utilization of new lands to afford a basis for claims of sovereignty which will be recognized by all nations, will be applied in final determination of such questions in regard to new-found polar regions.

This principle apparently leaves much to the future. It is the glory of the exploring achievement, rather than any actual utilitarian plan to colonize or otherwise make use of the supposed lost lands of the Far North, that is urging all of the expeditions on.

Much scientific data of greatest value may flow from the observations of the birdmen; the art of navigation in the air or on the waters of all the rest of the world may be improved by what is learned; the mysteries of the magnetic and the true pole may be further explained, but the time still is obscured in the mists of the future when the lost lands, provided their existence is proved, can be brought into useful employment by mankind.

Many Americans will be among the men rushing to explore the northern air routes to their ultimate limit, the pole itself. The expedition headed by Lieutenant-Commander Richard E. Byrd of the Navy will be all-American. But there is no preliminary discussion in progress in any official way as to sovereignty claims over any land Byrd may sight.

The State Department takes refuge in that age-old practice of diplomacy, strategic silence, whenever the subject is raised. Diplomats see no good purpose served by crossing bridges before they are reached.

Nevertheless, the Washington government has adhered to the useful-occupation policy in the past and probably will be found still taking that stand should any diplomatic correspondence develop out of the polar rush this year. For a time, just before the MacMillan expedition, with Byrd commanding the naval flyers, set out last year, Canadian claims threatened to raise the issue. The fact that it did not come up justifies the diplomatic reticence in Washington in the view of informed officials.

The Canadian claims is a blanket declaration of sovereignty over all lands which may exist within the triangle formed by the northern explored Canadian Arctic regions and the projection to the North Pole of the eastern and western longitudinal boundaries of Canada. Presumably it would include claim to a fractional section of the pole itself, shaped like a piece of pie.

There is a lot of unknown territory within that triangle, but neither the Byrd expedition nor any other of those of particular interest in the United States is planning to map it.

Cape Morris Jessup, Byrd's scheduled hopoff for the pole, lies to the east, and the land which he and other Arctic explorers believe he will find is due north of the cape, outside the zone covered by Canada's blanket claim.

Even the Canadians apparently feel that simple visual discovery of new lands furnishes only a slender and debatable claim of ownership. There are vast and almost uninhabited known regions into which the reports say the celebrated red-jacketed mounted police are to be sent on patrol for the purpose of backing up Canadian ownership claims by actual physical occupation.

The chief probable future benefit to be derived for the world from discovery of new Arctic lands has been given as the establishment of air-base facilities to aid future commercial travel by air across the top of the world as the most direct and practical air route from Europe to the Orient. That argument was advanced when the Navy two years ago planned to send the dirigible Los Angeles or the Shenandoah, since lost, to seek an unknown continent in 1,000,000 square miles of Arctic wastes far to the west of the Canadian zone. It was suggested that if such a continent did exist it would some day be the site of a great air depot. This project has little to do, however, with any of the polar flights now preparing.

RAIN IN YOSEMITE BREAKS DRY SPELL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YOSEMITE, April 2.—The longest dry spell on record for this season of the year was terminated here today when a light rain commenced falling. Reports from the High Sierras indicate the snow is in good condition and there will be no shortage of water for the irrigationists. While heavy clouds are hanging over Yosemite Valley there is but little indication of a general storm.

MITCHELL FLIES FOR CASH

Colonel's 37 Flights in One Day to Collect Pay Prior to Resignation Disclosed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—By flying thirty-seven times in one day just before resigning from the Army Air Service, Col. William Mitchell, whose court-martial followed a sensational campaign of derision and detraction against his superiors, was able to add more than $1000 to his pay at retirement.

Mitchell's final gesture while in the military service became known today when Controller-General McCarl approved a demand for extra flying pay made possible by thirty-seven technical flights in one day, the additional compensation being $1037.

The case was submitted to Mr. McCarl for ruling in advance of payment by Capt. Carl Halla, finance officer, United States Army, stationed here. Capt. Halla was uncertain as to whether, under the circumstances of Mitchell's arrest, later release from arrest, court-martial and sentence, the additional flying pay would be forthcoming.

"No flights were performed by Col. Mitchell during the months of November and December, 1925," said Capt. Halla in his letter to Mr. McCarl, "but thirty-seven flights were made by him on January 16, 1926."

Under the law Mr. McCarl ruled the additional pay was due Col. Mitchell.

At Bolling Field it was learned that the officer, who at that time was occupying the center of the nation's spotlight, had climbed into a plane and whipped through the air and on the ground at the field for a period during which he performed the thirty-seven flights necessary under the law and regulations to allow him "flying pay" for the period from November 1 to January 26.

The arrest of Col. Mitchell from October 17 to December 8, the court-martial and sentence did not affect his flying pay, Controller-General McCarl said.

According to the operations office at Bolling Field, Mitchell in one of the Army's new Douglas 0-2 observation planes made the thirty-seven flights on January 16 in one hour and ten minutes.

Under the law in order to draw flying pay airmen must spend a minimum of four hours in the air per month or make ten flights. The "flights" consist of taking off, flying about the field, touching the wheels on the ground and repeating this maneuver for the desired number of landings.

The law also specifies that a pilot, absent from flying, cannot make up more than three months' absence from the air. If a pilot is absent three months, in the beginning of the fourth he can make thirty flights or landings or spend twelve hours in the air.

In Mitchell's case the flying pay was 75 per cent of the base salary, a special Congressional provision.

'APE' JUST REALTY BUGABOO

"Monster" Only Customer for Farm Who Sought to Scare Tenants into Low Price

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) April 2.—An "ape man" reported to be frightening residents of North Stonington, Ct., is merely a prospective purchaser of a farm wearing a fur coat, and endeavoring by his antics to frighten away two orphaned sisters who inherited the farm he seeks. This was the report made tonight by George Denison, game warden, after a day's search for the "ape man" on the Horace D. Miner farm.

"If that fellow goes out there again with the skin of an animal over his head," said Denison, "they are going to put the lead to him. I wouldn't want to try it again if I were him."

Denison said he had found no trace of the man today, however.

The Miner girls, Muriel, 19 years of age, and Mildred, 16, inherited the farm from their father, who died recently.

Denison said they are armed and ready to shoot, and other residents of the neighborhood also have their shotguns at hand and will brook no ape-man real-estate tactics in the vicinity in the future.

The man-creature has succeeded in frightening Frank Miller, aged farm hand, from the place, despite the stoical attitude of his youthful employers.

"You won't catch me going back, either," said Miller. The Miner sisters, however, insist that they are not afraid and that they will remain and till the acres of the Miner homestead.

The ape man has not been seen for several days and is thought to have been frightened by threats of shooting. He had been frequently seen bounding about on boulders in the fields and once or twice on haystacks. By these antics, it is believed, he thought to frighten away the Miner girls and so be able to buy the property cheaply.

WILKINS GAINS NORTHERN GOAL

the Anatuvuk River on the northern slope of the Endicott Mountains, and Waskry, evidently very much excited, kept calling "'JN, here's a rush message from KDA." He repeated Wilkins's message of the plane's safe landing and added that everything was all right at Point Barrow. Waskry said "Wilkins is coming in strong here but his set is either quitting on him or he forgot his code and had to look up the characters. I think the trouble is that the generator is not turning fast enough and slowed down when he pressed the key."

IMPRESSIVE SCENE

It was a never-to-be-forgotten scene in the huge cavern of a hangar by the feeble rays of an oil lantern, with airplane wings looming ghostlike in the background, while Wilkins's message was awaited.

Few words were spoken in the group of watchers. Occasionally some one would rise and poke the fire in the long sheet-iron stove and then reurn to his seat on one of the empty gasoline cases.

At length Mason turned his head, the yellow lamp-light glinting on his glasses. "Got Wilkins, safe at Barrows." That was all. He turned again to his dials, his shadow dancing grotesquely on the wall as he bent over the instruments.

No one else spoke, but they rose as one man and edged closer. Only the youth with the earphones could hear the faint dots and dashes that the chief of the expedition was sending. Maj. Lanphier, army aviator in charge here in Wilkins's absence, raised his hand in token that all was well as he glanced at the pad under the operator's hand. Not a word was spoken until 11:19 when Mason announced "KDA signing off."

There was a smile on the face of the young radio man as he replaced the cover of his precious set after getting Waskry and with the other watchers started back to the hotel to rest.

ANOTHER FLIGHT

Maj. Lanphier expressed the opinion that Capt. Wilkins had taken a turn out over the frozen Arctic for a short distance before alighting at Barrow, as, at a speed of 100 miles an hour, which the Alaskan was making on the first two hours of her flight Wednesday, the plane would have reached Barrow at 12:30 or 1:00 o'clock.

A searchlight was rigged on the landing field yesterday to aid in case of a night landing. Soft spots on the field have been overcome by drilling through the surface to the gravel bed beneath and draining the snow water.

Maj. Lanphier was looking for the plane back today, although it was snowing this morning. "We felt all the time that there was no cause for anxiety over the safety of Capt. Wilkins and Elelson," the major said, "but we are naturally relieved at hearing from them."

Wild rumors circulated in the streets of Fairbanks ever since the plane hopped off, and this gossip was so strong that one enthusiastic local correspondent wired out the rumor that the plane was sighted over Barrow at 12:30 Wednesday forenoon.

GET INVITATION

Maj. Lanphier received a telegram from Nome yesterday for Capt. Wilkinns, which read as follows:

"All Nome joins in best wishes to you and the members of your expedition, and for your success. Unless you make Spitzbergen your objective, it would be a great pleasure for us to entertain you here on your return. We have a government landing field and direct steamship service with the States.

(Signed)
"NORTHWESTERN ALASKA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE."

Radioman Waskrey reported last night that, owing to the scarcity of dog feed and provisions, the overland party on its way to Barrow had camped a few miles from the Colville River while "Sandy" Smith, its chief, and Herbert Anderson, Nena musher, had taken a dog team and gone on ahead for supplies. The others of the party are putting in the time hunting. The weather was mild, Waskrey said, but the snow is soft and deep, and unless they obtain feed the mushers are in danger of losing dogs through starvation.

MANY TO SEE BYRD START ON TRIP MONDAY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Gov. Byrd of Virginia will be one of a group of distinguished men who will bid good luck to Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd when the Byrd Arctic expedition gets underway Monday aboard the Chantier.

Gov. Byrd, a brother of the explorer, has left Richmond with two flags of the Kappa Alpha fraternity, of which he and Commander Byrd are members. One flag will be left at the north pole if the expedition reaches it and the other will be returned to Kappa Alpha headquarters at Richmond.

Commander Byrd said his three great aims are to demonstrate the value of the airplane in Arctic exploration, to discover new land and to reach the north pole by air.

KITES TO BE USED BY ARCTIC EXPEDITION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, April 2.—Kites will form a part of the equipment of Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd on his flight to the Arctic They will be carried for emergency purposes, Samuel F. Perkins, of Dorchester, said today, as a device has been perfected to hold the kite steady in the air, should it become necessary to hoist a radio aerial on one of them. They also can be used as distress signals.

Mr. Perkins, who will furnish the kites, gave Commander John Rogers' of Hawaiian flight fame, his first ride in the air in 1911. It was while Commander Rogers, then a junior officer, was attached to the Pacific fleet, and Mr. Perkins was demonstrating his man-carrying kites. Commander Rogers went up from the deck of a battleship.

He has just been retired from the service of the Santa Fe Railroad, for which he worked thirty-eight years, thirty-one of which were spent as conductor of the California Limited. He is 77 years of age. Mr. Proctor will make his home at 310 West Broadway, Long Beach, Cal.

KING INDICTED IN TAX FRAUD

Perjury Charged to Wood's Campaign Manager

Mulcting Treasury Out of $40,000 Asserted

Former Committeeman Gives Bail for Appearance

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 2.—John T. King, former Republican National Committeeman from Connecticut, was indicted today for perjury in making out his Federal income tax return for 1921.

The action was by a special Federal grand jury which had been investigating for several weeks the transfer of the assets of the American Metal Company by the Alien Property Custodian's office in 1921. It is asserted that Mr. King defrauded the government out of more than $40,000, filing an income tax return for 1921 setting forth that his net income that year was $266.15 on a gross income of $34,529.16.

The indictment charges that for the year, 1921, Mr. King's gross income was more than $196,529.15 and his net income more than $137,266.15.

WAS WOOD'S MANAGER

According to testimony before the special grand jury Mr. King, during 1921, received part of $391,000 in United States bonds and $50,000 paid by or in behalf of Richard Merton of Berlin, representing Germans who own the Societe Suisse Pour Valeurs De Metaux.

Accompanied by his counsel, William E. Leahy of Washington, D. C., former special assistant to the Attorney-General, Mr. King pleaded not guilty before Federal Judge Knox and was held in bail of $2500.

He asked for a speedy trial and received permission to change his plea before the 12th inst. He was allowed to remain in the custody of his lawyer until bail could be arranged.

The man who was campaign manager for Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood in his fight for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1920, until the two quarreled, and who is said to have been one of those responsible for the nomination of President Harding, smiled pleasantly before the court.

ECHO OF MILLER CASE

The indictment last October of Thomas W. Miller, former Alien Property Custodian, on a conspiracy charge developed from an investigation started last year by Hiram C. Todd, as special assistant to the Attorney-General. It involved the return to Swiss claimants by Col. Miller at the direction of the Department of Justice of $7,000,000, which is said to have represented the proceeds of the sale of the American Metal Company's stock. This was seized during the war by A. Mitchell Palmer, then Alien Property Custodian.

Mr. King, although not indicted with Col. Miller, was mentioned during the investigation. The late Jesse W. Smith, close friend of former Attorney-General Daugherty, it was charged, was one of the conspirators.

Those indicted with Col. Miller were Richard Merton, Alfred Merton, president of the Metal Bank of Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany; Leopold Dubois, president of the Swiss Bank, Basle, Switzerland, and Fitz-Zahn Giegy, president of the Societe Suisse Pour Valeurs De Metaux, also of Basle.

Mr. King, who arrived from Europe Saturday, kept the government informed of his whereabouts by weekly letters, according to Mr. Leahy.

establish a family therein," he said, "whose occupation is to distill alcohol for the bootleg trade. We can break up this source of supply only by having the law provide that search warrants may be issued on evidence of manufacture for commercial purposes."

One of the amendments proposes a sentence of two years in prison and a fine of $25,000 for persons convicted of denaturing alcohol or rum for liquor manufacture or of selling, making or transporting liquor made from denatured alcohol or rum.

EDGE ISSUES STATEMENT

Some time after the subcommittee rejected, 4 to 1, his request that witnesses other than government officials be summoned, Senator Edge issued this statement:

"The public will have little difficulty in reaching a conclusion as to why material witnesses were not subpoenaed. These twenty witnesses are mostly State, county and city officials. Their absence will be very unfortunate, as we have been informed they were all in a position to present many interesting and pertinent facts.

"When one recalls the witnesses subpoenaed in past investigations on matters in no way as important, or as much a national issue as is prohibition, the decision of a majority of the committee will surely provoke speculation."

No Change in Condition of King's Sister

CINDERELLA TO WED PRINCE

Latest Love of "Godfather" Browning Says Bebe Not Due to Her Desire for Riches

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Fifteen-year-old Frances Heenan is engaged to marry Edward W. Browning, she announced tonight. He is building a home for them on a 135-acre estate at Bellmore, Island, she added. The latest Cinderella of the elderly real operator made the announcement "to correct the false impression I am an adventuress" and to protect her beleaguered admirer, attentions to her are under scrutiny of the Children's Society.

Both Browning and the girl previously had refused to confirm or deny reports of their engagement, although they made no secret of their friendship.

The girl now is recovering from burns on the face said to have been inflicted by an unidentified assailant who threw acid on her as she slept, and Browning today offered to undergo a skin-grafting operation to save her beauty.

"The date of our wedding has not been fixed," Miss Heenan said, "but it will be some time after my sixteenth birthday, which is on next June 23."

"Daddy," as she called Browning, has promised to let her pick out her engagement ring at a Fifth-avenue jeweler's, she said.

"I am not marrying Mr. Browning for his money nor for a career," she added. "I am a home-loving person and I want intellectual companionship with a man with whom I can feel safe."

GIRL BROUGHT UP IN PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

COLUMBUS (O.) April 2.—Frances (Peaches) Heenan, 15 years of age, latest object of Edward W. Browning's interest, was born in Columbus, June 23, 1910, according to court records. Her parents were William B. and Caroline Heenan.

At the time of the girl's birth, her father was a machinist, employed at Zanesville, O., a nearby city. Her mother was a native of Wellston, O.

When the girl was about 4, the parents became estranged over religious difficulties and through the efforts of William Bateman, a Zanesville banker, and a friend of the Heenan family, Frances was placed in a fashionable parochial school here to be educated. She lived with her mother, a nurse here, following her graduation.

Efforts to obtain information about the family from the Batemans were unavailing.

"Too much has been said already," Mrs. Bateman declared. "The less said about the whole affair will be the better."

DEBT TALK IRKS ITALIAN PRESS

Senate Discussion Brings Bitter Comments

Semiofficial Paper Asks, Why Pay at All?

Resents Use of Funding Plan as Political Issue

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

ROME, April 2.—The long discussions over the debt settlement indicates, to the semiofficial newspaper Tribuna, the possibility of reconsidering "the tremendous injustice of Italy's consenting to pay her debts at all."

The opponents of the accord in the American Senate, it says, are unable to call Italy to new sacrifices, but are able "to recall to her the small utility of those she is prepared to undertake, since she is so badly misunderstood."

"Moreover," it adds, "it is not an edifying example of perfect democracy that the opposition party, purposing to defeat the governing party, selects as its weapon an international agreement touching the bases of the relations between two nations.

"If they are willing to act thus in a perfect democracy, they cannot pretend at the same time to give ironic lessons and warnings to this old Europe, particularly Fascist Italy, which has shown itself so serious and disciplined in settlement of the United States debt."

The newspaper bitterly points out that the opposition to the settlement is being carried out by the Democrats, whose leader, Woodrow Wilson, "refused to settle the debt question globally by mutual cancellation) and did not desire to impose indemnities upon the conquered according to the old tyrannical, traditional European custom, instead of forcing a confused and unreliable reparation system."

Now the same party, it points out, is demanding full payment, with interest, from America's Allies. The paper concludes by remarking that it is unnecessary to answer the argument of the Senators opposing the debt settlement, since the defending Senators have already done so.

LOG DESCRIBES CREW'S RESCUE

Mauretania Brings Story of Race to Laleham

Speed Record Broken in Brush With Death

Thirty-one Saved as Storm Wrecks Freighter

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—The manner in which men of the sea rally to the aid of their comrades when wind and wave batter a ship to pieces was stirringly revealed when the Cunard liner Mauretania reached port today, its log showed that when the freighter Laleham called for help on March 31, four ships turned from their courses and none gave up the race until the tanker Shirvan had taken off all thirty-seven of the Laleham's crew and the ill-fated ship had been set afire.

During this race for life, messages of cheer were constantly sent on to the foundering vessel. Such great speed was made that the Mauretania broke all official records among passenger liners when for a whole hour she maintained a speed of 29 knots. The previous record was made by the same liner several years ago when she maintained a speed of 27.04 knots for an hour. But that was in fair weather, while in her race to the Laleham she was fighting against heavy seas.

It was 3:20 p.m. Wednesday when a wireless from the Laleham was sent down to Capt. Rostron of the Mauretania advising that the freighter was in distress and giving her position.

Capt. Rostron immediately wirelessed, "coming to your assistance full speed, distance 160 miles, speed 25 1-2 knots, expect to arrive 1 a.m."

He ordered the great ship swung off its course to head for its disabled little comrade of the deep, had state rooms prepared for men he hoped to save, and broth made to feed them.

The Mauretania learned an hour and a half later thrugh an intercepted message that the tanker Shirvan, the George Washington of the United States line and an unnamed freighter had also joined the race. The indications were that the Shirvan would be the first on the scene by several hours, but the others all pushed on so that no chance of rescue might be lost.

The Laleham sent out another call saying "please do utmost to arrive before dark." And then the Laleham spoke across the water to the Shirvan asking her if she would stand by when she arrived until the Mauretania got there. The answer from the Shirvan was "believe you in sight nine miles away. Do you wish to abandon ship or for me to take you off?" This was at 5:30 o'clock.

The condition of the Laleham had by this time evidently become acute, as they almost immediately told the Shirvan: "we will abandon ship at once."

The stricken vessel wirelessed the Mauretania that its crew was abandoning the ship and going to the Shirvan but added: "please come ahead."

"We will proceed as long as we can be of assistance," the Mauretania responded and continued to steam on, receiving from moment to moment the record of the rescue.

In the first boat from the Shirvan ninteen men were taken off the Laleham and the sinking hulk was set afire lest it become a menace to navigation. While it burned the remaining eighteen men stood in the glare and waited their turn. In two other boats they too were saved.

Then the Shirvan announced that it was proceeding to Falmouth and no more aid was needed. The three other ships turned quietly back into their scheduled paths.

"One man making a good job of it was enough" Captain Rostron said today. "I did not want to seem to butt in on the rescue."

Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ROME, April 2.—Although no official announcement has been made, the present state visit of the King and Queen of Belgium and their daughter, Princess Marie Jose, to the monarchs of Italy, is for the purpose of arranging the details of the betrothal of the Belgian Princess and Prince Humbert, heir to the Italian throne, according to well-founded reports here. It is understood the engagement will not be announced until September, when the Prince attains his majority.

EARTH GAINS WEIGHT, TOO

Expert Engaged in Tedious Test to Determine Exact Figure as Well as Gravitation Decimal Formula

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Old mother earth, who has been tipping the scientific scales for many years at around 6,000,000,000,000,000,000.000 tons, is having her weight more accurately determined for posterity, but it's a lengthy undertaking and won't be completed for at least another year and a half.

The recent adoption by large oil companies of the instrument known as the torsion balance for finding oil deposits has brought to light the progress being made here in experiments with the same instrument to weigh the entire earth.

For three years, Dr. Paul R. Heyl has been carrying on the trying test in a small room thirty-five feet underground at the Bureau of Standards. He has, on some occasions, held himself in one position there for more than nine hours at a time, so as not to disturb the sway of his delicate instruments. His subsurface retreat was chosen to avoid interference by surface forces.

ONE EXPERIMENT FINISHED

Thus far, only one of three sets of observations has been completed. The second Dr. Heyl expects to finish in June, while the third will take another six months. Since mathematical computations are far behind the observations, it probably will be another year after the third observation is finished before a final figure is reached.

The weight of the earth is looked upon, Dr. Heyl says, as only a side issue in his experiment. For thirty years prior to the start of his work, the law of gravitation has not been investigated and what he mainly is seeking is another decimal for the 6.66 Newtonian constant, a numerical quantity used in determining the force of attraction between the given bodies.

When this figure, which has been tentatively found now to be 6.658, and others are discovered with a greater degree of precision, a mathematical computation is expected by the scientist to reveal this long-hidden secret of the earth.

Dr. Heyl believes the earth is constantly gaining weight through the fall of meteors, but this increase is relatively so slight that it will not affect his experiments. In fact, the weight of the earth is so great that his extremely delicate instruments would not be stirred if the entire human race were suddenly to vanish.

GOLD BALLS USED

First observations with the torsion pendulum, which is a miniature system representing the earth and a body near its surface, were made with gold balls weighing an ounce and a half and 140 pound steel cylinders. Dr. Heyl now is using platinum balls, and when he finishes this observation in June, he will substitute balls of glass of the same weight. Results of the three tests are then to be compared to strike an average.

The balls are suspended on a light rod of aluminum in an air tight case. The rod hangs by a filament of tungsten about a thousandth of an inch in diameter, which swings back and forth in an arc. The steel cylinders are placed close to the case on the outside, and the force of attraction is measurable only in millionths of a grain. It took eleven months to install the apparatus.

The result of the test, Dr. Heyl believes, will provide valuable material for astronomers, oil prospectors and students of the earth's interior.

IOWA MULE RESENTS UNDUE FAMILIARITY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

VILLISCA (Iowa) April 2.—Tribute to his mule in form of a friendly slap on the animal's haunch, resulted in the death of Emil Hecke, a farmer living near here, yesterday. Hecke took some friends into the barn to show them his mules. Pausing near one, he slapped the animal and said: "Here's a real mule." The mule kicked Hecke in the abdomen. He died almost instantly.

PRESIDENT WANTS COAL ENACTMENT

Believes Present Session Should Pass Measure to Protect Public in Strike

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Congress should enact coal legislation before the present session adjourns, in the opinion of President Coolidge, so that any future labor troubles in the mine fields will not leave the public without fuel.

The House Commerce Committee, now taking testimony on various phases of the coal industry, would do well, Mr. Coolidge believes, to frame its legislation around recommendations submitted by the Presidential Coal Commission after its investigation of the industry only a few years ago. Two definite provisions for handling the coal-labor problem stand out in the President's mind as essential to any effective legislation:

Presidential authority to appoint a strike mediation board, and machinery for coal administration in event of a strike.

Before it attempts to draft a bill the House committee should, in the opinion of Mr. Coolidge, call all the interested parties, including miners, operators and members of the Cabinet, who would be concerned with any labor disputes in the coal fields.

Representative Jacobstein, Democrat, New York, urged the House committee today to enact legislation to unify the coal industry under government control, adding that the industry itself could consolidate its activities if the government would permit it. He has introduced a bill to create a fact-finding bureau and an emergency board to hear wage disputes in the industry.

Burbank Held Well on Path to Recovery

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SANTA ROSA, April 2.—Luther Burbank appeared today to have definitely entered on the convalescent stage of his illness. His physician, Dr. Joseph H. Shaw, visited him and later issued the following bulletin:

"Mr. Burbank's general condition continues favorable. He has had five hours of restful sleep since midnight. His temperature is 98.8, pulse, 110; respiration, 18, and blood pressure, 110.70."

Visitors are still being denied the patient, but he is more cheerful than at any time since his illness began. He is taking nourishment in an encouraging manner.

DAWES SECRECY RULE ATTACKED

Senator Defies Gag on Vote in Executive Session

Vice-President Stands Pat and Refuses Reversal

Pittman Offers Resolution Amending Procedure

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Vice-President Dawes's ruling that under the present Senate rules a Senator cannot tell his constituents how he voted in executive session, drew fire today in the Senate.

Senator Overman, Democrat, North Carolina, one of the patriarchs of the Senate, jumped to his feet and challenged the ruling, declaring it had always been a custom of the Senate to permit a Senator to tell how he voted in an executive session. He added that he already had told how he voted in the recent confirmation of Thomas H. Woodlock as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and he defied the Senate to punish him under the rules.

He was supported by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, who thought the ruling could be nullified by a Senator saying in advance how he would vote. He explained that he had done that in the Woodlock incident.

The Vice-President refused to change his decision, however, and Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, who had started the controversy by offering a resolution to amend the rules to permit the publication of a vote in executive session, declared the Vice-President's ruling was correct and served to show the "errors" of the present rules.

He served notice that he will force the Senate to vote on this resolution and another providing for consideration of nominations in open session. He declared the secrecy surrounding the Woodlock vote had challenged the dignity of the Senate, which was being assailed in the press as being "cowardly and attempting to conceal something from the people."

NEEDLE GOES THROUGH BODY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOZEMAN (Mont.) April 2.—An errant needle, whose wanderings perhaps constitute a remarkable incident in surgical history has just been removed from the body of Miss Margaret Carolus, a Bozeman girl who went to Butte for the operation. While in school, thirteen years ago, Miss Carolus complained of a pain in her back. Her teacher found a needle, barely protruding from the flesh, near the spine. While assistance was being sought, the needle disappeared. In succeeding years the needle was located in the girl's leg and again in her back. Finally, it lodged in her kidneys and the operation, just successfully performed was decided on.

VOTE ON RELIEF BILL INDEFINITE

House Committee to Continue Agricultural Debate

Members to Put Proposals Up to Secretary Jardine

Cotton Growers to Demand Price Stabilization

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Hearings on farm relief before the House Agriculture Committee are to go on indefinitely and before action is taken on any proposals Secretary Jardine will be consulted.

This program was agreed to by the committee today after a discussion as to whether the hearings, which have been in progress for some time, should be brought to a close at the end of next week.

Termination of the hearings has been urged by members of Congress, who fear that unless a bill is reported shortly legislative relief requested by representatives of corn-belt farmers will not be afforded at this session. Representative Hall, Republican, North Dakota, who said his constituents were "getting impatient," took the lead today in urging the committee, of which he is a member, to speed up action.

AUTHORS EXPLAIN BILLS

Determined to proceed with the examination of witnesses, the committee again heard Representative Little, Democrat, Kansas, in support of his bills to fix prices, to provide for storage of surplus crops and to prohibit speculation. He was followed by Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, who explained the provisions of his bill, which in principle is similar to the corn-belt measure, but provides for the collection of an equalization fee on more commodities.

Neither his proposal nor the corn belt bill, in Mr. Dickinson's opinion, would result in governmental price fixing.

Appearing before the Senate Agriculture Committee, William Hirth, chairman of the Corn Belt Committee, said that unless farmers are afforded relief many would migrate to cities and break the wage scale, with suffering and misery resulting.

"The patience of farmers is about threadbare, and something must be done," he told the committee, adding that there is still a wholesome spirit among them and that radicalism had made little inroad in the rural section.

Representatives of cotton-growing States met today with the southern Congressional delegation and discussed plans to stabilize the price of cotton.

REGULATION URGED

Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, author of the Cotton Futures Act, declared that some means should be provided to regulate the flow of cotton to the spinners in an orderly manner.

"If this is done," he asserted, "the price of cotton will become stabilized and the manufacturer can afford to buy ahead with the assurance that his competitor will have to pay the same price. This will encourage cotton goods manufacturers to go out and develop markets and increase consumption.

"There never has been a surplus of cotton over a general period of thirty years, but, on the other hand, there has been a shortage. Some machinery must be set up to take care of the heavy production of some years and portion it out over the lean years."

The cotton delegation will hold a series of conferences in the hope that a satisfactory arrangement can be made for them to join the western grain farmers in a farm relief bill.

GROWERS WARNED OF WORLD COMPETITION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DALLAS (Tex.) April 2.—Cotton will continue to be "a poor man's crop," due to hordes of cheap laborers in India and other cotton-producing areas of the world, "who live at a much lower standard than Americans," Shepherd W. King, Dallas cotton merchant and farmer, told the economics session of the Southwestern Political and Social Science Association meeting today. The cotton farmer must dismiss the idea of sitting on the fence while his crop is made, Mr. King said.

"If we of the South continue to raise cotton and expect to receive as high as 20 cents a pound for it," Mr. King declared, "we must expect competition from the entire world that ultimately may put us out of the running."

Objection to the semimonthly cotton crop reports of the United States Department of Agriculture was voiced by Mr. King. He said these reports tend to bring on dull periods in the cotton market both before and after their issuance, through the withdrawal of the spinners as buyers because of uncertainty. Such withdrawals, he said, tend to lower the price to the farmer, who is "entitled to all the return possible for his crop."

WEALTHY DIVORCEE JAILS FAKE PRINCE

Mrs. Enid P. Riggs

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 2.—Mrs. Enid P. Riggs, wealthy divorcee of Glencoe, Ill., has just returned to her home after a most adventurous European trip, which included the jailing of a bogus prince, who attempted to fleece her of $30,000 worth of jewels.

It was largely because of publicity attending her experience with the Principe De Treviso, the assumed name of the counterfeit nobleman, that Mrs. Riggs closed up her apartment at 44 Rue De Nicelo, Paris.

Unaware that he was a crook, Mrs. Riggs accompanied him several times to the glittering night clubs and diamond-studded cafes of gay Paris.

WORK GOES ON DESPITE BAY STRIKE

Union Carpenters Replaced by Skilled Men Who Carry on San Francisco Building

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The second day of the walkout of union carpenters brought no interruption in construction anywhere in the bay region. Places of those who walked out were filled by skilled mechanics, of whom the Industrial Association of San Francisco says it has an ample supply.

Senator Boynton, managing director of the association, reported that tonight's check showed 250 carpenters out on about 120 jobs. The total in Berkeley and Oakland is sixty-two.

Norman McLean, secretary-treasurer of the Bay Counties District Council of Carpenters, said that the union is satisfied with the situation. The last tabulation made by the union indicated that slightly more than 1000 men have walked out.

Reuben King, a nonunion carpenter, charged that five union men working with him on the job decided to walk out, and then attacked him. He was struck with a heavy plank in the hands of one of the five, by a piece of concrete thrown by another, and by a hammer wielded by a third.

Withholding of Water to Farms in Arrears Valid

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Action of the Reclamation Bureau in refusing to furnish irrigation water to farmers on projects in arrears in their payments to the government for a period exceeding a year, was upheld by Secretary Work today.

He declared that no other course is possible under the law, but that the passage of the omnibus reclamation adjustment bill now before Congress will be a material relief to the situation.

Catherine, the Terrible, Who Evaded Death as Slayer, Arrested

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

SVERDLOVSK (Ekaterinburg, Russia) April 2. — Catherine Planovsky, who has a record of having murdered and robbed dozens of victims, again is in the toils of the law. The public prosecutor asserts that her exploits have covered a long period of years.

In 1921 "Catherine, the Terrible," as she is known, was sentenced to death at Chita for murder and was taken from prison to be shot. When the firing squad discharged their rifles the woman fell to the ground and feigned death. Not a bullet had struck her. The soldiers, believing her dead, returned to the prison barracks, while Planovsky made a quick escape. During the ensuing five years, according to the prosecutor's statement, no home in the Urals was safe from the depredations of the band of male robbers Catherine headed, and no person secure from murderous attacks.

Cities he will visit ni which city managers are operating include Phoenix, Pasadena, Long Beach, Stockton, Alameda and Berkeley.

CONGRESS TOLD TO USE BRAKES

Coolidge Warns of Deficit Next Year

Expects Tax Payments to Show Decline

Not Surprised by Returns of First Quarter

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2. — The increase of almost $60,000,000 in income-tax collections for the March quarter over receipts of a year ago when the rates were higher was looked upon today at the White House as the result of improved business conditions fostered by taxpayers' anticipation of the rate reductions.

At the same time another warning to Congress to hold down on proposed increases in permanent expenses of the government was issued on behalf of President Coolidge, who believes a deficit in 1927 still is a dangerous probability.

EXPECTS DECLINE

Final statistics issued today by the Treasury showed collections for the quarter were slightly less than $500,000,000, or $100,000,000 more than it was estimated would be received, but no surprise over the heavy receipts was shown at the White House.

In fact, President Coolidge believes the large collections were quite natural. He holds the opinion, however, that the returns for the next three-quarters of the year under the new tax law will materially decrease, and that the full effect of the widespread tax reductions ordered by Congress will not be felt until the end of the year.

One reason for the heavy collections this quarter, as seen by the President, is the likelihood that many taxpayers already have paid their total tax, rather than use the quarterly installment system.

CONCERNED FOR FUTURE

The President had counted on the Treasury surplus which appears inevitable at the end of this fiscal year, June 30, but it is the next fiscal year, for which Congress is now appropriating, that is causing him concern.

The gross public debt of the nation was cut during March to $20,082,740,991, or by $193,402,049, the Treasury stated today. At the same time the general fund chargeable also against the debt was increased from $340,832,406 to $486,841,846 and the net reduction in the debt during the month actually amounted to $389,516,489.

Wrestler Lewis in Street Fight, Appears at Bar

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, April 2.—A free gate and no purse marked Ed "Strangler" Lewis's latest appearance as a heavyweight grappler today. The "Strangler" and Lowell L. Weber, a 52-year-old broker, scored a draw before Municipal Judge Padden.

"Call it a draw," said Judge Padden, "and I would suggest that Mr. Lewis give the gentleman tickets for his next match."

The "affair" started when the combatants' automobiles scraped fenders. Angry words followed.

"I usually spank people who talk like that to me," Lewis is quoted as having said. Whereupon Mr. Wheeler smote Mr. Lewis on the lip. For a brief period spectators saw Lewis use his fists, but the "Strangler" found his opponetn capable and finally resorted to his profession until both resembled snow men.

Druses Flee at Opening of New French Attack

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BEIRUT (Syria) April 2.—The French began an offensive against the Druse tribesmen in Southern Lebanon this morning.

French authorities here say the movement opened under the most favorable auspices, and that the Druses are fleeing in disorder, leaving a number of dead.

A French column marching from Arnous toward Kouneitra (forty miles southwest of Damascus) drove off the rebels after a serious engagement. A column moving on Kouneitra from Ezra routed another Druse band which, according to French advices, left many dead, together with quantities of arms and ammunition.

TURKS MODIFY BAN

Discrimination in Occupation Aid To Foreigners

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2.—The Turkish government has modified its order of last December barring foreigners from engaging in certain occupations. In consequence of objections raised by the embassies of the foreigners concerned the Minister of the Interior has issued a new order stating that foreigners established in Turkey before Jan. 1, 1923, shall not be debarred from the stated occupations until accords have been reached with the foreign powers concerned.

The occupations which the original order limited exclusively to Turkish citizens are those of physician, lawyer, dentist, pharmacist, longshoreman, boatman, fisherman, peddler, porter, bootblack and waiter.

AUTO HITS CHILDREN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 2.—Two children in the same family were hit by the same automobile here when a car driven by Mrs. Crystal E. Schubert, went on a rampage. Helen Allen, 6 years of age, was playing in the edge of the street when the car struck and knocked her to the pavement. The driver veered the machine sharply across the street to a sandpile where Bobby, 7, Helen's brother was playing. He was struck and injured. Both children were taken to the hospital.

"EVA" WILL WED

Vivian Duncan Admits It But Keeps His Name Hidden

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 2.—Vivian Duncan, one of the two sisters celebrated in the name parts of the "Topsy and Eva" musical show, disclosed today upon her arrival in Chicago that she intends to marry "a future Chicago bank president." Pressed to disclose his identity Miss Duncan imparted that he was "the son of a prominent Chicago family."

"Vivian's best friend in Chicago is Edward Lehman, Jr., son of E. J. Lehman, one of the former owners of the Fair Department Store," suggested Mrs. Lawrence Whiting, Miss Duncan's hostess.

"Eddie is my best friend," Miss Duncan admitted. "I think the world of him."

But she shook her blond, crispy trimmed curls when asked to affirm a report that he was her fiance.

Lehman is 22 years of age, and has been employed lately in the Boulevard Bridge Bank of which Mr. Whiting is the president.

MEXICO DIVORCE UP

Chicago Court Will Rule Today as to Validity of Bucken Decree

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 2.—Edward W. Bucken, stock broker, will know his "international divorce" and bigamy fate tomorrow, when Judge Sabath decides whether he was guilty of violating Illinois marriage laws when he divorced his wife, Mrs. Clara Bucken, in Mexico, and married Mrs. Lydia Granger, who obtained a divorce from John H. Granger on the same day in the same Mexican court.

Judge Sabath listened to Bucken's story at a hearing to settle the validity of a decree of separate maintenance entered in favor of Mrs. Bucken after the date Bucken's Mexican decree was filed her suit first, but got decree last.

Wide interest was manifested in "divorce circles" over the outcome of this case, for it will mean strengthening or weakening of the position of Mexico as a divorce mecca.

The New Harmonies in Awnings

COMBINING separate color tones in such a way that the resulting awning pattern is both harmonious and unusual — that is the particular art of SWANFELDT designing.

You will find this remarkably exemplified in the new SWANFELDT AWNINGS now in vogue. Here are distinctive harmonies in awning color effects that lend themselves perfectly to the artistic decoration of imposing homes. Because the scroll design subdues the bolder shades to a more gradual contrast, it is appropriate for all types of architecture.

If you will telephone, our representative will bring you samples and show you the wonderful possibilities of enhancing your home's attractiveness with SWANFELDT AWNINGS. We have many beautiful new stripe patterns, if you prefer them.

Embarrassing eruption on face disgrace when Resinol is used
Medford, Mass., May 28:—"For some time I had been troubled with an eruption on my face which nothing I tried seemed to relieve. I had read about Resinol and decided to give it a trial. For a week I bathed my face every night with hot water and Resinol Soap and then spread on a thick coating of Resinol Ointment. By that time the eruption had entirely disappeared. I cannot praise the Resinol products too highly." (Signed) Lillian Hull.

MRS. HARKNESS WILLS MILLIONS

Specific Bequests Amount to $36,250,000

Large Sums Anticipated by Gifts During Lifetime

Museums, Churches, Schools and Libraries Beneficiaries

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Specific bequests to organizations totaling $36,250,000 are made in the will of Mrs. Stephen V. Harkness, wife of one of the earliest partners of John D. Rockefeller, in her will filed for probate today. She died March 27, last.

Bequests totaling $26,000,000 are estimated to have been anticipated by gifts made during her lifetime, and other bequests totaling $2,250,000 have been partly anticipated. The will provided that all bequests should be reduced by gifts made during her life and subsequent to January 1, 1926.

ANTICIPATED BY GIFTS

The following bequests were anticipated by gifts: The commonwealth fund, $20,000,000; the Presbyterian Hospital in the city of New York, $1,500,000; Yale University, $2,000,000; the Metropolitan Museum of Art, $1,000,000; the New York Public Library, $1,000,000; the Fifth-Avenue Presbyterian Church, $250,000; Flower Hospital, $25,000.

The following bequests have been partly anticipated by gifts: The Church Extension Commission of the Presbytery of New York, $1,000,000; the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, $750,000; the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, $500,000.

MANY NOT ANTICIPATED

The following have not been anticipated: The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, $2,500,000; the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in America, $2,500,000; the American Museum of Natural History, $1,000,000; the New York Zoological Society, $1,000,000; the State Charities Aid Society of New York, $500,000; the Charity Organization Society of the city of New York, $25,000; New York Association for Improving Condition of the Poor, $25,000; the Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, $50,000; Cleveland Homeopathic Hospital, $10,000; Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church of Caledonia, $15,000.

In addition to all this Mrs. Harkness gave $200,000 to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward S. Harkness; about $175,000 to persons in her employ, and made her son, Edward S. Harkness, residuary legatee. The son is appointed sole executor without bond.

Military Burial Rites Conducted for Gen. Flores

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

CULIACAN (Sinaloa Mex) April 2.—Gen. Angel Flores, for sixteen years a political and military leader on the West Coast of Mexico and in 1924 an aspirant to the Presidency of the Republic, was buried here yesterday. Funeral services were conducted at the Cathedral. A special military escort was provided and conducted the services at the grave.

HAROLD McCORMICK APPEALS FUND CASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

INDIANAPOLIS, April 2.—Attorneys for Harold McCormick of Chicago, and Mathilde McCormick Oser, Muriel and Fowler McCormick, children of Harold and Edith Rockefeller McCormick, today appealed from the recent United States District Court order dismissing a petition for an injunction to restrain the payment of $7,500,000 stock dividends from a trust fund to Mrs. McCormick.

STATE HAS GHOST COUNTIES

References to Political Units That Might Have Been Are Found in Library Files

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—Fifty and more are the phantom counties of California; the counties that were to have been and were not, or that were for a while then vanished. One still encounters them, these ghosts of political units flitting about the archives in the Capitol Building here or cluttering up the card indices of the State Library.

Aromas is one. Today the name suggests a perfume or a cigarette advertisement, but in 1856, if all had gone well, it might have become a county. Suprise is another, and those who in 1872 attempted to create it out of portions of three northern counties no doubt were surprised when their efforts failed.

Pautah was cooly constructed by the Legislature of 1852 out of Utah territory, but seven years later the act creating it was repealed. Washoe county would have been established if Congress had heeded a joint resolution asking the cession of California of the necessary portion of what now is Nevada.

Branciforte county was created in 1850, and later was absorbed in Santa Cruz county. Klamath, California's northwesternmost county in 1851, was dissolved in 1874. Mt. Diablo is today part of Contra Costa county. Buena Vista was created in 1855; it was supplanted later by Kern county. As for the others, call the roll alphabetically and only echo answers:

Alta, Alturas, Anaheim, Aveno, Benicia, Bidwell, Buchanan, Canby, Chico, Coloma Coso, Donner, Eureka, Esmeralda, Folsom, Fremont, Granite, Jefferson, Leco, Manache, Marshall, Mokelumne, Molino, Natoma, Oro, Orestimba, Pajaro, Pomona, Purisima, Putnam, Reading, Remondo, San Antonio, Santa Ana, Santa Rita, San Jacinto, San Leandro, Santa Ynez, Summit, Tehachapi, Trejon, Vallejo and Yosemite.

HELP WANTED: GANDY DANCERS

Vacancies Also Exist for Cat Skinners, Pearl Divers, Mud Larks, Setter Chokers, Whistle Punks, Grunts, or What Are You? Jobs Sound More Thrilling Than They Are

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—This is the time of year when cat skinners, pearl divers and setter chokers are in big demand in the employment agencies of Sacramento, which is one of the largest labor markets on the Pacific Coast.

Other jobs open, according to the legends chalked or placarded on the bulletin boards of "employment row" here today, included places for gandy dancers, muckers, sappers, swampers, jack-hammerers, donkey-punchers, grunts, baskos, whistle punks, peelers, wood butchers and mud larks.

Most of the accelerated demand for laborers is due to the spring boom in lumbering, agriculture and, to a lesser extent, mining. As for the language in which employment opportunities are offered, it is far more romantic than the opportunities themselves.

Cat skinners are operators of caterpillar engines in lumber camps and on farms. A pearl diver is a dishwasher; a setter choker is a lumber camp worker who specializes in removing trees; a gandy dancer is a section hand; a mud lark is an experienced sewer digger, and a whistle junk is a signalman attached to the donkey engine crew in logging camps.

SCORE SLAIN IN CALCUTTA STREET RIOT

Hundred and Fifty Also Injured During Clash of Hindu Sect and Moslems

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, April 2.—A furious fight took place in Calcutta, India, today between a Hindu sect and Moslems and, according to one estimate, twenty persons were killed and 150 injured.

The Calcutta correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph says that the riot began with the approach to a mosque in the northern part of the city of a procession with music led by the Arya Samaj sect of Hindus, enemies of the Moslems. Fighting developed when the Moslems tried to bar the way, the trouble soon spreading to other streets.

Deputy Police Commissioner Bartley and another European, Sergt. Davis, who went to the commissioner's assistance, were slightly hurt.

The correspondent says that the scene of the rioting tonight had the appearance of a deserted city. Police patrolled the streets and all the shops remained closed.

Says Air Mail Plans Will be Increased Soon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 2.—Postmaster-General Harry S. New came here today to talk shop with Rudolph I. Brauer, superintendent of railway and air mail.

The chief of Uncle Sam's postal business indicated that the commercial air program is to mount in importance soon. He spoke of passenger and express services not as vague dreams but probabilities. He said he believed the government should make more lighted airways so that the principal trunk lines can be used at night. He told of contracts for new aerial-mail routes. The time may not be far off, Mr. New indicated, when the air system may greatly resemble the rail system.

"We want the air-mail routes conducted with railroad efficiency and with time schedules as reliable as those of the railroads," he said.

FACES DEATH TRIAL

Richard Reese Whittemore Threatens to Take Gang With Him

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) April 2.—Richard Reese Whittemore came back to Buffalo today to face trial for the murder of two bank employees in a $93,000 robbery here last October.

"Before I burn, all the rest of the six in this Buffalo job will burn with me," he told Detective Chief Roche during the trip from New York.

Within eight hours the Buffalo police received word that the last known member of the Whittemore gang, Morris H. Weinzimmer, known as Zimmer, had been arrested in Cleveland, O.

LADY DIANA'S MOTHER SCOFFS AT FACE DOCTOR

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

SOUTHAMPTON (Eng.) April 2. When the liner Olympic docked here today on the voyage from New York, the Dowager Duchess of Rutland, mother of Lady Diana Manners, actress, announced that her daughter, who crossed the ocean with her, had disembarked at Cherbourg. At the French port Lady Diana entrained for Paris en route to Spain for a holiday. On landing here the Duchess characterized as "perfectly monstrous and unfounded" the assertion of a Chicago plastic surgeon that Lady Diana owed him money for a "face lifting" operation.

ALIEN GUARD FACES TASK AT BORDERS

Rejections at Lines Six Times More Than at Ports, Month's Report Shows

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—An idea of the problems facing the immigration forces on the Canadian and Mexican borders is indicated in figures issued today by the Labor Department showing 1249 of the 1453 aliens debarred from entry in February were turned back at the border stations. The remainder were rejected at seaports.

There was a net gain of 18,990 immigrants during that month, 30,763 coming in, while 11,683 departed. Of the 20,041 who came to establish permanent residence, nearly one-half were from Europe.

New York led all others as the settling grounds for immigrants for the eight months ending with February, but her net gain in population was shown to be exceedingly small compared with prewar years. A total of 4468 immigrant aliens during that period gave New York as their destination, while 21,998 left the State.

Michigan and Texas both showed proportional net gains greater than New York. The former received 21,307, while 2401 were leaving and Texas got 10,005, while only 1016 left. The Southern States showed their usual small gains by immigration.

Lawyer Denies Judge English Will Step Out

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

EAST ST. LOUIS, (Ill.), April 2.—Bruce Campbell, attorney for Federal Judge English, who faces impeachment charges preferred by the House yesterday, issued a statement today declaring that there is "not a chance on earth" that the jurist will resign, and that he will "fight all the way through."

The idea that English might resign, Campbell said, "is only propaganda of those to whom the wish is father of the thought and who realize that there is not a chance of conviction in the Senate.

"His counsel have every confidence that in the Senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, Judge English will receive a fair and impartial trial at the hands of men of high character and ability, whose only consideration will be the law and the evidence. With that kind of a trial before such a tribunal we have no fear as to the result."

SHAWLS LIKE INDIAN BLANKETS POPULAR

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, April 2.—Geronimo, Sitting Bull and other American chiefs have broken into London society through introduction of shawls bearing their names and copied from styles of the red men's blankets of the early frontier days. The Indian blanket effect, exclusively for evening wear, is rapidly replacing the Spanish wrap which has so long been in use that dame fashion has positively tired of it. Instead of being of wool, the Indian blanket shawl is made of velvet.

BRITISH FORCES ROUT SYRIANS AND ARABS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BAGDAD (Irak) April 2.—British armored cars and airplanes used as reinforcements for Irak detachments guarding the Irak-Syrian frontier participated in a skirmish today against 2000 Syrian and Arab tribesmen who attacked the Irak troops. The tribesmen fled in disorder, leaving forty-five dead and carrying away many wounded. British officers restrained the Irak troops from pursuing the enemy across the frontier.

AMERICA HOLDS HEALTH RECORD

Epidemiological Report to League Published

Measles More Prevalent Than Influenza

Improvement Shown in Disease War in Palestine

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Except for a return of an old-fashioned measles epidemic, the United States continues to hold the record of the world for good health, according to the latest epidemiological report of the health committee of the League of Nations, which has been received by the League of Nations Nonpartisan Association in New York. Influenza, which has been this country's most popular epidemic of recent years, is giving way to a return of measles. While the influenza prevalence has remained about the same for the past three years, measles are on the increase.

Scarlet fever cases are numerous, according to the League's report, which records incidence of 6196 cases of the disease in twenty-seven of the most populous States of this country during the year 1925. Diphtheria cases in the same States over the same period numbered 3060; influenza 1862 and typhus only 23.

Despite the United States' exemplary bill of health, Palestine occupies the limelight in this latest League report, because of the increase of epidemics during the year. For centuries the buffer country between eastern and western Moslem and Christian religious pilgrims to the shrines of Bethlehem and Mecca, and the home of 103,331 wandering Bedouins, Palestine has been an easy prey to disease. Malaria and trachoma have been the particular hoodoos of the country. The League of Nations recently sent a malaria commission into Palestine. As a result the percentage of malaria cases in the thirty-three dispensaries where 250,000 patients are treated annually, decreased from 7.2 per cent in 1922 to 3.9 per cent last year. There were only two deaths from malaria in Jerusalem last year, against 113 in nine months of the previous year. As for trachoma, 60 per cent of the school children were found to be affected and are now under observation.

A quarantine control of pilgrims has been one of the most effective means of reducing malaria. The gradual draining of swamps in Haifa and Jaffa has also produced results.

Measles abound in Palestine, as in the United States, and in nearly every country of the north temperate belt. Out of about 7000 cases in Palestine, 1300 proved fatal.

The bubonic plague as reported to the League is curiously rotating. In the old countries, where it formerly exacted a huge toll in lives anuually, the plague is on the decrease. In new countries, where it was not known before 1922, or even before 1924, as Banjumas, it is spreading rapidly.

Typhus has broken out anew in Czecho-Slovakia, and the cholera in Siam. Mexico has the smallpox and the measles; Hawaii has been visited by a diphtheria scourge; Cuba has a touch of malaria and Canada has the scarlet fever.

MOTHER TOSSES BABY FROM WINDOW TO TREE

NEW YORK, April 2.—The parents of Pauline London, 19 years of age, of 340 Dahill Road, called the police of the Parkville station to ask aid in getting her newborn child out of a tree four feet below her window. According to the police, the mother became hysterical and threw it from the window. An ambulance from Israel Zion Hospital and a police detail were sent to the London home. A ladder was put into the tree and the baby, which had been in the tree for two hours, was found uninjured by the fall and exposure. It was restored to the mother, whose recovery, said Ambulance Surgeon Miner who attended her, will be hastened by knowing that her irresponsible act did not cause the baby's death as she had feared.

MAN TAKES POSITION RESIGNED BY WOMAN

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

NORWICH, April 2.—Miss Turner, the solitary bird watcher on the island of Scalt Head, in a remote part of North Norfolk, has decided to quit her post to which she was appointed by the Norfolk and Norwich Naturalists' Society. Dr. Sidney Long of Norwich, the honorary secretary of the society, says Miss Turner's job was really too much for any woman to tackle as the island is a lonely stretch four miles long and requires a great deal of physical exercise to get about from one end to another. A local man has now been appointed as a whole-time watcher.

TEXAN CLAIMS STEAM-ROLLER CHAMPIONSHIP

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) April 2. Forty years ago William Nixon, then 19 years of age, climbed up into the driver's seat of a steam roller and received his first lessons in how to make it go. Since that time Nixon has been piloting a steam road roller continuously, and lays claim to the "steam roller distance championship of the world," with a record of more than 325,000 miles. He is still employed by the city after more than thirty years' service.

VETERAN TO RETIRE

NEW YORK, April 2.—The oldest policeman on active duty in New York, rounding out fifty-two years on the force, is going to quit. He is Patrolman William E. Wells, 78 years of age, attached to seventh division, who resides at 58 Curtis avenue, West Brighton, Staten Island. He plans to visit California.

Prisoners Who Fled Road Camp Taken in North

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—Two prisoners who escaped from the Bloss convict-labor camp on Merced River early this morning were captured at Bagby in Mariposa county by Deputy Sheriff Bagby tonight after an all-day search, directed by Ben Milliken, State superintendent of convict road camps, who is here on an inspection tour. A reward of $400, subscribed by prisoners at the camp, will be paid to Deputy Bagby.

The convicts who broke the honor system of the camp are Francisco Vasquez, serving a four-year term for burglary committed in Los Angeles county, and Pablo Ciaz, serving five years for burglary committed in Shasta county.

Senate Votes Forestry Fund to Southland

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Senate passed today, without a record vote, a bill to safeguard the endangered agricultural and municipal interests and to protect the forest cover on the Santa Barbara, Angeles, San Bernardino and Cleveland National Forests from destruction by fire.

It provides $1,000,000 for the purpose, $200,000 being available immediately. The measure goes to the House.

NEW ROUTE PLANNED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AMARILLO (Tex.) April 2.—In order to avoid the present heavy maintenance cost of that part of its line between Amarillo and Dalhart, eighty-one miles, the Fort Worth and Denver City, which is part of the Burlington system, proposes to change its route by constructing a new road that will run north from Amarillo to the northern part of Moore county, thence west to Dalhart. Survey for the proposed new route is now being made and application for the necessary permit of construction will be made soon, it is stated.

TEMPERATURES OF SOIL NOTED

Records Made at Agricultural Experiment Station

Automatic Thermometer Helps University Scientists

Study May Prove of Enormous Value to Ranchers

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—No pampered patient in a sanatorium for ailing multimillionaires ever has half as much attention paid to his fluctuating temperature as research men at the University of California agricultural experiment station near here pay to the temperaure of a certain patch of quite ordinary soil.

In charge of this particular work is Dr. Alfred Smith. He has assisting him a sort of mechanical trained nurse—a device known as an automatic temperature recorder, which thrusts a thermometer under the tongue of old Mother Earth every 52.8 seconds.

After twenty-four hours of duty this mechanical nurse hands the doctors a temperature record containing no less than 1536 entries. At the end of a recording season of ten months Dr. Smith has nearly half a million temperature notations on which to base his estimate of the "patient's condition."

To make a thorough job of it, sixteen thermometers are used. Divided among five different plots of earth, they tell the temperature of the soil at depths varying from half an inch to three feet.

The purpose of this painstaking research is to obtain accurate data on temperature changes from season to season at various depths, and in conjunction with this the moisture changes. Also under investigation is the effect of various soil covers, such as paper mulch, on soil temperature and moisture.

One is inclined to ask why so much study is lavished on soil temperature, until one recalls the attention any farmer pays to air temperature, particularly if he is a fruit grower and frost is on the calendar. Once the soil temperatures of California are charted, the far-reaching practical results may include the hastening to still earlier maturity of such premium-bringing crops as Imperial Valley strawberries, lettuce and cantaloupes. These products already bring prices in the midwinter markets of the East. To be able to deliver them to New York and Chicago tables a month earlier would mean thousands of dollars in extra profits to the grower.

Woman Too Ill to Face Trial in Hammer Death

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) April 2. Mrs. Mabel Longworth Sheridan, under indictment in connection with the killing of Mrs. Ada McCobb, wealthy recluse, lies seriously ill at her father's home and is unable to face trial in Ninety-Fourth District Court, Judge W. W. McCrory has granted a continuance, a setting of the case to be made later.

Unless Mrs. Sheridan recovers, the actual details of the tragedy in the boarding-house in Harlandale, suburb of San Antonio, where Mrs. Ada McCobb was found beaten into unconsciousness in September, 1925, will go untold.

It was in response to a frantic telephone call from Mrs. Sheridan's mother that officers rushed to the Laclede-avenue home in Harlandale on the day of the tragedy. They found Mrs. McCobb lying in a pool of blood in her upstairs room. A claw-hammer, also bloody, was near by. She died a few hours later. Mrs. Sheridan was arrested shortly afterward. She asserted she had struck in self-defense.

OFFICERS INTEND TO STOP CATTLE THEFTS

RANGERS AND OTHER AUTHORITIES CONFER AT BROWNSVILLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) April 2. A group of rangers, special officers and regular peace officers assembled at District Court here, expressed the home of ending, during the present term of court, cattle stealing that has been prevalent in the northern2corner of Cameron county for the past twenty-five years.

Trial of the first man indicted by the Cameron county grand jury, Charlie Villareal, on charge of cattle theft, was set for the 5th inst.

Villareal is charged jointly with Modesto Vasquez and Jose Guerrero, who were sentenced to the penitentiary by the Willacy County District Criminal Court at its January term. Villareal also is under indictment in the Willacy County Court, and will be tried there later.

The officers hope to round up the cattle-theft gang which has been operating around Combes in Cameron county, and near Sebastian and Raymondville, in Willacy county, before the present term is over. A large portion of the meat sold in the northern end of the county comes from cattle stolen and slaughtered in the brush, according to Col. Sam Robertson, re-signed Sheriff, who has investigated the situation.

DELINQUENT GASOLINE TAX PENALTY DEFINED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—An interpretation of the penalty provision of the State gasoline tax law is made by Atty.-Gen. Webb in an opinion received today by State Controller Riley. Webb holds that a distributor who files his statement of gallons sold in accordance with the act, but who does not pay his tax in the time required by law, is subject to a penalty of 10 per cent of the amount of his tax. A distributor who does not file his statement on time not only is liable for the amount assessed against him, ruled Webb, but also for an additional 25 per cent of the tax and for 7 per cent and interest on the whole. However, he does not become liable for the 10 per cent penalty.

BAD-CHECK PROCEEDS GO QUICKLY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DENVER, April 2.—On what does a top-class forger, in the habit of "nicking" $500 per bogus signature, spend the gains of his chirographic skill?

Well, take an itemized statement of John Fawcett, arrested by Patrolman Van Dyke and operatives of a local detective agency on charges of forging the name of Mrs. Edith Samuelson, a Denver hotel-keeper, to two checks for $500 each.

The statement explains the disposition of only one of the checks, but Fawcett said the proceeds of the other went much the same way, according to the police, and added that the profits of most forgers are spent in what he described as a "similar la-de-da" fashion, in a tuneful world of sparkle and rich color and silken ease, which, he is now convinced, is but the anteroom to the gray discomfort of prison.

Here is the statement, covering only a few days, which Fawcett prepared in his jail cell:

Dinners, with women and other extras	$125
Diamond ring for sweetie	65
One party for sweetie	50
Two dresses for sweetie	150
Incidentals	60
Another party for sweetie	50
Total	$490

"Did I have a good time?" said Fawcett. "Well, after I was discharged from prison the last time I only made $12.50 a week for a while, so it seemed that I was having a good time. But, believe me, buddy, it was only make-believe."

FAMED ACTOR BURIED

Son Leaves Prison to Attend Rites for Jacob P. Adler

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Jacob P. Adler, 71 years of age, widely known actor, was carried to his grave today amid circumstances in keeping with the tragic roles which he often played on the stages of East Side theaters. Among the mourners was his son Irving, convicted counterfeiter, for whom the gates of Sing Sing swung open that he might attend the funeral.

Thousands of the East Side's Ghetto thronged the streets as the tragedian's body was borne from the Hebrew Actors' Club, in Seventh street. Services were conducted in Kessler's Theater at Second avenue and Second street.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 2.—Cecil Rice, 18 years of age, and George L. White, 21, of Toelle, south of here, were sentenced to prison for fifteen years on an indeterminate sentence today for a statutory crime. Both were charged with taking young girls for an automobile ride, when the asserted crime was committed.

AIR HERO WORKS AS SURVEYOR

Shenandoah Crash Wrecks High Hopes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOMS RIVER (N. J.) April 2. Capt. Anton Heinen, former German dirigible expert, construction engineer of the Shenandoah and the hero of that craft's battle with a January storm in 1924, when winds tore her loose at Lakehurst, is working as a surveyor at $6 a day. He was planning a dirigible line between New York and South America when the Shenandoah crashed, and his backers lost faith in the project. Capt. Heinen is at work as a surveyor on the Atlantic City road near here.

BLAST KILLS DIRECTOR IN FINAL SCENE

Body of Film Producer Hurled Into Boat at Feet of Brother at San Diego

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN DIEGO, April 2.—Paul Humphreys, 28 years of age, part owner and director of the Humphreys-Gunn Production Company, a new San Diego film enterprise, was killed almost instantly this afternoon by the premature explosion of dynamite on a raft near the boat landing off Hotel Del Coronado. Humphreys was alone on the raft at the time of the explosion. His body was hurled high in the air, and landed in a speed boat, occupied by his brother, Fred Humphrey, his partner in the movie concern, Earl Gunn, and three other men.

The hotel was rocked by the blast and the explosion was witnessed by hundreds of persons along the beach.

The raft had been towed to the landing by the speed boat and Humphreys was supposed to place the powder to demolish the raft in the last scene of a film feature. As Humphreys placed the powder it exploded.

Paul Allen, Hollywood cameraman who was standing on a rock a short distance away ready to film the scene, said O. A. Denton, a powder man, had been hired to place the charge for the blast and that at the last minute Humphreys had decided to place the powder himself.

DOG WARNS MASTER WHEN SHEEP SICKEN

GUENTHER BUSY WITH EPIDEMIC IN FLOCK KEPT AT CENTRAL PARK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Guenther, the shepherd dog which watches over the sheep in Central Park, is having a busy time these days, for fifteen of the forty-five ewes in the sheepfold have been attacked by an epidemic of "flu."

The epidemic is the first of its kind to make an appearance in the sheepfold in the twenty-eight years that Thomas F. Hoey has had charge of the fold and has resulted in one fatality.

It is a particularly inopportune time for the epidemic, as the ewes are lambing. The ewe that died a few days ago left three lambs, which Hoey, with the help of Guenther, his only assistant, is trying to raise on a bottle.

Hoey and Guenther take turns watching the sheep. When one of them exhibits distress while Hoey is sleeping, Guenther comes to his bed, wakes him and leads him to the ailing sheep.

When the ewe died the other night Guenther came to his bed and barked furiously, but by the time Hoey reached the ewe it was too late.

The epidemic is much the same as distemper in dogs; that is, the ewes run at the nose, shiver and give the appearance of having pneumonia.

LAUNCH NEW ATTEMPT TO SAVE KILLER

Defense for Chapman Due to Hang for Police Slaying Finds Unexpected Witness

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

HARTFORD (Ct.) April 2.—The identities of two witnesses whose testimony it is hoped will influence Judge Jennings, trial judge of the Gerald Chapman murder case, to grant the condemned bandit a new trial tomorrow, were revealed tonight. They are R. Nelson Hickman of New York City and Samuel L. Cutler, Hartford automobile salesman.

Hickman, in an affidavit asserts that he knew Chapman in New York and that he saw him there on the night of October 11, 1924, which was the night before Patrolman James Skelly, for whose murder Chapman is to hang next Monday night, was killed.

Cutler, who is the proprietor of the Cutler Auto Parts Company, said he saw the automobile which later came to be known as the death car in front of his place of business on the afternoon of October 11. He recognized as the driver Walter E. Shean of Springfield, Mass., who was afterward convicted as Chapman's accomplice when he turned State's evidence. The man who was with him was not Chapman, Cutler swears.

WOMAN ACCUSED

Believed Member of Ring of Automobile Thieves

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LAKEWOOD (N. J.) April 2.—Mrs. Lelia Carr of Newark, daughter of the late Correll Clayton, a well-known hotel owner of Lakehurst, N. J., is in jail at Toms River, held in $10,000 bail for the Ocean county grand jury, charged with the theft of an expensive automobile and said to be a member of an international gang of automobile thieves.

Mrs. Carr's arrest and detention became known through the announcement that her automobile driver's license had been revoked. Then the police disclosed that Mrs. Carr had been arrested and arraigned at Lakewood last Friday, but that the case was not made public because they wanted time to verify a suspicion that she was a member of a gang which had been suspected of the theft of forty-six expensive automobiles in Europe, selling them in the United States and stealing them again from the persons to whom they were sold.

MINES PORTFOLIO POSSIBLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EDMONTON (Alta.) April 2.—The mining industry has become so important in this Province that the government is giving serious consideration to a plan providing for inclusion of a mining portfolio in the Provincial Cabinet.

BAN ON DANCING ASKED IN JAPAN

Diet to Get Prohibitory Resolution

Ballroom Steps Declared to be "Immoral"

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

TOKIO, March 15. — Attempts are being made to ban ballroom dancing in Japan entirely, the asserted reasons being that it is "immoral" and that it is regarded as tending to corrupt the morals of the Japanese people.

A group of members of the House of Representatives is planning to introduce a resolution in the Diet demanding legislation whereby dancing will be put in the category of crimes. Recently a group of lower house members met in the Tokio Y.M.C.A. and, after a solemn conclave, adopted the following resolution:

"It is generally recognized that, in the present period of general confusion in the thought world of Japan, what social dancing has been introduced into Japan from abroad is doing much to deteriorate the traditional manners, morals and customs in Japan, and is slowly killing the family system of the nation.

"It is equally recognized that such dancing as requires participants to keep late hours, with singing and drinking, is leading to the general corruption of society in Japan.

"In consideration of this present evil in Japan's society, which is attributed to the growing vogue of western social dancing, we hereby resolve that the government provide regulations strictly controlling this source of public evil."

There are cheap dance halls in Japan where the admission fee sometimes is as low as only 10 sen. These are frequented by the demimondtaines and their partners in the same sphere of life.

In Osaka the police have issued a set of rules, among these being the following: Dance halls must not me locked; dance halls should be properly lit; no meals and drinks must be served in these halls; no jazz or other boisterous music, such as would annoy the neighbors; no dancing after 10 o'clock at night; no students or drunkards to be admitted.

Recently, principally in honor of a group of globe-girdling tourists, the Imperial Hotel gave a tea-dansant. Several local people, including Japanese, attended. The police appeared and took the names of all the Japanese men and women present.

Rum Runners Tell of Ship Loading Arms

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) April 2.—Rum-runners coming in from the west coast of Vancouver Island reported that about two weeks ago some of their boats that had gone out farther than is customary had come upon a large wooden steam schooner, without name or flag, which was loading guns and ammunition from a small American boat.

According to the rum-runners the schooner was very old, and one of the sailors on the American boat told the local men that she was a Russian ship, loading supplies and firearms for the national army of China, which is to keep Gen. Chang Tso-Lin's army busy on the south while Russian holds her own against the Manchurian war lord on the north.

Giant Electric Device Shipped for Stanford

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PITTSFIELD, (Mass.) April 2.—The largest xperimental transformer ever made, built a the works of the General Electric Company here and rated at 2,100,000 volts was shipped today to the Leland Stanford, Jr., University in Palo Alto.

It is one-third larger than the "man-made lightning" set used in experiments here. The shipment occupied five freight cars and is valued at $500,000.

The unit will be part of laboratory equipment of the Ryan high voltage laboratory at the university.

WOULD PROHIBIT GIRLS OF TWELVE MARRYING

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, April 2.—F. W. Pethick-Lawrence, member of Parliament, is pressing the government to introduce legislation which will raise the age at which a girl may marry.

"It is ridiculous to think that a girl of 12 has the legal right to marry and tie herself up for life, while a woman of 30 has only just obtained her vote," declared Mr. Pethick-Lawrence. "I have no definite age in mind at which marriage should be legally impossible, but I imagine the marriage age for girls will eventually be raised by the government to 16."

Women's organizations throughout England have been working for many years to have the legal marriage age of a girl raised.

VALUABLE FOXES AT LARGE IN MONTANA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHOTEAU (Mont.) April 2.—Small fortunes are running about on four legs in this section. They have been sighted within three miles of the city. They constitute, it is thought, ten black foxes which escaped last fall from a fox farm in the Highwood Mountains. The foxes are worth from $750 to $1500 apiece, and as they are not branded or protected, they are the prey of the lucky hunter.

PROSPERITY FOR MEXICANS SEEN

Missouri Professor Tells of Country's Prospects

Defends Calles's Attitude on Religious Issue

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

COLUMBIA (Mo.) April 2.—"Mexico, as soon as it gets a stable government, will show the twentieth century a prosperous and powerful nation," is the prediction made by Dean Walter Williams of the school of journalism of the University of Missouri, who returned from two months spent at the National University of Mexico as exchange professor.

"Mexico, because of its varied resources and climate, its geographical location and its growing national sentiment, will prosper," says Dean Williams. "Conditions there are far better than ever before. The old feudal system, made up of the dominant artistocratic classes and the suppressed peons, is fast breaking down, and in its place is being created a great middle class which is coming into power. The Mexicans are building schools and in them are being taught the arts and crafts of the districts in which the schools are located. In the development of their national resources, which are among the richest on this continent, they are demanding that they be used to benefit Mexico."

Dean Williams points out that Americans have many mistaken ideas of Mexico. "There are fewer murders and less lawlessness in Mexican cities than in the large cities of the United States," he said. "This condition has been accomplished by the present President, Calles, by efficiency in enforcing the laws. Most of the mistaken ideas held by Americans can be attributed to false propaganda. The recent religious controversy, for example, was often misinterpreted. It is merely an endeavor to separate the church and state, and not an effort to interfere with religion.

"Some fifty years ago one-third of the wealth of Mexico was owned by the church, and through that wealth it dominated the government. Since that time legislation to separate the church and state and to keep the clergy out of politics has been enacted. The recent trouble is an outcome of the enforcement of this legislation, and not governmental interference with religion.

"As to a stable government in Mexico, it will come much sooner than otherwise if the United States continues to adhere to its present policy of not selling arms to Mexican revolutionists. If the United States withdraws its support of the present government the government may fall, because the withdrawal of foreign support gives the contending factions a chance to establish themselves."

Dean Williams's comment on the press of Mexico City is that its great papers print more news and more accurate news about the United States than the American papers print about Mexico. He characterizes the attitude of Mexico toward Americans and all foreigners as one of friendliness, yet a friendliness that insists on its own rights.

TAXPAYERS SEEKING ACTION ON SHORTAGES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) April 2.—The Cochise County Taxpayers' Association, one of the most active in the State, at its annual meeting re-elected S. P. Applewhite president and Charles M. Roberts secretary. One feature of the secretary's report calls for action by the State authorities upon asserted shortages of two former State treasurers, the Corporation Commission, Secretary of State, State Game Warden and State Auditor, on the basis of an investigation made by a Senate committee four years ago. These shortages were in unauthorized official deposits in the bankrupt Central Bank of Phoenix and its successor, the Bank of Phoenix, and the balance still due the State is about $275,000. Judgment against the Secretary of State has been given in the Superior Court of Maricopa county, and is now on appeal in the Supreme Court.

KIN OF JESSE JAMES SENTENCED AS BANDIT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SPOKANE, April 2.—Philip Taylor, 18 years of age, who said his mother was a third cousin of Jesse James, was sentenced in Superior Court here today to a term of two to sixteen years in the State Reformatory after he had admitted seven burglaries near here. Philip, who told the court he was not proud of his kinship for the notorious outlaw, had sawed off a shotgun which he stole from a farmer and carried it in his pant leg. He also had an automatic pistol which he had stolen from another farmer.

UTAH JURIST DIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SALT LAKE CITY, April 2.—Thomas Marioneaux, 59 years of age, died here this morning after an illness of a week. He appeared last Saturday before the Supreme Court in arguing a case. His illness began shortly after that time. Judge Marioneaux served as judge in the Fifth Judicial District of Utah. He was born in New Orleans. He came to Utah thirty years ago and in that time figured in many important cases.

Boxeo

BUENOS AIRES (Argentina) Abril 2.—Luis Firpo y Erminio Spalla, los campeones de peso fuerte argentino e italiano, respectivamente, estaban listos hoy para su encuentro a quince asaltos, que se efectuará aquí mañana en la noche. Los púgiles hicieron hoy ejercicios ligeros.

Dijo el apoderado de Spalla que estaba seguro de que éste ganaría, y basa su conjetura en que Firpo ha estado inactivo mucho tiempo. El campeón argentino, con todo, se dice que ha tenido seis semanas de entrenamiento intensivo, bajo la dirección de Felix Bunge, deportista argentino.

SWISS FIND MOUNTAIN IN MOTION

Shifting of Motto D'Arbino Indicates That Summit is Undermined

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BELLINZONA (Switzerland) April 2.—Careful observations kept by the Swiss Topographical Bureau since 1883 show that the Motto D'Arbino, a mountain 5550 feet high near Bellinzona, in the canton of Tessin, is moving.

Engineers and topographical experts have been taking careful measurements day by day, and reports show that the great plateau that forms the summit, covering an area of nearly 100,000 square feet, has become dangerously undermined.

Nearly forty years ago it was found that the summit was shifting horizontally at the rate of nearly an inch a year, a movement that increased progressively until some months ago, when the rate had increased to four inches a year.

The mountain sank at an average of nearly an inch and a half a year during the first fourteen years of observation. The latest report is that there has been a subsidence of more than six inches during the last twelve months. Observers say when the underlying mass of rock gives way the whole of the great plateau will crash into the valley.

Precautions have already been taken to prevent loss of life should the plateau fall.

SPACE FOR "SPOUTERS"

Hyde Park, London, Increases Area For Sunday Oratory Battle

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, April 2.—More space has been granted to the "spouters" of Hyde Park.

There had been such an increase in the number of orators who desired to speak there every Sunday on nearly every subject imaginable that the park superintendent has increased the space for the oratorical battle royal by 7200 square feet.

Religious sects, political organizations and propaganda societies have their speakers in Hyde Park every Sunday, rain or shine, and from noon until dark crowds wander past listening to the blasts of oratory.

MODEL FROM ICELAND TO BE BRIDE TODAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Mrs. John McKeesen Camp of 152 East Thirty-fifth street announced that her son, Gregory Nott Camp, would be married to Miss Goodrun Paulsen, a model in the Yale University Art School, tomorrow in the home of his parents. Miss Paulsen, who is 21 years of age, came to this country from Iceland only three months ago. In New Haven, Conn., she applied at the Y.W.C.A. for a position. Her blonde beauty led the association officials to take her to the Yale Art School, where she was immediately engaged as a model. Members of the faculty pronounced her a perfect specimen of her type, and her services were in great demand.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MILWAUKEE, April 2.—Because he failed to stop and give aid to a pedestrian whom he ran down, Joseph Bauska was placed on probation for five years and his car padlocked for a like term. One of the heaviest penalty of its kind ever imposed here. The padlock provisions also affect Mrs.

The late John I. Beggs, Milwaukee traction magnate owed $1,000 in doctors' bills according to a suit filed against the estate. The largest large claim is that of Dr. W. Miller, surgeon for the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company, who asks $20,000 for medical services over a two year period. A previous claim of $1,000 was filed by Dr. J. W.

Little more or less excitement in Milwaukee and wet quarters over the recent announcement from Washington that the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent alcoholized beverages had been approved. Such a sort of anticlimax at first today when it was discovered that a 2.75 malt extract was legally on sale there for

INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, April 2.—In a statement commenting on the ruling of Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the Treasury, to the effect that medicinal beer, containing 2.75 per cent alcohol, may be sold in drug stores throughout the country, Mrs. Edward Franklin White, reporter of the Supreme and Appellate Courts, protests most vigorously against the plan and characterizes it as a direct violation of the law.

Joseph Gardner, 89 years of age, head and founder of the Joseph Gardner Company, sheet metal contractors, died at the home of his son, Joseph C. Gardner, after a short illness.

The thirtieth victim of the measles epidemic at Bloomington is dead. The latest death is that of Eleanor Louise Clark, 12.

KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, April 2.—More than 15,000 Kansas City boys and girls are snowbound at home, unable to attend school, it was estimated at the Board of Education offices. This number is more than 23 per cent of the 64,103 pupils enrolled.

Following an enthusiastic meeting of depositors of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank, Sedalia, which closed last week, steps are going forward looking to an early reopening of the institution. Depositors in large numbers have agreed to assign to trustees from 50 to 100 per cent of their deposits until such time as some objectionable "slow paper" can be realized upon.

The depositors of the Bank of La Due at La Due in Henry county which failed April 4, 1925, will be paid in full through an agreement entered into. Costs of administering the affairs will be paid and all criminal costs paid out by Henry county in prosecuting the officials will be paid back to the county.

If the new "health beer" is intoxicating it can not be sold in Kansas by any drug store or any one else, regardless of whether the United States Treasury Department gives permits for the sale. This was the announcement of Charles B. Griffith, Attorney-General, today.

OMAHA

OMAHA, April 2.—Prospects for 2.75 per cent beer for health in Nebraska went glimmering when Atty.-Gen. Spillman announced that there was not "the slightest chance" of Nebraska drug stores being permitted to slake ailing thirsts, even after the pronouncement of Secretary Mellon.

Falls City, last week treated to an innovation when 10-cent picture shows were made general there as the result of a "film war," experienced a new thrill today when it was announced that vaudeville will be added at two of the theaters in connection with films, all for 10 cents.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the buildings on the John Corr ranch near Stafford, Neb. The barn, corn cribs, and hog houses, with all contents were lost, including nine horses, all harness and equipment, grain and all hogs and pigs except one sow. The loss is only partly covered by insurance.

Harley J. Shaw, 82 years of age, who operated a grist mill at Beatrice, in the early '60's supplied Indians with meal and later assisted in establishing a townsite for Beatrice, died last night.

ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—With the organization in Washington of the National Illiteracy Crusade, headed by William Allen White, Kansas editor, to stamp out illiteracy in the United States, it is interesting to note that Missouri has 83,403 men, women and children more than ten years of age, who can neither read nor write, according to figures prepared after the census for 1920.

Stockholders of Carleton Dry Goods Company, of whom about half or 100, are old employees who invested approximately $1,000,000 of their savings today brought action to recover $514,000 of the company's liquidating funds of which they assert they were defrauded by the late Murray Carleton and which mysteriously disappeared.

John Munro Cameron, 56 years of age, president of the Cameron Refining Company of Ardmore, Okla., was buried today after services at his boyhood home, 4552 Ashland avenue. He died of influenza at the St. Louis Baptist Hospital. He was educated in the St. Louis public schools and Harvard University.

DES MOINES

DES MOINES, April 2.—Joshua B. Runyan, advertising manager of J. Mandelbaum and Sons, is planning to make his home in California after having lived in Des Moines for thirty-eight years. Mr. Runyan and his family will leave for Pasadena tomorrow. They will travel by automobile over the National Trail to Los Angeles.

F. F. Johnson, banker from Athelsan, was arrested at Creston on a bench warrant and held for the Sheriff of Taylor county. The affairs of the bank have been under examination for some time, and the grand jury has been in session for two weeks. The bank closed its doors about the first of the year.

During the month of March just ended the Sioux City stockyards paid to live-stock growers for cattle, hog and sheep, a total of $14,017,169 a slight decrease compared with the amount paid in the same month last year, but still a large advance over the average for that month during the last five years.

Failing to reach an agreement with their employers for an increase of wages from $1.87½ an hour to $1.50 an hour union bricklayers on a number of Sioux City jobs failed to report for work today though it was stated a strike was not on.

LOUISVILLE

LOUISVILLE, April 2.—The National Catholic Educational Association will meet in Louisville June 28 to July 1, Harry G. Evans, secretary of the Louisville convention and publicity league announced. Approximately 2500 of the leading Catholic educators of the entire country will assemble here at that time, he said.

Felony indictments have been returned by the Harlan county grand jury against the six directors of the Black Mountain Bank at Evarts, Ky., which failed about one year ago. They were indicted on the charge of assenting to and receiving deposits when the bank was insolvent. The directors are H. B. Turner, postmaster at Evarts; W. C. Turner, B. F. Kelly, Dr. S. E. Crouch, Dr. J. G. Stephenson and J. T. Brock, were each placed under a bond of $5000.

J. Arch Wilkins, 59 years of age, former city engineer and road builder of Bowling Green, died at his home there. Mr. Wilkins was a son of the late John M. Wilkins and Mrs. Mary Baker Wilkins. His death followed a lingering illness.

DETROIT

DETROIT (Mich.) April 2.—Miss Helene Sheldon, 23 years of age, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, is made heir to the bulk of the estate of Miss Martha Filer, the last member of the wealthy Filer family, who died a week ago in Paris, France. The body has been cremated and the ashes are being brought to Manistee for burial. Under the terms of the will the Filer residence in Oak Hill, Manistee suburb, is bequeathed to Frank Filer of Detroit, a cousin.

Frederick R. Harris has resigned as city manager of Escanaba to take a position as city manager of Jackson, Mich., at a salary of $10,000 a year. Harris has been manager at Escanaba since 1922, previous to that he was chief engineer of the Public Utilities Commission.

You have seen the other fellow make a killing, but you figured it was always the other fellow who was lucky. You have had to be content with your pay envelope. You have planned on getting additional income, but somehow your plans haven't worked out.

Well sir! I've got a proposition that is going to make money for somebody. You don't need a young fortune to get in on it. You won't have to surrender your rights as a citizen to make the payments. All you need to do is cut down on the luxuries. Run the old bus for another year. Put aside a few dollars each week. That's all. Do that and I'll give you a flying start up the road to financial independence.

Sounds easy doesn't it? It's not so hard. Save a little here and there, and the first thing you know you're a property owner—getting an income. You don't have to be an expert to make a good real estate investment—common sense is all that's needed. Getting started is the hard part—the rest comes easy. Luck? Sure there's such a thing as luck—but there's also such a thing as determination—nerve.

I don't care whether you're in your twenties or thirties or forties. Just show me you're not a drifter—that you mean business—that you're looking ahead a few years. Show me those things, and I'll show you a real estate proposition that will turn into dollars for you.

For 22 years I've been selling Southern California and I believe I know a good real estate proposition when I see one. I've sold it to thousands of persons—I've made them thousands of dollars, and I do not know of one man or woman who has bought property from me and held it who has lost money. That's my record and it holds good with every inch of dirt I sell.

I am really doing you a favor by writing this advertisement. If you knew Southern California as I know it—you'd know it's bound to do a lot of expanding during the next five years. Right now real estate values are going up. They will continue to go up. The time to buy is right now.

Tear out this coupon, fill in your name and address. That's all that's necessary to get the inside story of this proposition. Here's your chance to break into velvet. It won't cost you a cent or obligate you in any way. Send the coupon Now.

Fill in your name, address and telephone number, and bring or mail this coupon to "Victor Girard, 111 W. Fourth St., Los Angeles"—if you want further information on "How to Buy a Good Living for Your Later Years." No obligation.

SENTENCE RUNS TWO LIFETIMES

Santa Ana "Rug Burglar" to Serve Penalty

Wilton as Attorney for Self Loses Every Point

Legal Procedure of Outlaw Termed Faultless

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, April 2.—Sentences ranging from an aggregate minimum of eleven years to a maximum of "two lifetimes and fifteen years" were meted out today by Superior Judge West to James Wilton, convicted "rug burglar." Wilton was sentenced for the three burglaries of which he was found guilty, two being of first degree and the other second degree.

Defiant to the last in the attitude that caused him to reject the attorney appointed by the court to defend him and play a lone hand, Wilton promptly filed notice of appeal from each of the three sentences. Before receiving sentence he had played the various legal cards by filing first a motion for arrest of judgment, which was denied, and then a motion for a new trial, which met the same fate.

The customary grounds asserting misdirection of the jury and errors of law by the court, as well as a verdict contrary to the evidence and the law, were set forth in the motions for new trial. These motions, with other papers filed by Wilton, were prepared in approved legal form. Court room rumors were that a local attorney had been secretly advising Wilton regarding them.

Judge West imposed the sentences to run successively, two of them being for not less than five years and the other being from one to fifteen years. The burglaries charged against Wilton were committee at the homes of B. Schroeder on Placentia avenue, John Wentz on Orange Grove avenue and E. Kahley on Palm avenue, near Katela Road.

Worker on Oil Derrick Dies as Result of Fall

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 2. Bert Whitmore 30 years of age, of Long Beach, died at the Santa Ana Valley Hospital late this afternoon from injuries received when he fell thirty-five feet from an oil derrick here this morning. Whitmore was a derrickman for the United Oil Company.

According to fellow workmen he lost his balance and crashed to the floor of the derrick. He was taken to the Santa Ana Valley Hospital after being given emergency treatment in Huntington Beach.

NEW PHYSICIAN MOVES INTO VALLEY SECTION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, April 2.—Dr. A. W. Swenson, formerly of Bisbee, N. D., who recently has located here, announces he will take over the office and practice of Dr. P. W. Whitaker, who is departing to assume a practice at Long Beach. Dr. Whitaker has been in Van Nuys since last June. Dr. Swenson has practiced medicine in Bisbee for the past twenty years, and during the World War saw service in France as a major of the Medical Corps of the United States Army. He came to Van Nuys two years ago and was so impressed with the future here that he has decided to make it his permanent home.

BEVERAGE MEN HOLD ELECTION OF OFFICERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 2.—Holding their first triannual dinner today, Kern county bottlers of carbonated beverages met at the St. Francis Grill and in a business session elected officers of the organization for the coming year. S. T. Lynn, representing the Coco-Cola Bottling Company, was elected president of the association. L. P. Gribble, Kern County Bottling Works, received the vote of the convention for vice-president, and E. S. Garrett of the Star Bottling Works was elected secretary.

BURBANK TO HAVE WIDER BOULEVARDS

Ordinances for Improving Six of Main Arteries Are Passed by Trustees

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, April 2.—Ordinances providing for eighty-foot traffic arteries on six of the major boulevards of the city were passed on final reading at the last meeting of the Board of City Trustees. The thoroughfares affected are Olive avenue, Magnolia avenue, Victory Boulevard, Hollywood Way, Burbank Boulevard, Alameda and Buena Vista avenues.

Protests against an eighty-foot set-back line for San Fernando Boulevard from Empire street to the westerly city limits continue to be heard. As a result the Planning Commission has recommended that the width be made seventy feet, which will correspond with the proposal of Los Anglees for the section of the highway extending through the Roscoe district.

Cement crews of the Gibbons & Reed contracting firm are engaged in surfacing the section of San Fernando Boulevard from Verdugo avenue to the city limits on the east. One-third of the roadway is closed to traffic and will be until the paving seasons. The paving crews will finish the outsides of the boulevard first permitting traffic on the middle of the road until the first laid is thoroughly seasoned when the last section will be completed.

Clergyman Sees Great Messages in Film Dramas

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, April 2.—"Some of the greatest messages to this age are being presented by the moving picture theater and the legitimate stage," it was declared here today by the Rev. Harold Turney, a minister of the Christian church, addressing the Inglewood Rotary club.

Mr. Turney some months ago, figuratively speaking, deserted the pulpit for the pestle. That is, he resigned his pastorate in the First Christian church of this city to take a clerkship in Malloy's pharmacy, in order to finance his further education. He is now an instructor of Religious Dramatics at the University of Southern California and is pursuing other courses there, and continuing his work in the pharmacy.

The speaker referred to the message of "What Price Glory?" the work of two men who saw service in France, and of "The Enemy," the play of Channing Pollock which emphasizes that hatred is the real "enemy."

CARDBOARD "COPPER" SLOWED UP TRAFIC

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

RESEDA, April 22.—A huge cardboard policeman which for some time has been standing on West Sherman Way, near Woodley avenue, has been taken down because it has been slowing up traffic. The figure was of life size and had the word "stop" printed across it in large letters. Many motorists took the word as a warning and complied, though there is no reason why it should have been. Certain motorists in the valley eventually complained, and the valley police requested the owner of the sign to place it in discard.

FIGHT AT CORCORAN LEADS TO STABBING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, April 2. — Henry Jackson is in the County Jail and Richard Taylor is in the County Hospital as the result of a fight at Corcoran last night in which it is asserted that Jackson cut Taylor in the back three times with a knife. Jackson is held in $2000 bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder, pending the outcome of Taylor's wounds, which are not regarded as serious.

WATER SYSTEM VALUE FIGURED

Pomona Engineers Report on Survey Results

Municipal Ownership Plan Up to Committee

Company Experts Disagree on Equipment Cost

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

POMONA, April 2.—With the completion of the valuation survey of the Consolidated Water Company's local system today the committee of twenty-seven local citizens named by the City Council to bring in a recommendation on municipal purchase of the company's equipment is expected to go into the engineer's reports thoroughly and at a future date report its finds to the Council for action.

Representing the city in the survey, City Engineer Froehde and Consulting Engineer Sellers estimated the present value of the water company's system at $886,-861.61, while the reproduction cost was placed by them at $970,816.58.

Willis H. Jones, water-company engineer, reported to the committee that he placed the valuation at $1,121,666.58, and stated that in his opinion the only fair basis upon which to place an estimate is upon the reproduction cost, upon which he accordingly based his figures.

Members of the committee appointed by the City Council to study the reports and make a recommendation either for or against municipal ownership are C. D. Baker, R. K. Pitzer, W. M. Avis, William Wilkinson, L. L. Lostutter, E. R. Yundt, W. S. Hufford, Raymond Smith, C. H. Howard, J. E. Adams, J. W. Wilton, O. H. Hottel, F. A. Averbeck, C. F. Weirdo, C. S. Vanderbeck, F. W. Ritter, Ed Stahlman, Frank Eels, R. F. Stewart, R. W. Murphy, F. P. Firey, W. H Lattin, E. C. Ades, J. R. Loney, Fred Bolleu, R. A. McRae, and Louis Wallenstein.

The engineers estimated that there are approximately 120 miles of water piping in the city, serving a total of 5500 services, embracing an area of 83 000 acres, or approximately thirteen square miles. Engineers Froehde and Sellers also stated that in their opinion water rates will decrease as the population of the city increases, under municipal ownership, while under private ownership, they believe, it is probably that rates will rise in proportion.

FOUR HURT IN AUTO CRASH NEAR POMONA

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

POMONA, April 2.—Injured when their machines crashed head on into an approaching truck as they were attempting to pass another machine proceeding in the same direction, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Freeman of Redondo; a daughter, Mrs. Mattie Chitwood of Huntington Park, and her son, Paul, were all given emergency treatment at the Pomona Valley hospital and later released with the exception of Mrs. Freeman, who is still at the hospital. Both Mr. and Mrs. Freeman were severely cut by flying glass while the others suffered minor cuts and bruises. The accident happened on the Valley Boulevard four miles west of this city late today. The party was returning from Riverside and were taken to the hospital by E. S. Hass of Banning, a passing motorist.

VAN NUYS POSTOFFICE SHOWS BIG INCREASE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, April 2.—Postmaster E. D. Gibson today reported that postal receipts of the Van Nuys office for March showed a 41 per cent increase over the receipts of March a year ago. Receipts are now running near $3000 each month. The receipts represent the monthly sale of stamps each thirty days. Within the past six months Van Nuys has been granted free city mail deliveries, street letter boxes have been established at various street corners, and other innovations have been introduced to keep abreast with the growth of the local office.

ASSESSOR FINISHES VAN NUYS TOWNSITE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, April 2.—Deputy Assessor Bogardus announces today that he has completed the assessment of the Van Nuys town site. He now has field book No. 283, which includes all property west of Van Nuys to Balboa avenue, and is ready to accept statements from residents in that district. Each Saturday forenoon Bogardus has headquarters at the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce for the convenience of taxpayers desiring to make statements.

WOMAN TO BECOME PASTOR

Easter Service at Ontario to Make Ordination of Mrs. William Laidlaw, Social Leader

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, April 2.—Bethel Congregational Church is to be the scene of a service of unusual interest on Easter Sunday at 3:30 p.m., it was announced today, when Mrs. William Laidlaw, prominent Ontario society woman, welfare and church worker, is to be ordained as a minister of the gospel.

The coming event is the result of the recent action of the members of the Narod Union Church, founded several years ago by Mrs. Laidlaw in the West Ontario district, and built up to a thriving society owning its own house of worship through her efforts.

At a recent meeting of church members to select a pastor, Mrs. Laidlaw was the unanimous choice and a request for her ordination went with it. Mrs. Laidlaw has been actively engaged in many forms of welfare service for more than twenty years. In her girlhood in Australia, she gave freely of her time and talents in work among the Chinese women of Melbourne and later spent nearly four years working among the city newsboys, many of whom, as a result, are today holding responsible government positions, it is said.

Mrs. Laidlaw is still an honored member of the City Newsboys' Society of Melbourne.

Locally, Mrs. Laidlaw has been prominently connected with the District Sunday-school Council of Religious Education over a period of thirteen years, serving for ten years as secretary-treasurer and the last three years as president. After serving for five years as president of the Chaffey Community Girls' Work Organization, she recently resigned in order to devote more time to the Narod church.

On the council which will examine the candidate at the ordination ceremonies are Rev. John B. Toomey, Rev. Benjamin A. Fye, Rev. Charles A. Kent, Dr. Thomas R. Gale and Rev. Gordon Whipple. A number of other divines throughout Southern California have cast their votes by letter.

Advertisement of Land Brings Far-off Reply

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, April 2.—Advertising in the Los Angeles Times classified sections travels over a wide territory, and brings results, according to H. L. Finlay, Glendale realtor, with offices at 205 West Broadway.

Mr. Finlay recently advertised some land for sale at Yuma, Ariz., where he had procured the listing of 870 acres of rich mesa property close to the city. His mail yesterday brought him a letter from J. A. Sloane of Juneau, Alaska, who quoted from an advertisement run by Finlay in The Times of March 14 and who stated that he would be in Glendale in a few months to discuss the purchase of a portion of the land.

Another letter came from S. C. Carl of Denver, Colo., who followed it up later by appearing here personally and who went to Yuma to take photographs of the property to submit to his associates in Denver. Carl plans to organize a corporation to plant a large acreage of the land in grapes and citrus fruits.

SAN JOAQUIN GROWERS WILL PLAN FOR LABOR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, April 2.—Appointment of a secretary and completion of plans through which harvest labor for the San Joaquin Valley will be provided will be taken up by the Agricultural Labor Bureau of the San Joaquin Valley at a meeting on the 13th inst., it was announced today by S. Parker Frisselle, chairman of the board of directors. The bureau was organized several weeks ago when the Valley Fruit Growers' Association, a labor bureau, passed out of existence after eight years' service to the fruit industry. The new organization will not be restricted to providing labor for fruit interests, but will take in all branches of agriculture in seven counties of the San Joaquin and will be supported by the larger interests in the industry.

TELEGRAPH OFFICE BUSINESS DOUBLES

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, April 2.—C. E. Ash, manager of the Western Union telegraph office, which was opened here six months ago, today announces that his business coming in and going out over his wire is double that of last October. Much of this increase is due to the larger amount of telegrams sent and received by local realty dealers. Money transfers are now twice as much as any month since the office opened. The office is situated in the Southern Pacific depot. Announcement of the increase of business may soon start another move on the part of the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce to bring the office nearer to the heart of town.

KERN AND TULARE TO HONOR LEGION CHIEF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 2.—Not only Kern, but Tulare county as well, will pay homage to John R. McQuigg, National Commander of the American Legion, upon his arrival here on the evening of the 7th inst. According to Z. V. Hoskins, Kern county Commander of the American Legion, extensive plans have been made by Tulare county posts to be present in Bakersfield the evening of Commander McQuigg's reception. All Tulare county post commanders will be guests of honor, sharing in the evening's program, and a large delegation of Tulare legionnaires are expected to be present.

TRUCKMAN HELD AS HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, April 2.—C. Keith, driver of an oil truck, has been brought here from Coalinga by Sheriff Hime and held under $1000 bond to answer to a charge by Lawrence Sue that after a collision with his auto he drove away without stopping to render assistance.

PERILS PEEPING TOM'S PEEPERS

Woman Fires at Man's Face Peering Through Into Her Domicile

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, April 2.—There is one peeping Tom in Glendale who will restrain his curiosity for some time. At least until the scare he received last night wears off.

Mrs. G. P. Sterling, 1148 Justin avenue, observed a man staring through her window, but when he saw that he was discovered slunk way into the shadows. Fearing that he might return Mrs. Sterling obtained a revolver, and later, when the face again appeared at the window, she opened fire, sending several bullets crashing through the glass within a few inches of the man's head.

LAUDS MODERN SCHOOL SYSTEM

Bakersfield Educator in Visalia Address

Points to Superiority Over Former Institutions

Results of Fifty-Year-Old Tests Recited

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VISALIA, April 2.—Present schools of the United States, and especially California, are far superior in every respect to earlier-day schools and school methods, and gave a better product, in opinion of Charles Teach, superintendent of the Bakersfield city schools, addressing the Visalia Kiwanis Club in regular session. Mr. Teach accompanied Mel Hey, lieutenant-governor of division five of Kiwanis to Visalia on an official visit.

In spite of critics, in spite of handicaps of being forced to teach more subjects than should actually be taught—because politicians forced these subjects into the curriculum over opposition of the teaching fraternity, schools of California and America are turning out a better product than ever before and are worthy of all praise, rather than cynicism and criticism, declared the speaker.

As an example he cited discovery and reapplication of the Springfield (Mass.) tests given fifty years ago to pupils in the same school fifty years later. In every subject tested modern pupils were from 10 to 30 per cent ahead of pupils of half a century ago, stated Mr. Teach. Subjects tested included spelling, reading, arithmetic, writing, history and geography.

He closed with the declaration that the youth of today is better than the youth of fifty years ago and constitutes a youth to be trusted, yet that youh is looking to men of the community for guidance and for moral and spiritual example, even more than men of the community are looking to the approaching generation to carry on work of the land.

EMPLOYEES OF ANAHEIM DISCHARGED

Admission of "Wet" Party Forfeits Jobs of Fireman and Patrolmen

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ANAHEIM, April 2.—Patrolmen James Woodroof and Clifford Yonkers, and Fireman Harry Pemberton were dismissed from their departments today after it was said they had admitted to city officials their participation in a Los Angeles liquor party last Monday night. The three men, it was reported, obtained their liquor from an Anaheim bootlegger whom Chief of Police John S. Martin has been trying to get for some time.

Chief Martin this morning refused to tell how he learned of the liquor party. He stated that the three city employees had signed affidavits, however, Pemberton admitting he bought the liquor with money furnished by Yonkers.

Mayor Perry P. Mathis's only comment on the dismissals was a brief statement that the action of Chief Martin and City Manager Price "met the approval of the city administration."

ONE DIVORCE PER DAY; KERN COUNTY RECORD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 2.—On an average one divorce complaint a day is filed in Kern county for hearing in the Superior Court. One insanity case comes up for consideration each week, on an average. During the past three months there were fifteen commitments of insane persons from this county. For the corresponding three months of last year there were twelve, according to figures compiled under the direction of County Clerk Frank E. Smith. Despite the number of divorce complaints filed, marriage seems to be more popular than ever, for during the past month eighty-three licenses were issued at the clerk's office. During March of last year fifty-one were granted.

PLAN ABANDONED FOR NEW OXNARD THEATER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, April 2.—According to an announcement made at a meeting of Chamber of Commerce directors last night, plans on the part of J. Roy Williams, local theater man, for the erection of a new motion-picture house here have been abandoned. Williams has a lease on the Victory Theater, and if he were to build he fears he would lose through the lease and that at the time of its expiration another theater might be started in this location. The Chamber of Commerce planned to assist Williams in his proposed theater project, but since he has definitely decided not to go ahead with his plans the chamber will consider other propositions.

BAY DISTRICT BANKS GAINING IN DEPOSITS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, April 2.—A gain of $1,250,000 in bank clearings last month over the March period last year, is shown in the reports for the Bay district compiled by R. B. Harris of the First National Bank, Ocean Park. For the first quarter of the year an increase of $2,445,198 is shown over 1925 records. Last month's clearings totaled $9,819,654.67, as compared with $8,557,743.84 for March, 1925. This is within $200,000 of the peak figures reached in March, 1924. The aggregate quarterly clearance was $27,256,567. A year ago it was $24,811,369. Mr. Harris points out healthy activities in business, building and bonds, as reflected in the report.

WOMAN WHO CROSSED PLAINS IN 1853 DIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, April 2.—Mrs. Catherine Frances Alcorn, 86 year of age, who crossed the plains in 1853 with her parents in a covered wagon with an ox team and has lived in this section of the San Joaquin Valley for 53 years, died yesterday. After funeral services here Saturday the body is to be cremated at Fresno.

Woman Duelist Who Wounded Man Released

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 2.—Mrs. Louis Newman, principal in a fierce pistol duel during which O. D. Day, night chief dispatcher for the Southern Pacific here, was wounded, was released from custody today on a technical charge and if he were to build he fears he would lose through the lease and that at the time of its expiration another theater might be started in this location. The Chamber of Commerce planned to assist Williams in his proposed theater project, but since he has definitely decided not to go ahead with his plans the chamber will consider other propositions.

Mr. Day is in a hospital with a serious injury to his arm made by two bullets fired by Mrs. Newman.

Mrs. Newman has signified her intention of spending several months in San Francisco, where she will recuperate in health.

Following her arrest, she told officers she shot Day because of a broken love pact. She asserted that she and Day had agreed to divorce their spouses in order to marry one another. Mrs. Newman, who was a telephone operator for the Southern Pacific, declares she kept her agreement but Day refused to do so.

HARD-LUCK TALE WINS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 2.—The "tough luck" king was in Huntington Beach yesterday. He is Charles King Loftis, 35 years of age, an oil worker of Los Angeles. Loftis was arrested yesterday charged with being intoxicated. He told a story of having lived in the West Indies for the last fourteen years. While there he made $365 a month, which he sent home to his wife. A month before he started his return trip to the United States the last check he had sent was returned unclaimed.

Arriving in the United States he was unable to find his wife or any trace of the $55,000 which he had sent her during the last fourteen years.

Loftis was said to have been searching for his wife when arrested here. City Recorder Stewart assessed the usual fine of $25 on Loftis and then suspended the sentence.

DISREGARD OF SIREN TO BE PUNISHED

San Diego Will Penalize Autoists Delaying Police and Fire Apparatus

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, April 2.—Autoists who impede the progress of fire apparatus, or who get in the path of ambulances or police cars answering emergency calls are due for a vigorous set-back, it was announced at police headquarters today when Capt. Arthur Hill issued an order to bring in all offenders.

San Diego, according to local and out of town officials, is the worst city on the Pacific Coast when it comes to deliberate disregard of signals of fire and police apparatus. Recently, it is said, the situation has become acute. The recent chase after Gene Thomas, bandit who held up the bank on Logan avenue, was featured by the holding up of police cars by motorists, whose actions gave the bandit a much better chance to get away.

The police ambulance, carrying an aged woman to a hospital in an effort to save her life from the effects of gas poisoning, was nearly forced onto the sidewalk by a motorist, who paid no heed to the siren warning.

Men riding with the drivers of ambulances and police flying squadrons will be required to take down and turn in the numbers of all violators for prosecution and vigorous measures will be taken to eliminate the hazard of indifferent autoists by the local courts.

Ex-President of Local Company Dies at Pasadena

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 2.—Robert Riddell, former president of the A. E. Little Company of Los Angeles, died suddenly early this morning at his home, 224 Palmetto Drive, Pasadena, at the age of 75 years. Mr. Riddell had lived in Pasadena for thirteen years since his retirement from active business and was a member of the board of trustees of the Neighborhood Church here.

Born in Arnprior, Ontario, he spent the early part of his life in Minnesota and the Dakotas where he was prominently identified with the hardware business. He leaves his widow and two sons, Archie Riddell of South Pasadena and Louis C. Riddell of Los Angeles. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Turner & Stevens.

RECORD FINES GIVEN IN RUM STILL CASE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONROVIA, April 2.—The largest fine total ever assessed in a liquor case here was given today by Judge Sturgeon when he ordered three Italians to pay a total of $2700 in fines or each spend 450 days in jail. The men were arrested on March 11, last, in a raid on a residence at 1316 South California avenue, where the officers seized an operating still, twenty-eight barrels of "working" mash and 125 gallons of alcohol. The still, of finest copper and aluminum, is asserted to be worth $2000 and has been set up in the police station here. The men were fined $300 or 150 days in jail on charges of operating a still, possessing still equipment and possession of liquor. Their attorney, F. A. Heatherly, indicated that he will appeal the case. The defendants, Firmo Cambinica, Angelo Micheli and Natali Valle, were released on bail.

SAN FERNANDO TO HAVE CLEAN-UP WEEK

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN FERNANDO, April 2.—At the solicitation of the Woman's Civic League, Mayor Fowler has proclaimed clean-up week from the 5th to the 12th insts., when it is proposed to obliterate all weeds from vacant lots and remove all rubbish from the rear of residences and alleyways.

REGISTRATION AT SAN FERNANDO DROPS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN FERNANDO, April 2.—Registration for the city election here on the 12th inst. shows a decline from that of the voters registered for the last general election when 1600 names were recorded. But 1459 are entitled to cast their ballot at the coming election.

STANFORD TEAM DOPED TO WIN

Advantage of Home Track to Aid Cardinals

Superhuman Performances May Give Trojans Meet

Two and Last Pair of Events May Decide Affair

BY PAUL LOWRY
"Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PALO ALTO, April 3.—The experts of the north pick U.S.C. and the experts of the south pick Stanford to win the dual track meet between the two universities here today after-noon. Which of the deci-sions will be entirely up to the athletes themselves, who the guys pick have to de-cide it any-way.

With the officials Mis-sion meet at Palo Alto will be most of the University of California students at home the whole public is all steamed up over the Stanford-U.S.C. engage-ment.

The Trojans have already beat-en California. If they can lick Stanford they will effect a clean sweep on the two big northern universities. That will be a new record. It's never been done be-fore in the same season. In the past U.S.C. has had teams which managed to triumph over either one or the other of the northern schools the same year, but never both of 'em.

OVER A DECADE

As a matter of fact it's a long time since U.S.C. has beaten Stan-ford on the track. It's over a dec-ade and then some. It was back in the days when Waldo Throop was the Charley Paddock of S.C.

For several years track vic-tories were all Stanford had to answer unkind remarks about when they were going to win a football game from the Tro-jans, and the Cards sort of banish their supremacy on the track.

From the sidelines it looks as if the performances of the athletes in the first two events—the mile run and the 100-yard dash—and the last two events before the re-lay—the group jump and the jav-elin—are more than likely to de-cide the meet.

So here they are counting on Kerr to win both the mile and the 220 run, but that doesn't look possible. He will have to run a mile, never even figured in the 220 hurdle. If Kerr could run a mile to beat Shawhan of U.S.C. and that will leave him unfit to run against Hellman in the 220 grind. Bill tried double last year against California, after taking second to his team mate Kerr in the mile.

Son of Georgia Peach Turns Back on Diamond in Favor of Net

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

AUGUSTA (Ga.) April 2. Young Ty Cobb thinks tennis is the greatest game in the world, but he has not yet de-cided whether he will take up the sport seriously.

But one thing seems cer-tain: Young Ty will not fol-low in his father's footsteps as a diamond luminary.

The youth likes baseball and for several years played in a local grammar-school league. But since growing up—he is nearly as tall as his father—he has been in-terested in the game only as a spectator and has turned his active attention to tennis.

Tiger Baseballers Crush Wildcats by 3-to-2 Count in Lengthy Ball Game

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) April 2.—The Occidental baseball team defeated the University of Arizona nine here today 3 to 2 in fifteen innings. An error on Reid, Arizona first base-man, in the fifteenth inning, cost the locals the game. Bever, who had advanced to second, came home to break the tie, after Reid let Cher-rie's ball go through him. The Wildcats made a hard effort to score in the last half of the fifteenth, but their attempts were futile.

The credit for the victory really rests on Solly Mishkin, Tiger first sacker, for it was his home run in the ninth frame that tied the score. The Wildcats scored one in the first frame. No more runs were made until the ninth.

Tolson was on the mound for Arizona and whiffed thirteen. Powers worked for the Tigers and struck out seven. Teachout is slated to start for Oxy tomorrow, while Miller will in all probability pitch for Arizona.

JOE CONNOLLY DONATES GAME

Outfielder's Lapse Allows Cubs to Annex Tilt

Fine Hurling on Both Sides Features Struggle

Alexander to Twirl Against Seraph Squad Today

BY ROBERT RAY

"To the Chicago Cubs. With love from Joe Connolly. April 2, 1926."

Such would be a very fitting in-scription to engrave on yesterday's very nip-and-tuck ball game staged by the Chicago Cubs and Hollywood Stars at Wrigley Field. The Windy City athletes won, 2 to 1, in the eleventh inning when Connolly was thinking about either the past or future—certainly not the present—and allowed "Hack" Wilson to score from first with the winning run on Mun-son's short fly to right that should have been caught. And so Oscar Vitt's Hollywooders have yet to win a spring exhibition game and also they have yet to look bad losing one.

Yesterday's contest brought out a lot of good pitching from both sides, both the Cubs and the Stars using a trio of hurlers who were mighty stingy with their base hits Guy Bush, Percy Lee Jones, and Bob Osborn did the fling-ing for the visitors and al-lowed Hollywood but six scattered bingles, while Dick McCabe, Curtis Fullerton, and Ralph Stroud who divided the pitching burden for the Stars, yielded a like amount of hits to the Cubs.

FULLERTON IMPRESSES

Fullerton, the Stars' new hurler that they obtained from the Yankees, made an impressive showing in the four innings he worked, holding the Cubs score-less with but one hit, a single by Hartnett.

Hollywood had two chances to win the contest in the regulation nine innings, but on both occa-sions the necessary punch was not forthcoming so the athletes had to continue their efforts overtime without pay.

In the seventh inning after two were out, Zoellers was hit by a pitched ball and went to third when Hillis followed with a single. However, Skipper Vitt was retired on a loft to Wilson so that spoiled

A PAIR OF SPRINT CHAMPS

PADDOCK BIG FEATURE OF TRACK PROGRAM TODAY

BY BRAVEN DYER

With Charles W. Paddock featured in one and possibly two exhibition races, the annual All-Conference track and field meet will be staged at the Coliseum this afternoon. The world's fastest human is to share the limelight with athletes from Occidental, Caltech, Southern Branch, Pomona, Redlands and Whittier. Although Oxy has already nabbed the South-ern Conference title there is plenty of interest in the meet and with Paddock making his maiden appearance of the season here a tremendous crowd is anticipated. Results of the Stan-ford-U.S.C. meet in the north will be given to local fans hot off the wire, the arrangement adding considerably to the zest of the afternoon's program.

Paddock is slated to run 100 yards in an effort to lower the world's record of 9.6s., he now holds jointly with three oth-ers. It is doubt-ful if he is yet ripe this season to smash the mark, but the old thrill of seeing Charley tear down the track will be there just the same. If he "feels right" fol-lowing this race, Paddock will take a crack at the world's rec-ord of 16s flat for the 150 meters. The mark is now held by K. Lindberg of Swe-den, and Charley desires to remove that gentleman's name from the books.

APPETIZING RACES

There will be plenty of other ap-petising races on the bill of fare. Offhand the distance runs look as if they would be productive of the best times. Atwood Scovel of Oxy faces Edsel Pearcy of the Branch in the two-mile, and may lower his own conference record of 9m, 51.3s. There seems to be no limit to Scovel's endurance. The last time he met Pearcy the Grizzly had been weakened by participation in the mile a few minutes before. To-day Pearcy will run only the two-mile, so it is reasonale to ex-pect that he will give Scovel some-thing to worry about. Bill Snyder, king of the conference eight-lap men last year, is also a possibility here.

The mile features Berie Goodheart, another Tiger star, against Elvin Drake, still an-other Grizzly luminary. The former won the last time the two met and will probably do so again today, although he

Charley Hoff Leaves East Today on First Leg of California Journey

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Charley Hoff, sensational Norwegian athlete, leaves tomorrow for Chicago on the first lap of a transconti-nental tour.

Hoff has received invitations to exhibit his pole-vaulting and all-around prowess in more than a dozen cities of the Far West, Mid-dle West and South, but the only definite engagement he has made so far is for the Drake relay car-nical at Des Moines, Iowa, the 23rd and 24th inst. He expects, however, to accept invitations to compete at Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles. The pole-vault champion will be accompanied by his bride and brother-in-law.

CONQUISTADOR WINS FIRST RACE AT TIA JUANA TRACK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK, April 2.—Conquistador, full brother of the sensational Morvich, came through with colors flying in the initial start of his career today when he trimmed a good band of 2-year-olds in the first race at four and a half furlongs, a prep for the Futurity next Sunday. The sterling son of Runnymede and Hymir opened up with a long lead in the first two furlongs but was tiring at the end. Shasta Comfort took second money with the show, going to Col. Seth.

Conquistador, running in the silks of Baron Long, San Diego sportsman, showed a marvelous effort. The four and a half furlong course proved slightly too long for him in the first event in which he has ever raced, but his early speed more than over-came the handicap. With a little more racing he is like-ly to develop into a power-ful runner.

Shasta Comfort, the pride of the Brown Shasta Stock Farm, fin-ished very fast and was fast wear-ing down the lead of the winner and would have won in a few more feet. Col. Seth raced for-wardly to nose out Lacometa for the show. Sergt. Seth had trou-

SWIM TITLISTS REDUCED

Eliminations and Withdrawals Cut Down Field of Intercollegiate Finalists to Thirty

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ANNAPOLIS, April 2.—Two elimination contests and an epidemic of last-minute withdrawals today reduced contestants for the national individual intercollegiate swimming championships to thirty.

The finalists, representing twelve colleges and universities in the East, Middle West and West, will take to the water in the Naval Academy tank tomorrow. The scratches today obviated the necessity of elimination tests in five of the seven scheduled events.

Fall of Stanford and O'Brien of Illinois will flip from the spring-board tomorrow as the leading contenders for the national fancy diving honors. They ran the gamut from flying Dutchmen to double-somersaults today, to qualify with ratings of 82.9 and 77.6, respective-ly. Their nearest competitor, Car-ter of Minnesota, rated 74.8.

In the other preliminary the 200-yard breast stroke, Allan of the Navy covered the dis-tance in 2:48 8-10 for a new Navy pool record, but his time was more than six seconds slower than the intercollegiate record. If today's form holds to-morrow, he and Leader of Le-high will duel for the cham-pionship. Neither was afforded any pressing competition in today's heats.

MISSOURIANS FACE BEARS

Dopesters Evenly Divided as to Outcome of Big Intersectional Trackfest in North Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BERKELEY, April 2.—With dopsters divided as to the relative chances of the Universities of Missouri and California in the first in-tersectional track meet on the Pacific Coast this season tomorrow on the California oval here, the athletes themselves finished up their training today.

The teams were limited to twenty-two men each and for that reason some of the athletes were entered in as many as three and four events. The Missourians have shaken the travel kinks out of their system and will push the Bruin cinder men to flashy per-formances in most of the numbers on the program.

Elmer Boyden, undisputed king of Pacific Coast half-milers, may be paced to a new season's record by Perdue of Missouri, who has shown in practice here that he is fast in the middle distances.

Ken Lancaster of the visitors has been doing some practice broad jumping that will be tough competition for Elmer Bondshu of the Bruins, but competition is the sort of thing that has made Bond-shu extend himself in the past.

Elmer Gerkin of the Bears will have an opportunity to toss the discus and shot against Capt. Doss Richerson of the Missouri squad, who is generally conceded to have a better chance of winning.

Casa Del Mar Wins National Relay Event

Taking a lead in the second lap, Club Casa Del Mar finished ten yards ahead of a fast field to win the 220-yard woman's senior national relay champions h i p in 2m. 3s. at the Venice plunge last night. The Los Angeles Athletic Club team, for three years champions, finished second with the Hollywood Ath-letic Club third. The Neptune Club of Ala-meda, which was a favorite, failed to show up. The time set by the club was not particularly fast and the record was not ap-proached.

The Club Casa Del Mar is made up of Dodie Blewett, Thelma Finn, Lillie May Bowmer and Cecily Cunha, all well-known swim stars.

Lillie May Bowmer fur-nished a feature of the meet when she unofficially broke the Pacific Coast 220-yard free-style record in 2m. 57 2-5s. As the meet was not under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Association the record will not be recognized. Miss Bowmer is swimming for the Club Casa Del Mar. Cecily Cunha of the club was second, with Marjorie Lowe of the Hollywood Ath-letic Club third.

Reginald Harrison and George Wolf, both of the Venice Plunge Association, raced to a dead heat in the 220-yard free-style men's event. Th etime of 2m. 25 4-5s. is close to the present Pacific Coast mark.

RICKARD BESTS COMMISSION

New York Promoter Can Use Yankee Stadium or Boyle's Thirty Acres for Title Fight

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Tex Rickard, with the Yankee Stadium or Boyle's Thirty Acres as available arenas for his proposed Dempsey-Tunney match, has played his heavyweight cards so skillfully that the State Athletic Commission now must change front or see a million-dollar title fight go to rival Jersey territory, boxing observers asserted today.

Dempsey, thus settling the status of the two outstanding challeng-ers, but Wills already has re-jected one opportunity for such a test. His attitude has been that he is entitled to first call without any further preliminaries by hav-ing for several years proved his right to the top challenging po-sition.

It is possible that some of the atmosphere may be cleared when the commission holds its regular meeting next Tuesday, at which time dates sought by Rickard for Yankee Stadium shows during the summer are likely to be acted upon. He already has said he would pre-fer August 12 or September 3 for his "big shot," presumably the Dempsey-Tunney match.

Jake Schaefer Increases His Lead in Match

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Jake Schaefer increased his lead over the champion, Wil-lie Hoppe, in their 3500-point 18.1 balk line billiard title match by winning to-night's block, 300 to 35, run-ning out in 4 innings.

With only two blocks to be played tomorrow, it appears that Hoppe has lost his last crown, and once upon a time he held them all. Schaefer ran 145 at the start of to-night's block, while Hoppe could make only one in the same inning. The champion's high was 24.

O'BRIEN WINS IN SIXTH

Referee Freddy Gilmore Awards Bout to Tommy When Schaeffer is Downed by Hard Right

Referee Freddy Gilmore raised Terrible Tommy O'Brien's right duke over Frankie Schaeffer in the sixth round of their scheduled ten-round main event at Hollywood last night after Schaeffer had fallen to the canvas in an attempt to stave off a knockout. O'Brien planted two hard rights in Schaeffer's chin as the round opened. Schaeffer was still groggy from a terrific fifth stanza and toppled over, finally rising to one knee, which caused Gilmore to disqualify him and award the fight to O'Brien.

Although some of the Schaeffer fans were not a little peeved over the decision, the finish was only a matter of time. O'Brien out-punched, out-fought and out-boxed Schaeffer every minute of the fight. O'Brien was altogether too fast for the Chicago light-weight, running rings around him. Every one of the six rounds were O'Brien's with Schaeffer barely putting over a telling punch.

POMONA FROSH WIN TITLE

Upchicks Nose Oxy Peagreeners Out in Great Meet by One Point; Branch Cops Third

Thirteen points, made in the javelin and relay, the final events, gave the Pomona freshman track team 51 points and the annual frosh conference meet at Occidental College yesterday. The Oxy yearlings came second with 50, Southern Branch third with 44, Redlands 21, and Whittier 10.

For the third consecutive year the relay decided the meet. Before the stick-passing race the total was ahead with 47 and Pomona had 46. The relay counts were 5, 3 and 1, just like all other points to the winner of it would be championship.

Jack Smith, former Hollywood star, and Ward Schweizer, who hails from Franklin, started it for Pomona and Oxy, respectively. Pomona passed Schweizer at the 220 mark, but was trailing the blond Oxy two yards at the finish. Bill Occidental retained this lead over Phelps of Pomona on the last quarter.

CORWIN BIG HERO

Corwin, a speedy runner from Pomona, really won the race for Pomona, by passing Laddie Hall of Occidental and giving Pomona a three-yard lead on the last lap. Corwin had just finished running the half-mile and Mullard

Joe Pipal's Tiger frosh were the sensation of the day, al-though they did not win. Dope pointed to a close race between Pomona and Southern Branch. Having lost Biscar, a sprinter and jumper, Oxy wasn't con-ceded anything better than a third. However, Blanchard took the points in the high hurdles that were supposed to belong to Burgard of South-ern Branch, and Schweizer and Campbell, who tied for first in the quarter, cut deeply into points expected by Po-mona.

A young gent by the name of Webb, who came to Occidental from Hollywood, and is competing for the first time in athletics, was

OFF YEAR FOR LOCAL YOUTHS

Experience Great Greens Aid in Coming Classic

Title Flight Matches to be Hotly Contested

Annual Dinner to Introduce Field Monday

BY BILL WISE

W. W. Campbell of the Los Angeles club, veteran of many historic tee and greens battles, in fine form through a practice round at the California Club yesterday, bids fair to stage a great golfing comeback in the Southern California amateur classic that will start over the Culver City course Tuesday.

DR. PAUL HUNTER

With George Von Elm, titleholder, out of the play, it looks like a great year for the return of some past amateur champ. Capt. A. Bullock-Webster, former State champion, staged a great come-back to win the northern crown last week, and the English golfing gentleman, who has always made a fine showing in the local title tourney, should come very close to copping Southern California's premier crown this year.

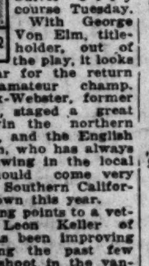
While everything points to a veterans' classic, Leon Keller of Rancho, who has been improving immensely during the past few months, should shoot in the vanguard of a flashy field of youngsters, any one of whom may do the unexpected and topple tourney favorites for the down-State title.

Von Elm coasted through the southern last year in real championship form. Despite the fact that there will be more than 250 entrants in the coming event, no one player can claim the distinction of the class that has carried California's favorite amateur to many major titles.

All of the foregoing is naturally supposing that Von Elm does not play in this year's event. George leaves for Europe with the Walker Cup team within the next few weeks, and has just about decided to stay out of all local competition until he returns—and we hope he returns with all possible foreign laurels.

Down from the north—swinging clubs that have carried him through many tourneys, will come slender Johnnie McHugh—one of the best players in the State, and entitled to rank very close to our own incomparable Von Elm.

Johnnie, who is very popular in these parts, won the State crown two years ago and should be in fine condition to just about cop the Southern event this year. "Babe" Ritchie is another tough golfer from the Bay City district who has more than an outside chance at the championship. Babe is one of the cockiest little mashie wielders from the north and he, too, is warranted to cause lots of trouble locally.



W. W. Campbell

Harlow Hurley, after months in the Imperial Valley, is back working hard for the amateur and Hurley is a mighty fine golfer. Jack Neville has been swinging back to his former championship game and Dr. Paul M. Hunter of Annandale is another local star who should finish very near the top in the southern tilt. Dr. Hunter, ranking several strokes better than E. S. Armstrong and many others, should share possible championship honors with Norman Macbeth of Wilshire. Both Hunter and Macbeth have forgotten more golf than many present champions will ever know and the tee and greens knowledge will stand them in good stead in the tourney next week.

The California course, thanks to the untiring efforts of W. O. Pryor, greens chairman, is in very fine condition. California is not a hard course to score on, but there is much trouble and poorly played shots will be penalized more or less severely.

Judging from the class of the field already signed for the southern, it would seem very possible that the thirty-two players making the championship flight will have to aggregate 156 for the thirty-six holes with a few possibly tying with 157. The match play following the two qualifying rounds should develop into some mighty fine golf for California, at the present time, is a better match than medal course.

Awarding the greatest event in Southern California golf to the California club was a distinct compliment to E. R. Hurst, club president. Hurst has done more for golf at his home organization than all other forces combined. The popular California executive has piloted his club through to the present high plane and could retire tomorrow with much glory for every invitational event sponsored by California has resulted in an entry establishing new local records.

Entries for the southern must be in by Monday noon, so that partners and starting time may be assigned. Reservations are coming in fast for the annual feature pool dinner in the California club, Monday at 6:30 p.m. The time-honored custom of introducing outstanding favorites in the event has always drawn a fine crowd and reservations are still available.

CHAPIN AND TILDEN REACH NET FINALS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

AUGUSTA, April 2.—Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., Springfield, Mass., and William Tilden, Philadelphia, national champion advanced to the finals of the South Atlantic tennis tournament here today. Howard Voshell, Brooklyn, N. Y., defaulted after one set had been won by Chapin 11-9 and a second had dragged through 16 games to stand at 8-8.

Tilden defeated Jerry Lang, New York 2-6; 6-4; 6-7; 6-4 and 6-3.

TWO CHICAGO STARS

BY FEG MURRAY

Metropolitan Newspaper Service

Two new stars of the first magnitude have been added to the constellation of fine women golfers who call Chicago their home. Add the names of Miss Dorothy Klotz of Indian Hill, and Miss Virginia Van Wie of Beverly to that distinguished list of feminine stars of the Windy City which includes Edith Cummings, a former champion; Mrs. Fred C. Letts, and Mrs. J. F. Born (the former Miriam Burns of Kansas City.)

In recent tournaments in the South each of these two new satellites has defeated the national women's champion, Miss Glenna Collett, who is known as the greatest woman golfer in America.

First, in the South Atlantic Championship, held at Ormond Beach the last week in February, Miss Dorothy Klotz ascended to the throne by beating Miss Collett in the semifinals, and Miss Mary Browne, who was runner up in the 1924 women's national championship, in the finals.

Then the ladies packed their golf clubs and their lip sticks over to St. Augustine, where Miss Klotz won the qualifying medal in the Florida East Coast tournament. More fireworks occurred in the second round, when Dorothy beat Mrs. Hurd, national women's champion in 1924. So this Chicago girl, who had previously won only one championship, the Chicago title, had now beaten Glenna Collett, Mary Browne, and Mrs. Hurd within the space of a few days.

But she hadn't beaten the 17-year old Virginia Van Wie yet, nor did she; for Virginia won four up and two to play on March 5, thus earning the right to play Miss Collett in the finals. And on the next day this Chicago lassie jumped to stardom by defeating the national champion in an extra-hole match, playing perhaps the finest golf ever seen in this country.

Thus the Beverly junior, who had previously won the Florida State women's title, added the East Coast crown to her collection, and her proud papa gave her an auto in recognition of her victory. But she'll do well to drive her daddy's present any better than she does a golf ball!

WOMEN AWAIT HAM EVENT

Harry H. Ham, secretary of the Brentwood club, fresh from a two months invasion of Florida, is all set to play host to more than 150 local women golfers expected to play in the one day invitational tourney that he will sponsor at the Brentwood club, Tuesday.

The Ham Invitational affair was made an annual event several years ago and the entry each year has exceeded a hundred players. Entrants play an 18-hole medal round in three classes, scratch to ten, eleven to twenty and twenty-one to thirty. The winner of tourney low net will have her name enscribed on the large Harry Ham trophy that remains the property of the club and will also be given a replica of the perpetual prize. The winners of low gross and low net in all divisions will also draw beautiful trophies.

MRS. GREGG LITFUR

There is no entry fee for the feminine classic and all players will be guests of the sponsor at a special club buffet luncheon in the Brentwood home, at noon, Tuesday. Entries may be forwarded to the club or made at the first tee. Players will qualify in foursomes.

San Diego High Net Team Plays Oxy Freshmen

With Bob Muench and Robert Blade in the line-up, the strong San Diego High School varsity tennis team will invade the courts of the Occidental College this afternoon, where the team will tackle the freshman squad of the Tiger institution in a series of contests.

The Hilltoppers have been on a tour of the State during which time they have defeated many crack net teams with ease. The local Southern Branch freshman squad, winners of the Southern California conference tennis title, were easy prey for the Southerners, who fell by the wayside to a tune of 5-2. Since the Grizzlies easily trounced the Tigers by the same tally, the Hilltop racket-wielders will be huge favorites in the dual contest.

SOCCER SEASON CLOSES

Sons and Scots Clash in Feature Tilt at Loyola Park Tomorrow Afternoon

The Sons of St. George soccer team is being favored over the Scots in the feature game of the double-header at Loyola Field tomorrow afternoon. The wearers of the kilties, however, are expected to give the Sons keen competition and the possibilities are that the points will be won by a close goal margin.

The fact that they have been placed on the short end by the dopesters has bothered the Scots not at all, according to Capt. Benny Hawkins, the aggressive fullback of the Scots. Benny voiced the sentiments of the Scots when he stated that if the Sons are lucky enough to win they will have well earned the points.

Both are anxious to finish the season with a victory, and for both squads tomorrow's game will be their last this year. Kick-off is timed for 3 p.m.

Vikings are ruling favorite over the Thistles. These teams meet in the preliminary starting at 1 p.m. This game will also mark the final appearance of these teams this season. The only remaining games are the finals of the league next week and the cup final the following Sunday, in both of which the champion Mercuries and Hollywood A. C. are the principals.

ASCOT RACERS CLASH

Ascot Speedway yesterday afternoon was the scene of the largest collection of rail birds ever present at the local speed emporium. The rivalry which has sprung up between Ted Simpson with his No. 2 Chrysler and Speed Hinkley mounted on the Rajo Special 46 has created no little comment and wagers of sound proportion are offered by the backers of these two able stars.

The order, issued by Ward Wing, not allowing the two cars on the track at the same time for practice almost started a small war yesterday afternoon and as Ted Simpson put in an appearance at the dirt bowl late in the day with a huge crowd from Auto Row to see the results of his new gears, the track superintendant refused him admittance as Hinkley was on. The entire situation almost caused a rush at the gate and only the timely appearance of Promotor Wing cooled the tenseness down and Ted patiently waited until Hinkley came out, as the crowd which followed Speed passed from the infield entrance another touchy moment occurred and with many boos and catcalls Simpson's crowd passed in.

HICKS LEADING SERRANOS PLAY

Virginia Golfer Under Field With Aggregate of 160

Allen Moser Second in Class A With Medal of 162

F. G. Smith Ties for Trophy in Second Division

Fred W. Hicks of the Virginia Club slipped home with a fine 79 yesterday for a 36 hole aggregate of 160 and low gross honors in the annual invitational tourney of the Los Serranos Club, that will conclude today.

The Long Beach golfer, who scored an 81 to tie for second day honors Thursday, was in fine form yesterday and had his putting eye focusing on every cup, and the 79 resulted.

Allen Moser of Wilshire, who led the first day field with an 81, Wednesday, was unable to better his final score yesterday and is resting in second place in the Class A, scratch to six division, with an aggregate of 162. F. M. Hunter of Annandale and George Shaw of California are tied for third place with 167's.

Franklin G. Smith of Rancho, after an 87 Thursday, was home with a medal of 79 yesterday to tie Hicks for daily low gross and also has a 36 hole aggregate of 166, to lead in the Class B, seven to twelve handicap division. Bill Van Meter of San Gabriel won the class low net yesterday with 84-12-72.

W. E. Babb of Virginia is leading in the Class C, thirteen to eighteen handicap division, with an aggregate of 187, through the medium of a 90 yesterday, seven strokes less than his initial medal.

More than two score players in the three division event will medal their final 18-hole round today, and while final results may be changed, the following scores of the players who have already completed their two rounds, should stand up very well. David Martin, Dick Smith, Monte Rucker and E. M. Jones all have a chance at the Class A medal.

O'BRIEN WINS BOUT IN SIXTH

found the eastern lightweight frequently. The fifth round was O'Brien's best. He came out of his corner, catching Schaeffer before he had left his own corner. Terrible Tommy rained rights and lefts to Schaeffer's chin, while the Chicagoan held onto the ropes with one hand. Schaeffer was all but out from the terrific barrage as O'Brien landed fifteen times without a return.

The beating Schaeffer took in the fifth started him on the down path and O'Brien was out to finish him in the sixth. Schaeffer was not knocked out, but simply lay down to take a brief rest and clear his head. Freddy Gilmore was within his rights in awarding the fight to O'Brien.

Al Allegrini was awarded a lucky draw over Mike Hector in the six-round semi-wind-up. Hector was the favorite to win and, according to a majority of the fans, deserved the decision. Referee Joe Rivers failed to see it in the same light and raised his hands in token of a draw after the torrid scrap.

Mike had Allegrini in a bad way with hard lefts in the first and sixth frames. The ex-Los Angeles Athletic Club boxer had his left eye decorated and was otherwise mauled by Hector.

Whether the fact that Joe Rivers was the third man in the ring had anything to do with it or not, the first three bouts ended in technical knockouts.

THREE KAYOS

Danny Jordan, who was imported from Washington to take Paul De Haute's place, scored a technical kayo over Sid Marks in the third canto of their argument. Jordan carried a haymaker in the right mitten. He had Marks down for a nine count in the second round, and Rivers stopped the bout after Marks was out on his feet in the third stanza.

Bob Perry came back to kayo Mike Flores in the third round after the Mexican had him on the floor for a nine count in the first. Sammy Rothstein was awarded a decision on a foul over Attilo Biondella in the opener. The low blow was struck in the second round.

SAGEHEN BALL TEAM BEATS SAN DIEGO

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA COLLEGE, April 2.—Pomona College ran wild over the San Diego State College baseball team here today, beating the southerners 19 to 3 in a wild game. Don Holsinger, on the mound for the winners, pitched almost shut-out ball for five innings, weakening in the last few frames. Harold Merritt and Capt. Pete Spicer pulled off two or three double plays all by themselves during the game. Manildi, Pomona catcher, starred at bat.

YALE FENCING TEAM SWEEPS THROUGH FENCING TITLISTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Yale's fencing team made a clean sweep in the intercollegiate championships by winning the saber and foil titles today after annexing the epee honors last night. The Eli fencers went through their five foils matches without a defeat after rolling up a winning total of sixteen points in the saber competitions with three victories and two tied matches.

Harvard placed second in the foils with four victories and one defeat, with Navy, 1925 champion, and Columbia tied for third with two triumphs and three defeats.

CUBS NOSE OUT HOLLYWOOD

that chance. Osborn took the mound for the Cubs in the eighth and had a mild spell that filled the sacks with Stars with two men away. Howard Lindimore was sent in to bat for Fullerton but his best was a sharp grounder to Shannon who turned it into a forceout at second.

The Cubs nicked McCabe for the opening run of the struggle in the fourth frame by bunching a walk, a single and a sacrifice fly. Zoellers made a great catch of Wilson's drive to center to open the inning, but Munson, he of the piano legs, drew a walk. With the hit-and-run sign on, Freigau singled to left and Munson ankled to third while the Cub third sacker took second on the throw-in. Grimm drove a long sacrifice fly to Frederick, who snared the ball up against the left-field wall. Johnny was still backing up when he made the catch so he tossed the ball to Zoellers to make the throw-in. Munson scored easily. Freigau kept right on going for the plate when he rounded third, but was nailed, Frederick to Zoellers to Hillis to Cook.

STARS KNOT COUNT

The Stars knotted the count in the fifth and forced Joe McCarthy to derrick Bush in favor of Mr. Percy Lee Jones, a left-hander of note, who quelled the uprising with three pitches, none of which hit Joe Connolly's bat. Bush had retired Kerr and Cook when he blew up and walked both Fullerton and Zoellers. Hillis poked a single to center, Fullerton scoring and Zoellers rambling to third. Bush also walked Vitt, filling the bases, so McCarthy called a halt and put in Jones. Inasmuch as Jones is a southpaw and Frank O'Doul, who was up, hits from the left side of the plate, Vitt sent Joe Connolly in to bat for O'Doul. As later events proved, that stroke of strategy won the ball game for the Cubs. Jones struck out Connolly and the Stars lost another perfectly good chance to sew up the struggle.

Things went along in easy shape until the eleventh. Adams popped to Vitt for a starter and Sheehan made a shoestring catch of Heathcote's low liner for the second out. Wilson walked. Then came Munson's drooping drive to right. The ball fooled Connolly for he started to back up on it as soon as it hit the bat. Then he came charging in but he had to slow down to catch the ball on the first bounce. It wouldn't have been so bad had not Joe evinced a desire to hang onto the ball instead of throwing it into the infield. As Wilson rounded third Connolly was still fondling the horsehide close to his bosom, so "Hack" tore right on for the plate. Joe then discovered what was happening and got off a belated throw to Peters but it arrived just as Wilson was getting his trousers dusty by sliding over the plate.

KERR SINGLES

Johnny Kerr singled to center to give the Hollywood fans the wrong impression in the home half of the eleventh, and watched idly from first while Peters and Stroud broadcast lofts to Cub fielders. Johnny swiped second to put the tying run in position to score in case somebody singled, but Zoellers grounded to Grimm, who tossed the ball to Osborn at first to end the contest.

The Angels get a final whack at the Cubs today and will attempt to hold their advantage over the Bruins. The Seraphs have downed the Cubs three times in the five games played so far, and the Windy City athletes will be out to even the count.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the ace of the Cub staff, will pitch part of the game for the Cubs, while it is expected that Krug will use "Doc" Crandall or Whitey Glazner against the visitors. Score:

CRUICKSHANK ANNEXES TITLE

sational comeback with 34 won the title for him.

Yates, present north and south amateur champion, was at the heels of the New York player and his 34-35-73 card this morning put him within a notch for first place. He started play during the final round by boling a birdie 2 on the fourth, but after being out in 36, he required a 6 to sink his putt on the eleventh. On the seventh, he missed by inches, putting from thirty feet off the green, and at the home green when a 3 would have meant a tie, his third hopped out of the cup on another long putt.

MacDonald Smith of New York, defending champion, set the pace for the final round with a string of 4's that was broken over the first nine only at one hole. That was at the eighth where his tee shot of 166 yards dropped into the cup for an ace. A bad lie on the fairway of the thirteenth, and overplaying the hole at the short seventh, however, were chances he lost to overhaul Cruickshank.

Walter Hagen, American professional champion, who entered the tournament a favorite, finished with a 299, tied with Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C.

COMPTON TIPS INGLEWOOD

Farmers Nose Sentinels Out in Thrilling Dual Meet, 57 to 56; Relay Is Deciding Issue

Compton won a nip-and-tuck dual meet from Inglewood yesterday afternoon at Compton by a 57-to-56 score. The Sentinels were ahead with the relay to be run off. Speeding up in the last lap, the Farmers won the baton-passing event and annexed the meet at the same time.

Cecil Howard, demon Compton sprinter, captured first place in the 100 and 220 events. Howell of Inglewood, finished a few inches behind in each race. Jack Ferguson, Sentinel miler, won a great race in the fast time of 4m. 44.6s. He was never headed and trotted in at the finish.

Inglewood rates as one of the strongest teams in the Bay League and promises to be heard from in the Bay League meet to be held at Huntington Park on the 17th inst.

U.S.C. AND L.A.A.C. IN DUAL MEET

Event Tentatively Arranged for April 24

Track Rivals Slated to Meet on Coliseum Oval

Mercuries Also Entered in Triangular Meet

Although definite arrangements have not yet been completed, prospects of a dual meet between the Los Angeles Athletic Club and U. S. C. track teams loomed bright yesterday. The two outfits are slated to tangle a week from today in a triangular meet with the Olympic Club, said affair to occur at the Coliseum.

A few days ago U. S. C. expressed the desire to tackle the club team in a dual meet sometime during the latter part of this month or early in May, and intimated that the Mercuries therefore ought to withdraw from the triangular meet. L. A. A. C. officials looked upon this as an attempt to avoid encountering their team as they could find no dates open on the Coliseum schedule and concluded the Trojans were trying to dodge their squad—which has come into some prominence in these parts by its victory over Stanford.

U. S. C. replied that nothing was further from the truth and yesterday Gwynn Wilson, graduate manager at the Trojan institution; Zack Farmer, manager of the Coliseum; Charley Keppen, Owen Bird and Boyd Comstock of the Athletic Club met and practically agreed to April 24 for a dual meet. The triangular meet a week from today is still "on," the other affair being in the nature of an added attraction.

At present the C. I. F. preliminaries are scheduled for April 24. Farmer and Wilson will endeavor to get C. I. F. authorities to agree to the holding of their trials in the morning so that U. S. C. and the Mercuries can tangle in the afternoon. This is the only possible date the two teams can meet and inasmuch as track fans desire to see a battle between them it is expected that C. I. F. authorities will agree to the new program.

STANFORD TO MEET TROJANS

teammate, Smith, in the mile, 4m. 26 4-5s. never even figured in the two mile. If Kerr could run a slow mile it would be different, but Shawhan will be out for blood, and he stands a show to beat the former Huntington Park lad.

DARK HORSE MAYBE

Results in the century will cut a lot of figure in the outcome Stanford expects Erskine Coverly, who became eligible last Monday, to be the real dark horse of the day. A first for him in the 100 would upset Trojan hopes for eight points from Ed House and Herschel Smith.

If Shawhan can beat Kerr and House and Smith take first and second in the 100 they will do a lot with their thirteen points to five for Stanford in the first two events to offset the sixteen points to two theCards expect to snag in the javelin and broad jump.

If the Cards with McRae and Meeks in the broad and Harlow and Ted Shipkey in the javelin win first and second in each of those events and the relay, in which they are a cinch, the Trojans will have to come down to the last three events with a twenty-point margin in order to win.

On form Stanford figures to score just as she plans, in the broad jump and javelin. In the big meet with California last year McRae leaped 23ft. 2 3-4in. to win the event, and Meeks placed third with 22ft. 11 1-4in. Reynolds of U.S.C. leaped a fraction over 23ft. to beat Bondahu in the California meet at the Coliseum, but he'll be on a strange field tomorrow and he's not a veteran of competition.

In the javelin Harlow has been throwing over 190 feet with Ted Shipkey close up. Last year the latter took third in the big meet with a toss of 183ft. 1in. Cook of U.S.C. won from California with 175ft. 5in. this year.

CINCH VICTORS

There is nothing to the relay but Stanford with Richardson, Storie, Miller and either McGuire or Babcock running. U.S.C. hasn't a quarter-miler who can beat any of these men.

Just where U.S.C. is going to grab the needed 20-point margin in the other events is not quite clear. Ten points seem to be a fair guess because Coach Dink Templeton expects to cut the Trojans out of some points by running Capt. Richardson in the 220 as well as the half, and Ted Miller, the quarter star, in the half. Richardson displayed exceptional speed in the half-mile relay against the L.A.A.C. last week and Miller has demonstrated such worth as an 880 man that he is counted on to step in ahead of Percy Nierbach.

If this happens it means Dean Cromwell must inspire his athletes to the superhuman in events in which they do not figure heavily in the dope sheets, else victory will not perch on Trojan banners.

Rain clouds were hovering in the sky this afternoon, otherwise all elements point toward the kind of competition one reads about. The battle is expected here to outclass anything in Northern California this season.

Dean Cromwell and 37 U.S.C. athletes left here last night on the "Lark." The Trojans were all pepped up and fully expect to take the measure of their rivals today. Cromwell and Tommy Davis, assistant coach, have stayed with their men practically every minute during the past week and report everybody in great shape.

Morton Kaer, who pulled a muscle in the inter-class meet last week, will join the team in Palo Alto. He has been at home trying to iron out the kinks in his leg. Kaer might nose West of Stanford out in the low hurdles, which would help U.S.C. not a little.

SCOTSMAN IS REAL GOLFER

Veteran Copped Second Place at 1916 National

(Copyright, 1926, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

JIM BARNES.

If the season of 1915 was in a way disappointing, so far as winning went, luck was with me the following year, which made up for the lean one that preceded it. I started the year by winning the North and South open championship at Pinehurst, beating out Tom Kerrigan and Clarence Hackney, who tied for second place. This tournament was my first real experience with them, and they proved

...greens, and ...interesting. The putting went surprisingly well, for one thing, too, on a freshly dragged green one can actually trace a path of the ball from the time it starts to where it stops. More than that, it is generally possible to see the path the club head takes in striking the ball, and by studying this carefully one can tell what is wrong when a bad putt is made.

In the national championship, played that year at the Minneapolis Club of Minneapolis, I finished four strokes back of the winner, who turned up in Chick Evans. Besides he won the amateur championship as well, and so had the distinction of being the first and only player in this country who has ever held both titles the same year. Chick's winning total was 286, which was—and still is—the worst total ever scored in the championship.

LOSES PRIZE

Up to the time that I finished my game was next best, and as Evans, being an amateur, was not eligible for money prizes, I hoped for first—for money, even if it didn't carry the championship with it. But in the end Jock Hutchinson beat me to it. Jock was a late starter and came on well almost at the last with a great round of 68. I started the second leading him by five strokes, but he picked up six on me in this round, and so nosed out first prize. This was the first 68 ever scored in the national championship.

Later on that season I managed to square accounts with Jock. That was in the professional golfers' championship, which was staged that year for the first time. The Siwanoy Country Club of New York was the scene of the tournament, and Jock and I met in the final match. It was a nip-and-tuck battle from the first tee in the morning to the last green in the afternoon. We had both been playing good golf. As we neared the finish I found myself two down with three to play, but managed to win the last three holes in a row, and won the match by one hole.

Jock and I have played lots of golf together, sometimes as partners, sometimes opposing each other, and I want to say that there are and have been few more brilliant players than this same Scot. Yet he has never been able to win our national championship. He has never yet caught luck with him at the right time. And a player does have to be lucky to win a golf championship.

I don't mean, of course, that luck and nothing else with it will win, and I may also add there have been few, if any, fluke champions. There have been some to win unexpectedly in one year, who never before or afterward even threatened to win again, and this applies to both amateurs and professionals. But if you are a mind to check back over the circumstances of their winning, you are more than apt to find that they were playing very fine golf, indeed, to win in that particular tournament.

GOLF LUCK

Chiefly what is meant by golf luck in the good fortune to find yourself playing at the top of your game at the right time. Generally this means striking the tournament a little below your best, but striking it as you are climbing to the top of your best form. This is one of the reasons why it has come to be so generally said that the medalist in a tournament rarely wins the chief match play prize. The chances are, if he is really good enough to win when near the top of his game, he has come to the peak a little too soon when he wins the medal, and his play is apt to sag before he works his way through the subsequent rounds of match play.

Not very long since, a group of golfers were talking about the difficulty of winning a golf championship these days when there are so many good players. The question was put up to me as to whether when I won the open championship in 1921, I was essentially a better golfer than two or three years before, when I had finished behind the winner. My answer was that I was not. There wasn't a shot that I had in the bag when I won that I couldn't have played as well two, three, and maybe more years before. But on the other occasions the combination for winning had not been set right. Little things that could hardly be called mistakes had cost me strokes, whereas somebody else was doing possibly the same thing and getting the benefit of better breaks and so scoring better. Not that luck was discriminating against me. The same thing was happening with others as well. There can be only one winner, and he must be favored by the luck in several respects.

HARD TO WIN

It's pretty much as Bobby Jones remarked after the qualifying round in the amateur championship at Brookline in 1922. After looking over the draw, which included in addition to practically all of the best amateurs in this country, three or four members of the British Walker Cup team who were here at the time, Bobby remarked that he couldn't figure how anybody could win. By this, he meant, of course, that no matter whom one might pick as a possible winner, a check down through the probable matches he would have to play, left you under the impression that there was nobody who could be figured to meet and defeat the list or star players that would have to be encountered.

GOTHAM TEAM IN WYOMING

New York Ice Hockey Sextet to Arrive in City on Monday Morning for Championship Pro Series

Telegraphic word was received last night from Tex Rickard's New York American ice hockey team by the Palais de Glace to the effect that the Gotham sextet had reached Wyoming en route to Los Angeles and would arrive here at 8:45 o'clock Monday morning.

Plans were immediately begun by the Palais de Glace management to give the Rickard puck chasers a royal welcome when they land in Los Angeles for the East-West professional championship series with the Los Angeles Pros at the Palais beginning Thursday night.

The message from Tom Gorman, manager of the New York team, who is accompanying them to the Coast, stated that all the Rickard players are in the pink of condition and will be ripe for the most important intersectional United States series of the year when they arrive.

Meanwhile Tom Casey's Los Angeles squad is working out daily at the Palais de Glace, preparing for the onslaught of the invaders, and showing pep and confidence that indicates New York will have no easy task to take the title back east.

The only fly in the ointment at the present time is the slight illness of Abbie Newell, counted upon to be one of the stars of the series and the condition of Lloyd Cook's knee. Lloyd, who is expected to hold down the defense in company with Newell and Ernie Johnson, has been troubled much of the past season with his right knee, which he injured severely in one of the early games when he was piloting the Hollywood Athletic Club sextet.

OBSERVATIONS

WHEN the boys get to doping out the big meets like the conference meet at the Coliseum today they generally overlook one important fact. That is that in a meet where a number of schools participate victory is not so much a question of all-around and reserve strength as it is a question of stars. All-around strength is what wins dual-meet victories, for the second and third places can mount up heavily in the point column, but in a meet where a number of schools are participating the men who get seconds and thirds in the dual meets are back in fourth or fifth place, and the college with the sure winners of first and second places is the one with the best opportunity to finish in front.

We can recollect very distinctly back about three or four years ago when Penn State, boasting three athletes, was finishing second or third or thereabouts in the I.C.A.A.A. meet, when in a dual meet they would have had difficulty in beating Manual Arts High School. Moore was good for about eight points in the hurdles, Hellfrich for six or seven in the middle distances and Enck for three or four in the half and mile. Thus three men could get somewhere around eighteen or twenty points and finish right up in the first three or four schools.

That is why Caltech stands a good chance in the conference meet. Murray Schutz is a cinch for ten points in the sprints. Graham is five more sure points in the pole vault and Pomeroy a likely five more in the high hurdles. There's twenty, and on top of these are a possible first in the javelin by Anderson, possible seconds in the hundred, shot and discus by Edwards and sure points by Pomeroy in the low hurdles, Darling in the furlong, Lynn in the quarter and a few others and you have a very respectable total.

Occidental's strength lies in almost certain firsts in the two-mile, mile, quarter, low hurdles, shot, discus and broad jump and a whole flock of reasonably certain second places. Schools like Pomona and the Grizzlies, which by reason of good reserve strength were strong in the dual meets, have less chance of finishing in front in such a meet as this. The relay, featuring Pomona, Caltech and Occidental, is going to be one of the wildest in history. Last year Caltech helped Oxy the the meet by nosing out Pomona's relay squad.

Firpo, Spalla Are Ready for Fistic Battle

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BUENOS AIRES (Argentina) April 2.—Luis Firpo and Erminio Spalla, the Argentine and Italian heavyweight champions, were in readiness today for their fifteen-round bout here tomorrow night. The fighters went through light exercises today.

Spalla's manager said he was confident of winning, basing much hope on the fact of Firpo's long priod of idleness. The Argentine champion, however, is reported to have undergone faithfully six weeks of intensive training under the tutelage of Felix Bunge, Argentine sportsman.

Bunge told the newspaper men today that Firpo's condition was satisfactory. His weight yesterday for 222 pounds. Spalla weighed 198.

LEMOORE, IGNATIUS CLASH FOR TITLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LEMOORE, April 2.—The Lemoore High School basket team is to meet the Ignatius High School of San Francisco in the local gym Saturday night for the final game to decide the California inter scholastic league championship. Paul I'Neil of San Francisco and Ned Kay of Hayward are to be the officials.

MIDWICK NET TEAM BEATS WEBB PLAYERS

The Midwick Country Club's tennis team defeated the Webb School players, three matches to none, at Midwick yesterday afternoon. Vines trimmed Spaulding, 6-4, 6-2; Dodge defeated Rand, 6-0, 6-0; and Vines and Dodge took the measure of the two Webb players in love sets in the doubles. A week from today a junior tourney for boys and girls will be staged at Midwick.

PADDOCK RACES IN MEET TODAY

may have to cut under 4m.30s. to take the race.

Schmidt of Southern Branch has not tasted defeat in the half this year and has resolved that today is a poor time to begin. He has his work cut out for him when he goes up against Bill Garner of Redlands and Lyle Johnson of Pomona. The latter, potentially the best of the three, has been a disappointment this year and may surprise today for a change. Garner is something of an iron man and has never appeared to best advantage in the half because of too much participation in other events. If he runs only the two-lap jaunt today he should be right up among the first three.

Bob Richardson of Southern Branch is our favorite in the quarter, although anything is likely to happen here. Bailey of Occidental is the logical chap to pick, but we have a hunch Richardson will hit the tape first today. The Tiger runner has a terrific sprint and is a mighty sweet bet. Richardson has had a lot of work to do in dual meets but today will run only the quarter. With other worries off his mind he is likely to run close to 50 seconds flat. Finley of Pomona is a real possibility in this event.

Murray Schultz, the Caltech demon, is a heavy favorite in both sprints. He is joint holder of the Conference record at 9.8s in the century and recently established a new furlong mark of 21.4s. If somebody defeats him today it will be the biggest surprise of the meet.

The field events are pretty well split up. Occidental, with Coyne, should cop the shot and discus, although Hall of Pomona may come through to trim the Bengal in the platter-fondling event. He did just that two weeks ago and may repeat, particularly as Coyne has been spending considerable time on baseball.

Fritz Hezmalhaich of Pomona is doped for first in the hammer, while Glenn Graham of Caltech ought to leave the other pole vaults far in the lurch early in the afternoon. Keefer and Huber, with Turner of Pomona, are rated the best of the high jumpers. Bud Nash of Oxy should annex the broad jump, while Finley of Pomona has an outside chance to nose him out.

The javelin is virtually a tossup. Bagley of Oxy, Hoover of Caltech and Jones of Pomona are about on a par, with odds slightly in favor of the former.

There are several good relay teams in the Conference. If Caltech, by some chance, needs this event to win the meet we think the Engineers can cop. Schultz is as good a quarter-miler as there is in the Conference and his mates are all consistent runners. Occidental is as good a bet as the Engineers here, however, particularly with Capt. Kenny Montgomery once more in good shape. Pomona also has a strong team and anything is likely to happen.

FUENTE OFF FIGHT CARD AT VERNON

Bob Roper Substituted to Fight Johnson as Illness Forces Mexican Out

Bob Roper steps back into the ring next Tuesday night at Vernon against John Lester Johnson in the ten-round main event. While Roper is taking the match on short notice he declares he is in better trim now than he was some six months ago when he was trying to force a match with George Godfrey.

Roper had just boxed six rounds with his brother Jack yesterday at the Hollywood gym when he was called to the telephone and asked to substitute for Tony Fuente, who is suffering with neuritis in his right shoulder.

"I've been training with Jack for the last two months," says the ex-army captain. "If I wasn't fit to fight I'd never box a colored man for I have taken a vow that no black man shall ever have his hand raised over mine." Roper was born in Virginia—in other words the South.

This will put two Ropers in top spots on the same card as Jack meets Jimmy Byrne in the semi-wind-up. Little did Bob suspect that he would be fighting ahead of his brother when he started training with Jack several weeks ago.

Fuente asked Matchmaker Wad Wadhams to keep him on the card in spite of his lame shoulder, but was ordered off by the examining physician, Dr. Spencer.

GREEK DEFIES MAT CHAMP

Kotsonaros Challenges Wrestling King to Come Out and Mix in Rough and Tumble Wednesday

George Kotsonaros, the rough Montana "bone crusher," yesterday hurled a defi at Joe Stecher, world's wrestling champion, to come out and mix it with him in their title wrestling bout at the Olympic Auditorium Wednesday night.

"I suppose Stecher will be afraid to take a chance, but will try to keep from losing that crown of his by being on the defensive most of the time," Kotsonaros told Lou Daro yesterday. "Just tell him for me that I defy him to rush out and try to pin me with that scissors hold he claims is so great."

The big Montana farmer says he will pin the champion regardless of the style of defense employed by Stecher. But the rough and tough customer from the wilds of the north says he would like nothing better than to mix it up from the opening gong.

"It takes two to make a quarrel and it also takes two wrestlers who are on the offensive to make an interesting match for the fans. If Stecher will mix it with me I will take two falls from him in short order. Otherwise I may have to chase him around until I get an opportunity to pin his shoulders to the mat."

Kotsonaros has more confidence in his ability to win next Wednesday night than "Ace" Hudkins would have in a fight with a third-rater from England. He sincerely believes that his ferocious attack, which has characterised his bouts here, will be more than Stecher can stand. As the same time, Kotsonaros is of the opinion that he will be able to withstand the famed head and body scissors of the champion without any trouble.

DUEL SURVIVOR RELATES STORY

Roselle Tells Why He Slew Realty Operator

Declares He Fired Only When Faced by Death

Blames Son of His Victim; Mentions No Woman

Near death from loss of blood from a gaping wound in his thigh, Roland E. Roselle, 44 years of age, musician, artist and builder, yesterday between painful gasps told for the first time his version of his Topanga Canyon gun duel with Robert E. Wenzel, 58, Los Angeles real estate operator and property owner, who was killed by a charge from Roselle's shotgun. The duel occurred early Thursday morning.

Roselle attributed the shooting to property differences with Wenzel and gave his opinion the tragedy would have been averted if the dead man had not been urged on by his son, Howard E. Wenzel, 32 years of age, disabled war veteran, the only actual eye-witness, who charged Roselle with being too attentive to his mother.

TELLS OF SHOOTING

"I would rather be branded a coward by running away than to have bloodshed," gasped Roselle, in his statement to the doctor. "But when I lay helpless and wounded, looking into a gun barrel that was sure to get me, I thought it time to shoot.

"As I fell bleeding to the ground the old man, at about twenty yards, leveled his rifle for another shot. I rolled to one side and fired at Wenzel, killing him.

"If the son had not urged the father on I am sure we could have come to an understanding. Even after I lay bleeding and asking for water the son would let no one go near me, and said:

"'I'd see you in h—— before I'd let anybody give you a drink.'"

MENTIONS NO WOMAN

At no time did Roselle mention Mrs. William Wenzel, 55, the so-called "woman in the case," who is in the County Jail, charged with suspicion of murder, or the name of any other woman, the doctor stated. Wenzel, in his statement to the authorities, attributed the trouble between the two men to his mother and blamed her for the tragedy.

Mrs. Wenzel, who was ordered by Costello held incommunicado pending investigation, was defiant yesterday and after a consultation with her attorney refused to make a statement to the investigating officers or to newspaper men.

She faced her son again yesterday in the office of Capt. Bright, head of the homicide squad, and in spite of his pleas she refused to talk.

REFUSES TO TALK

"Mother, why don't you talk and tell the truth and the whole story?" the son begged.

"Son, I have told everything and I refuse to say any more."

No further attempt was made to question her.

It is expected she will face her son again today at the inquest under more dramatic circumstances when she will hear a repetition of his story of her asserted unfaithfulness to her husband and her asserted affair with Roselle.

In her original story, Mrs. Wenzel emphatically denied an affair with Roselle and attributed her troubles with her husband entirely to property differences. She declared her son's attitude toward her was due to his mental condition for which he is a patient at the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle. She asserted she slept on Wednesday night at her own cabin and denied she was with Roselle in "the little red cabin" near by. Her son told the authorities he saw her emerge from Roselle's cabin and that he urged his father to go to the canyon to "get his mother and to warn Roselle again."

At the inquest today, Costello said, Mrs. Wenzel will be called as witness but it was predicted she will decline to testify.

She and her husband lived at 5225 McKinley avenue, for the past seventeen years. She said she married her husband when she was fifteen years of age. The Wenzels met Roselle about two years ago when he built a cabin for them. He is said to be separated from his wife.

Opening his story, Roselle declared Wenzel threatened to shoot him because he tried to get Wenzel to sign a paper which would take certain property from him. He said he was warned to stay away from the Wenzel cabin until the matter could be legally adjusted and that he did stay away on Wednesday night, returning just after daybreak the next morning.

Wenzel, he said, jumped from some bushes near "the little red cabin" he occupied and started to fire at him. He jumped from the road, he stated, and ran down a creek bed and tried to call to Wenzel.

Wenzel's son yelled:

"There he is, Dad, behind that bush. Get him," according to his story.

FEAR HE WILL DIE

Wenzel tried to head him off, he said, and fired at him five times as he ran, the last shot hitting him, tearing a six-inch hole in his thigh. He fell to the ground, from which position he fired one shot from his shot gun which killed Wenzel instantly, the charge striking him in the neck.

Roselle lapsed into unconsciousness after describing the son's attitude toward him as he lay wounded. Though he is putting up a valiant fight and every known method is being used to prolong his life, little hope was held out last night for his recovery.

Mrs. Wenzel probably will be released from custody today after an inquest over her husband's body which is to be conducted by Coroner Nance at 9:30 a. m., at the County Mortuary in the Hall of Justice, according to Costello. If she is not released within the next twenty-four hours, her attorney stated, habeas corpus proceedings will be instituted in her behalf.

FORMER FOE ENLISTS IN ARMY

Teuton Flyer in War Changes About

[Kadel & Herbert Photo]

A Friendly Enemy is Sworn in

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 1.—The enlistment records show only that Walter Secker, 28 years of age, native of Germany, has joined for the regular enlistment period with the United States Army and has been sent to the Panama Canal Zone for service.

In 1914, Secker, then 17 years of age, was a student at the University of Cologne, Germany. He joined his country's forces, was assigned to the flying corps, and soon after he joined he was commissioned as a lieutenant. He saw service in the battle of the Marne, at Verdun and on the Italian front and was shot down once, escaping uninjured, though his observer was killed.

Since the war he has worked in the Junker Airplane Factory in Germany and has engaged in commercial flying over the tropical forests of South America. In Panama he will meet his buddies, many of the men against whom he fought in 1917-18.

"LULLABY" REHEARSALS UNDER WAY

Knoblock's Tragic Drama to Have Western Premiere at The Playhouse

The entire cast has been assembled, and rehearsals under the direction of Lillian Albertson are in full swing for Knoblock's "The Lullaby" which has its Pacific Coast premiere at the Playhouse the 13th inst. following the engagement of Lionel Barrymore in "The Copperhead."

Howevermuch Louis, O. Macloon and Miss Albertson think of Mabel Julienne Scott's acting ability for the important role in "The Lullaby," they are not overlooking the importance of the balance of the cast.

This comprises Sidney Toler, who comes to this production directly from New York; Nanette Vallon, who will be remembered for her excellent work in "What Price Glory," John Merkyl, Joseph McManus, Clark Gable, Myrtle Vane, Edd Russell, Juanita Wray, Charles Darrah, and Dorothy Dehn.

"The Lullaby" depicts the life of a girl beginning at the age of 17 to an aged, degraded woman whom force of circumstances led into a series of affairs that lifted her to the heights of happiness then dragged her to the depths of degradation.

Thousand Men and Two Women at Desert Camp

"A Bachelors' Paradise" is the name that has been given the huge Arizona desert camp where 1750 men and two women are filming the Sahara scenes of P. C. Wren's story of the French Foreign Legion, "Beau Geste."

The only women in camp are a nurse and a script clerk.

The camp is thirty miles from the nearest habitation and is guarded on all sides by camp deputies and customs and immigration officers stationed on the Mexican border.

Alice Joyce and Mary Brian, the only feminine players in the picture, did not make the trip to the desert. Other featured players in this production, which Herbert Brenon is directing for Paramount, are Ronald Colman, Noah Beery, Neil Hamilton, William Powell, Norman Trevor and Ralph Forbes.

Four Pictures Under Way at Warner Studio

John Barrymore has been at work for more than a week on "The Tavern Knight," by Rafael Sabatini, under the direction of Alan Crosland, with Dolores Costello in the leading feminine role at Warner Brothers' studio, and Ernst Lubitsch has been working on the French farce, "Revellion," featuring Monte Blue and Patsy Ruth Miller.

Syd Chaplin is well under way with "The Better 'Ole," the screen adaptation of Capt. Bruce Bairnsfather's war-time comedy drama, under the direction of Charles (Chuck) Reisner and with Doris Hill playing the feminine lead.

Beatrice Burton's newspaper serial story, "The Footloose Widow," with Louise Fazenda, Jacqueline Logan, Jason Robards and Andre Beranger heading the cast, under the direction of Roy Del Ruth, is working full speed.

During the past week, Warner Brothers have signed Edward Clark, playwright and scenarist, and Mary O'Hara as scenario writers.

"The Better 'Ole,' starring Syd Chaplin and directed by Charles Reisner, is being filmed at Warner Brothers studios. The Chaplin vehicle is Darryl Francis Zanuck's screen adaptation of Captain Bruce Bairnsfather's war-time comedy of the same name.

MOROSCO TO STAGE ANOTHER MYSTERY

Charlotte Treadway

REDS DOOM CZARISTS

Death for Imputed Crimes Meted Army and Police Officials

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

KHARKOV (Russia) April 2.—Two former Czarist officers, named Shrishenovsky and Sholinsky, who fought in the armies of Gen. Denikine, were sentenced to death today, charged with having beaten to death fifty peasants with rifle rods during the Denikine campaign in South Russia in 1919-20.

Two former Czarist police officers, accused of having tortured and hanged Red soldiers and peasants, also were condemned to death.

'STELLA DALLAS' RARE PICTURE

Heart-Searching Pathos in Mother Story

Belle Bennett Lives Role of Sacrifice

Audience Deeply Affected at Forum Showing

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Not all the hours spent in the theater need be dedicated to gayety. Entertainment may have its rules and its fashions, and the majority of these may favor lightness and pleasure. But once in a while the stage and the screen both have their right and their claim to disclose their power for portraying something of deeper and more meaningful significance.

If occasions like this may seem rare, they deserve a respect because of this rarity, and especially do they enjoy the depth of admiration when they find their fulfillment in a picture feature like "Stella Dallas," which opened last night—a night particularly hallowed to the lenten mood of seriousness—last night at the Forum Theater.

I could think of many pictures that would be less appropriate to such an evening, but few perhaps that could be more appropriate than "Stella Dallas," which portrays as the screen has seldom portrayed a story of tragic and pitiful sacrifice.

Not within picture history, at least in this locality, has an audience been more deeply moved than that which watched with emotion the unfolding of a story of mother love—true mother love this—that is as pathetic and heart-touching as any that has ever perhaps been thought of or conceived.

I know of few audiences either that have been as deeply affected by the earnestness, the humanness and the depth of a portrayal given by any actress, as they were by that of Belle Bennett in the title character. In fact, it seems almost like sacrilege to speak of such a portrayal as acting, so fraught with an uncompromising beauty of reality does it appear. Indeed, if Belle Bennett never did another screen interpretation, or did a hundred others that did not match this one, her Stella Dallas would still leave its enriching impress firmly and lastingly upon the pages of screen history.

"Stella Dallas" is really one story in a thousand. Beside it, an "Over the Hill," and "Madame X" fine perhaps in their time, dwindle into so many theatrical shadows. Somehow, someway—(perhaps because it is essentially of today, and in many ways peculiarly of life and living as life and living go)—this new picture is more actual. It runs to no wild excesses of emotionalism as many mother love stories have done; it is poised, and perfect, and calm. Indeed, there is something of that matter-of-fact note in Stella Dallas's curious spirit of renunciation, a hidden spirit of renunciation, that is typical of the now.

Because this sacrifice is in many respects so definitely of the present day, it is not easy to describe with exactitude its fascination. To everyone, however, who goes to see "Stella Dallas" there comes this message—that he or she has known at some time, or that audiences as a whole feel that they know some one like the title character—a woman who for the sake of her daughter's future would be willing to give her up at any cost. In every woman's heart, especially, there exists this hidden sacrificial altar of self-abnegation.

That, chiefly, is the source of the human touch in "Stella Dallas," and besides that, there is a story that has an inspirational quality, whose power for all who view the picture cannot be denied.

There may be some, of course, who will find the picture's message gloomy and depressing. I believe, though, that they will be a small minority. There is humor, of course; some of it like the monkeyshines of Ed Munn, his humorously vulgar schoolboy monkeyshines with spitting the shot at the various passengers, that is great and boisterous comedy.

There is a widely appealing pitifulness about the birthday party sequence that will touch everybody. It received a burst of applause last evening from those who appreciated the finesse and technique disclosed in the acting and direction, but the best applause for "Stella Dallas" was that which concentrated itself in deep silence for the most part, and an appreciation closely related thereto that betokened the shedding of tears by many members of the audience.

"Stella Dallas" is a picture of singularly well-drawn characters throughout and admirably cast. It is evidence of Frances Marion's most splendid craftsmanship and artistry, too, as a scenarist, and a remarkable feeling and art in Henry King's direction. The birthday party sequence is particularly unforgettable, as are those moments when Stella Dallas goes to visit Mrs. Morrison, and also when she says farewell to her daughter at the railroad station, shortly before their final separation.

While Miss Bennett's is the great triumph in this production, there are other performances that will long be referred to as memorable. Notably that of Ronald Colman as Stephen Dallas, a difficult case of winning a degree of sympathy for an unsympathetic character, and that of Alice Joyce as refined Mrs. Morrison, rarely gifted with the mother understanding—bridging an enmity felt for her by Stella Dallas because of this understanding.

The Ed Munn of Jean Hersholt is clever. It proves once again the great versatility of this character player—his ability to win by his perception of humor. His comedy scenes are in some respects remarkable.

Lois Moran has in many ways an ideal presence as Laurel, though the Laurel of the screen version is somewhat less interesting than the child of the book. Still Miss Moran gained much of approval for her interpretation, and by many perhaps will be considered splendid.

Douglas Fairbanks's opportunities are not great, but he takes an agreeable advantage of them, and at times looks remarkably like his father.

Character bits by Vera Lewis and others are all very well done. A very satisfying musical setting has been arranged by Ted Henkel for this rare and remarkable picture.

Margaret Wesner,

"MIRACLE" NETS MILLIONS

"The Miracle," the great stage spectacle which Morris Gest has arranged to present here next winter at the Shrine Auditorium, will be one of the most lavish productions ever presented on the Coast, according to Orville Caldwell.

The actor has arrived here from San Francisco, where he was signed by Gest to play the role of the Knight in both the Los Angeles and Bay City productions. This is the part he created in the original New York presentation in 1924.

"The production of 'The Miracle' entailed a cost of more than $600,000," says Caldwell, "and nine months were required to prepare it for public viewing. It ran ten months in New York, taking in $2,300,000 and, during its three weeks in Cleveland, the receipts were reported at $401,000, with 136,944 persons having witnessed it. It has been presented in Boston and St. Louis and is now filling a long engagement at the Auditorium in Chicago."

Film Comedian Buys Northern Hunting Grounds

While other actors and actresses purchase lots and property in and around Los Angeles, Ned A. Sparks, film comedian, has wandered afar to invest.

His most recent realty acquisition is a 400-acre ranch in Northern California and will have a small acreage set aside for gardens and a hunting lodge. The remainder will be converted into a private game preserve and will be a hunting paradise for Sparks and his friends during between-picture vacations. Sparks also owns a huge section of land in Eastern Canada.

The comedy actor ranks high among the trap-shooters of this country. He has laid plans for the Hollywood Trap-Shooting Club within the last few weeks. Members of that organization already include Wallace and Noah Beery, Walter Morosco, Antonio Moreno, Alan Forrest and others prominent in the film colony. Its membership will be exclusively motion-picture workers.

LEW CODY FILM AT WEST COAST UPTOWN

This age of restless women that had its birth in the opening years of the present century is the theme of "Time, the Comedian," Robert Z. Leonard's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, which opens tomorrow at the West Coast Uptown Theater.

Lew Cody and Mae Busch are playing the leading roles supported by a good cast. Gertrude Olmstead gives a charming portrayal that marks her for big things. Other members of the cast include Roy Stewart, Paulette Duval, Creighton Hale, and Robert Ober.

Lew Cody as the suave man of the world is at his height. He essays this type of role, that has made his name a by-word with the picture-going public, with polish and ease.

"INFATUATION" ON WEST COAST SCREEN

Mysterious, subtle Egypt forms the background of "Infatuation," Corinne Griffith's latest First National release, which opens tomorrow at the West Coast Boulevard and West Coast Belmont Theaters.

The film is an adaption of W. Somerset Maugham's stage hit, "Caesar's Wife. Malcolm MacGregor is the "other man." The rest of the cast includes Warner Oland, Leota Lorraine, Martha Mattox, Claire DuBrey and Clarissa Selwynne.

SHAKESPEARE AT CRITERION

Although a comedy, "Bluebeard's Seven Wives," which opens today at the Criterion theater, contains a picturization of the famous "balcony" scene from "Romeo and Juliet." Critics who have previewed the film claim that it is one of the most artistic presentations of the bard ever done on the screen. Blanche Sweet and Ben Lyon are the lovers in this episode.

"Jerry, Out-O'-My-Way," a magazine story by William Dudley Pelley, has just been purchased by Famous Players-Lasky, to be produced under the tentative title, "Backfire."

Ralph Ince will start shooting this week on his latest combination director-actor production, "Bigger Than Barnum," which Ince will make at the F. B. O. studio.

"HASSAN" OPENING MONDAY

Robert Sharpe, Community Art Director, Will Bid Farewell to Pasadena

"Hassan" opens at the Pasadena Community Theater Monday evening—and Robert R. Sharpe closes his career as art director with the theater that same evening. After designing the sets and costumes for two years he is leaving for Paris to study and work with the European theaters.

The affiliation of Mr. Sharpe with the Pasadena project has been a colorful one. A student of Norman Bel-Geddes he has originated many striking sets and developed unusual theatrical art ideas in the Playhouse.

Tomorrow evening the cast, the directors and the friends of the Pasadena Playhouse and of Robert R. Sharpe will assemble in the Green Room to wish him Godspeed on his new project.

Sunny Side of War Depicted in Film at Rialto

There was a sunny side to the war.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton portrayed the dumb, yet lovable roles of two irresponsible privates, who it seemed, always did the wrong thing at the right time.

With Beery starting out as a detective, and Hatton as a pick pocket, the clouds of war bring the two together as army buddies, and a multitude of humorous incidents result from their lack of understanding of military life.

Dainty Mary Brian is very attractive in the role of army social worker. It is through her efforts that Beery and Hatton enlist, and they both fall in love with her.

All in all, the picture is one of the oustanding laugh sensations of the season.

Spearing Gets Release From Film Contract

After three years at Universal City, James O. Spearing has obtained a release from his contract. During the time he was with Universal Spearing devoted himself to acquiring practical experience in every department of picture production.

Classified as a scenario writer he wrote the scripts for "The Signal Tower," "Dangerous Innocence," "Peacock Feathers" and other successes. He was also frequently called in as a consultant on the preparation of stories and supervised the editing of numerous films.

Spearing's success has been largely due to his "audience angle." For five years he saw motion pictures as a New York critic and he always sat with audiences.

"Pictures," he says, "must succeed at the box office, but they don't have to be trash to do this. They can win the regard of intelligent people and at the same time delight everyone. Let's have pictures that the public will clamor for and even George Jean Nathan will respect."

FLASHES

"MIKE" IS PEPPY

BURLESQUES AND HOKES TO GOOD RETURNS

By Grace Kingsley

It is an impudent Micky that made "Micke!" I mean Micky Neilan.

"Mike" is on view down at Loew's, and like the old lady's hash, it's a little of this and a little of that, with really, you might say, more of this than of that.

A burlesque "Mike" surely is of all the train-wreck-airplane-bandit pictures ever put on.

The whole government naval aviation corps from a large station, for instance, solemnly steps forth to catch three or four train robbers, and all the aviators solemnly drop out of parachutes to capture said bandits, who just wait around to be captured as their director told them to!

Then, too, the president of the railroad always does come forth personally to see to the manning of an obscure telegraph station on the plains!

However, the audience swallowed it all and got an awful thrill, so Micky can have his laugh all to himself and no one the worse.

It is as if Mr. Neilan said, "Let's see how much we can get away with anyhow."

And there is a genuine thrill in the race down the mountain of the runaway box car in which the section boss's family lives, and you are bound to be breathless while said family is being rescued from the box car by being lifted into the steam shovel on the train running on a parallel track. That is, the tracks are parallel a part of the time, and the rest of the time they are separating and crossing and going under and over each other.

The most delightful sequence to me was that in which the girl is willing to sacrifice her pet duck to feed her lover with the younger kids all weeping at the table, while all the time we know that the duck is going to walk in alive and safe before the feast begins, and dad is going to explain that he didn't have the heart to kill the fowl, but bought one from the diner of the train.

Sally O'Neill is a cute little girl who seems to me to be copying Mabel Normand. But she certainly has a lot of nerve to do the stunts she does, and she has looks and personality and pep.

Ford Sterling is funny as usual.

William Haines is developing a splendid screen personality, and did all that was required in a romantic role most acceptably.

Neilan used a long cast, seeming to use about everybody in pictures except Pola Negri and Bull Montana.

The stage presentation is beautiful, and Rube Wolf's music is good, but I do wish he would cut out announcing like a Sunday-school superintendent at the Friday evening entertainment, trying to be funny.

"SKINNER'S DRESS SUIT" A DELIGHT

"Skinner's Dress Suit" fits Reginald Denny splendidly. In fact as well as it fitted Bryant Washburn six or seven years ago.

But its cut and pattern mean more these days than they did then, because we have more new thought systems and more Freud than we had then.

Delightful comedy is "Skinner's Dress Suit," which opened yesterday at the Metropolitan, comedy that sugar-coats the old power-of-suggestion stuff.

Skinner, you see, is just a humble little clerk, fairly afraid to say his soul is his own, scared to death to ask his employer for a rise of salary.

But his wife at home has an inspiration. Just put on a bold front, she says, hire a dress suit and go out to the boss' parties, and we'll see.

And they did see, even though the Jew from whom Skinner hired the dress suit did come and sit in at the party, and follow Skinner home to collect rent for it!

Reginald Denny is becoming a more and more colorful and versatile comedian, while his personality is no less engaging than it always has been, and that is very engaging, indeed.

Verne Buck puts on a splendid show, with his musicians pleasing and his dancers likewise. But he, too, like Rube Wolf, has the announcing disorder.

Why cannot these leaders realize they are really crabbing their own game by breaking into the flowing charm of their music to talk about what they are going to do, instead of doing it?

An "Our Gang" comedy amuses, and the other features are good.

Glenn Hunter In It

Glenn Hunter, no less, is to play the leading masculine role in D. W. Griffith's picturization of Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," according to report just received from New York.

The picture, which Griffith is making for Paramount, will probably feature Carol Dempster in the heroine role.

The awakening of love carries her into womanhood. Her love is torn from her by the police and an emotional scene of rare realism and convincing fidelity takes place.

Then she is a circus girl, a woman of the world, disillusioned, despairing, clutching at counterfeit love as she sighs for the true one lost.

Then again she is a cripple, maimed by the act of a woman insane with jealousy, peddling dolls on the streets, ragged, cold, hungry and, above all, bitter against life.

CHUCKLES from LIFE

The Reformer's Lament

I have harried the chickens out of their nests,
I have prayed the suffrage in,
The demon rum I have put on the bum,
And—I seek another sin.

I could make the running horses walk,
I could make the trotters pace,
But I have gone in debt to place a bet
On Hypocrite for place.
Tobacco, chicle, women's clothes—
None of these answers my ends.

I am seeking a sin I am not in
And that hasn't too many friends.

MAY SEEK UNION IN MARKET

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Oil merger negotiations, it seems, are rather uncertain affairs. They have a way about them that is reminiscent of other mundane experiences of a disappointing nature. In this instance, however, it appears that it is not a matter of "off again, on again," but a definite abandonment of conversations between California Petroleum and the Texas Company, unless California Petroleum can sit in the saddle.

In the interval, Union Oil of California will likely hold the undivided attention of the dealers in oil merger gossip. As in the case of California Petroleum, the Union situation is tinctured with so much uncertainty that only a gambler would bet on the outcome. And yet, some people with valid claims to success as speculators are buying Union Oil on the supposed knowledge of negotiations with any one of a half-dozen companies.

OFFERS NOW DENIED

Fundamentally they probably are right as far as the likelihood of a merger is concerned some time before the year is over. But it is another thing to name the other principal in any deal that may materialize. Right at this juncture is where the distinction between the gambler and the speculator is emphasized; the first bets on a hunch, and the other analyzes the trend.

There is little doubt but that tentative proposals have been submitted to large stockholders for the sale of their interests. The management, however, is understood to have held out for much higher prices than were offered. Those negotiations now have been dropped, it seems, for officers of the company now deny any knowledge of proposals for the purchase of control.

Still the buying of Union Oil Associates continues. In explanation, the belief is gaining credence that outside interests are after control through the open market, having come to the decision that a satisfactory deal cannot be made with the officers and directors of the company. There is plenty of basis for this reasoning in the volume of stock changing hands, but there is a possibility that the buying orders come from the public.

Some of the brokers handling orders in Union Oil associates are inclined to think that the buying is centralized. It this is true Union Oil Company may be facing another struggle similar to the one with the Royal Dutch-Shell interests that resulted in the formation of the Union Oil Associates. Since no one group has control of Union Oil Associates, it is possible to buy enough stock through the open market and from individual stockholders to obtain control of the Union Oil Company. The holding company owns about 57 per cent of the parent company, or about 540,000 shares.

MAY RENEW FIGHT

Of course, this is all in the realm of conjecture, but it does open up interesting possibilities. There is always a reason for the purchase of any stock in large volume, as in the present instance. Possibly outside of the Pacific Oil holdings recently acquired by Standard of California, Union Oil has the most valuable developed and undeveloped oil lands on the Pacific Coast, which is sufficient reason for buying from companies like Standard of Indiana, Gulf Oil, Texas Company, or any of the others anxious to obtain a foothold on this coast.

In addition to this list of possible buyers, there is always Shell Union standing in the background. As the American subsidiary of the Royal Dutch-Shell interests, this company once lost in the fight for the possession of Union Oil, but the nature of the present rivalry for oil lands may draw this company back for another attempt. The Royal Dutch interests are at war with the Standard companies abroad, and it would be rather strange for them to sit idly by and watch California pass into the control of the Standard units.

Offsetting all of these possibilities is the chance that a group of speculators may have the idea of buying enough stock in the open market to sell to some company at a nice profit.

At any rate, all are getting a run for their money, whatever happens.

INTEREST IN WOOL TRADE ON UPGRADE

Survey Reports Broader Activity With Tendency to Decline Halted

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, April 2.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

Rather wide interest in wool is reported both here and in the West this week, more especially in the West. Prices here are no better, but the declining tendency seems to have been fairly well halted for the time being, while rather better demand from some of the smaller mills is in evidence.

In the West, buying has been more widespread, with good to choice fine and fine medium wools costing $1.00 to $1.05, and occasionally a bit more for a choice clip, clean basis, landed Boston. Grease prices for both fine and medium clips in the territory sections range from 30 to 35 C according to the wool, with some heavy shrinking clips in the range of 26 to 29 C.

Mohair is steady in the local market. Kerrville, Tex., sold 400,000 pounds Tuesday at about 59c for goat hair and close to 69c for kid hair.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1926, to April 1, 1926, inclusive, were 61,625,000 pounds against 45,075,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipt from January 1, 1926, to April 1, 1926, inclusive, were 106,394,700 pounds against 90,434,200 pounds for the same period last year.

California Northern 1.13-1.15; Middle County 1.00-1.05; Southern 92-95.

Oregon: Eastern No. 1, staple 1.13-1.15; Fine and F. M. combing 1.08-1.10; Eastern Clothing 95-1.00; Valley No. 1, 98-1.00.

Pulled: Delaine 1.15-1.20; A. A. 1.15-1.18; Fine A. Supers 1.08; A Supers 95-98.

Mohair: Best Combing 65-70; Best Carding 50-55.

The Los Angeles Stock Exchange was closed yesterday and will remain closed today.

CONCRETE JOB FAILS IN MOAB (UTAH) WELL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SALT LAKE, April 2. — Word was received from Moab this afternoon to the effect that the concrete failed to hold in the oil well of the Midwest Company, due to be tested tomorrow and another week will be required to repour concrete. Previously the casing was blown out by a strike of gas and several weeks had been spent in attempting to repair the well for additional drilling and testing.

COTTON OUTPUT DATA COMPILED

Commerce Chamber Reports Southwest Yield

Estimate of 1925 Crop Value is $33,937,282

Sale of Seed Swells Return by $5,076,048

Showing a total production of 317,253 bales of cotton from 479,-825 acres, with an estimated value of $33,937,282, for California and Arizona in 1925, Southern California Crops, the current monthly field and market report of the agricultural department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, carries a review of the 1925-26 cotton season, together with the prospects for this year's plantings. The data were secured from original sources as well as United States Department of Agriculture records, and compiled through the assistance of local cotton buyers.

According to the report the San Joaquin Valley produced a total of 78,445 bales of cotton from 100,-725 harvested acres, with an estimated value of $8,530,893. This included small plantings in the Sacramento Valley. Kern county led in this district as well as the State with a production of 32,042 bales from 33,000 acres, valued at $3,484,567. Other San Joaquin Valley counties producing cotton were Fresno, 17,500 acres, 15,337 bales, value $1,450,398; Tulare, 16,-000 acres, 13,070 bales, value $1,-421,362; Kings, 12,500 acres, 11,-385 bales, value $1,258,118; Madera, 11,000 acres, 6455 bales, value $701,981, and others including Sacramento Valley, 9725 acres, 2156 bales, value $234,465. The average price for the season in San Joaquin Valley was placed at 21.75 cents a pound by local buyers.

Riverside county produced a total of 18,445 bales of cotton from a harvested area of 22,600 acres in Palo Verde, Coachella and Perris valleys, valued at $1,872,745. Palo Verde Valley picked 14,679 bales from 19,000 acres, valued at 20 cents a pound, or a total of $1,467,000, while Coachella and Perris planted around 3600 acres producing 3766 bales, which at the season's average price of 21.50 cents returned a total of $404,845.

Imperial Valley growers picked a total of 24,045 bales of cotton from 48,300 acres, receiving $2,-289,843 in return. The season's average was 18.75 cents. Imperial Valley of Mexico produced 80,979 bales from around 145,200 acres, which at the estimated season's price brought $15,000,000.

The total production of cotton in Arizona for the 1925-26 season was placed at 115,359 bales, picked from 163,000 acres, valued at $13,-135,900. Of this total 20,000 bales were Pima cotton, which had a season's average price of 36 cents a pound. Other cotton ranged around 20 cents a pound. In addition to this return cottonseed in the two States brought a total value of $5,076,048, according to the report.

The cotton report also stated that decreases in cotton acreage in Colorado River basin districts will be largely offset by increased planting in the San Joaquin Valley.

CAMPAIGN GROWS HOT

Oil Drilling Question in Huntington Beach Stirs Factions to Arms

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 2.—The city election which usually occupies the center of the stage here has taken a back seat and the oil drilling restriction question seems to be the paramount issue. The town today looked as if a circus had just arrived. Banners have been flying across the streets advertising the coming election on the 12th inst., and urging voters to vote on the question.

The City Protective Club has been formed with headquarters in the Eader Building. This club urges voters to vote "No" on the drilling question. The City Protective Association has been formed just across the street. It has a large sign urging voters to vote "Yes" on the question.

Stickers of all colors and sizes of both factions are plastered all over the town one faction following up and pasting signs over the signs put up by the opposing forces. Stickers of the Drew and Dunning for Trustee Club have been pasted in store windows and in conspicuous places all over town and cards and literature boosting J. W. Mitchell and O. Ray Harris have been placed in store windows and on buildings and posts throughout the city.

THE INVESTOR

North American Company Has Enjoyed Remarkable Growth in Last Five Years—Now Largest in Utility Field Under Single Management—Makes Important Acquisitions.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
(Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.)

NEW YORK, April 2.—Few companies in any industry or in any country have enjoyed so rapid a growth as the North American Company. Five years is not a long time, but in that period the electric output of the North American Company has increased from 869,000,000 kilowatt hours to more than 3,000,000,000 kilowatt hours. Its operations in the electric-power utility field are now the largest under single ownership in this country.

Earnings of the company have kept pace with the expansion of its physical properties. Gross earnings in 1925 amounted to $93,-028,966, as compared with $39,-611,162 in 1920, while the surplus after all charges totaled $13,-296,110 last year, against $2,690,-335 five years ago. This increase is all the more remarkable when the reduction in prices charged for electricity is taken into consideration. It is officially estimated that had the same rates prevailed in 1925 as in 1920 earnings would have been $10,000,000 larger than the figure reported.

Growth of the company has not been entirely due to enlargement of facilities of companies already owned. In fact, North American has acquired many large companies in established territory in the past five years. In 1925 alone it purchased the Western Power Corporation, Mississippi River Power Company and the Central Mississippi Valley Electric properties and subsidiaries.

With the Western Power System it secured one of the better hydroelectric properties in the country. The Great Western Power Company, a subsidiary of the Western Power System, owns a storage reservoir in the Sierras, known as Lake Almanor, of sufficient elevation to permit the water to be used half a dozen times as it flows down the canyon. The ultimate storage capacity of the lake is 1,300,000 acre feet.

Within the next month properties of this company will be interconnected with Lake Almanor to Santa Maria, Cal., a distance of 400 miles. At the one end of the system the large water-power facilities will be available, while at the other end the steam plants are in the immediate vicinity of the large oil and natural-gas fields, from which fuel is obtainable at a minimum of cost.

Although the North American Company owns large properties in the central, southern and western parts of the United States, indications are it will be both impossible and impracticable to link them all together. They will, however, form important parts of superpower systems in their respective localities.

The Mississippi River Power Company and Central Mississippi Valley Electric properties and their subsidiaries serve the territory bordering on the Mississippi River between Burlington, Iowa, and the district centering in St. Louis, Mo., and East St. Louis, Ill.

An important hydroelectric plant was also obtained through the acquisition of these properties. It is located at Keokuk, Iowa, and utilizes the flow of the Mississippi River at that point. Despite the fact that the drop of the water is only about thirty feet, the volume is sufficient to give the plant a capacity of 111,200 kilowatts. The unification of these properties with others owned by the North American Company in the same district creates a superpower system about 250 miles long.

LAST MONTH QUIETEST IN IRON SALES

BY DON PARTRIDGE
(Associate Editor, Western Construction News.)

The past month was the quietest one so far this year. During the past three weeks trading was confined, for the most part, to small lots of less than 100 tons, few large propect being closed. Prospects, however, are bright and a number of jobs are coming up for figures in the near future.

Little interest is being displayed by consumers of merchant bar material and as far as can be ascertined small lots only were purchased. Prices continue around 2.35 c.i.f. Concrete bar awards aggregated 470 tons and included 250 tons for a retaining wall in San Francisco secured by Badt-Falk Company and 220 tons for the Masonic Home, Zenith, Washington, placed with the Pacific Coast Steel Company. Pending business is not of heavy proportions.

Plate awards exceeded 1200 tons. The Wilshire Oil Company, Los Angeles, awarded two 80,000 barrel tanks involving 600 tons to Llewellyn Iron Works, the Shell Tank and Pipe Company booked 500 tons for a pipe line for The Dalles, Or. and Tacoma placed 180 tons for a pipe line with the Birchfield Boiler Company. Interest is now centered on the San Diego pipe line calling for 13,000 tons. The only other large project up involved 320 tons for a pipe line at Spokane. Prices continue at 2.30 c.i.f. on ordinary offerings with 2.25 applying on heavy tonnages.

Although over 10,000 tons of structural shapes are either up for figures or pending, awards recently have not been heavy. Contracts placed this week totaled 600 tons. The Central Iron Works took 265 tons for an apartment on Mason street, San Francisco and Schrader's Iron Works booked 160 tons for a theater at Chico and 160 tons for a theater at Marysville. Bids are being received on 575 tons for the Kress Building, San Francisco and on the 29th inst. bids will be opened for 2750 for the Yakima Irrigation District in the State of Washington. Prices appear firm at 2.35 c.i.f. although it is understood that 2.30 has been named.

Little improvement is noted in demand for cast iron pipe. Awards did not exceed 500 tons. Seattle placed 235 tons and 200 tons with the American Cast Iron Pipe Company. Bids will be opened on the 5th inst. for 30,000 tons for the San Diego pipe line, but the city may purchase steel pipe. Pending business aggregates over 32,000 tons, new inquiries calling for 188 tons for North Sacramento and 304 tons for Avalon, Calif. Grinnell Company of the Pacific secured 150 tons of standard pipe for the Shell Oil Company of San Francisco.

DUN SCANS HORIZON OF BUSINESS

Optimistic Survey Says Signs of General Slump in Trade Lacking

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Dun's tomorrow will say: "A new month and a new quarter have begun without visible evidence of a general setback in business. An abatement of activity has appeared in some directions, yet nothing in the present commercial situation would account for the recent collapse of stock prices. The speculative unsettlement, if increasing conservatism in some quarters, apparently has not had a serious effect upon trade sentiment, and reports from the steel industry stress the important fact that the cancellation of contracts are absent. Not only has the leading producer in that line been operating to the full limit of practical capacity, but March pig-iron output was at the highest rate in exactly a year. Supporting these favorable phases is a railroad freight traffic larger than that for any earlier week this year, and also substantially above the figures for a year ago, and bank clearings 11.5 per cent over the total for this period of 1925.

"Weekly bank clearings $10,-041,409,000."

VINMONT ISSUES FLAT DENIAL THAT CALIFORNIA PETROLEUM HAS BEEN SOLD TO TEXAS OIL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Jacques Vinmont, chairman of the executive committee of the California Petroleum Corporation denied flatly here today the report from Los Angeles that control of the company has been acquired by the Texas Company.

"There have been such discussions," said Mr. Vinmont, "but no deal has been completed. I deny absolutely that the Texas Company has acquired control of our company."

The California Petroleum's offices are in California, but Mr. Vinmont has been staying in New York during the negotiations.

The opening of negotiations was first announced on March 22, when it was said that the proposed basis of exchange was four shares of Texas for five of California.

In commenting on Mr. Vinmont's denial in New York of the Texas Company report, Daniel E. O'Brien, secretary of the California Petroleum Corporation, yesterday said that "if any deal is made we will sit in the saddle."

"The Texas Company," he explained, "has engaged in conversations with us, but there has been no meeting of the minds. We will listen to any proposition in the interests of our stockholders, but that does not mean that we are willing to surrender our independence. The California Petroleum Corporation is a well-balanced unit in the industry, and is adequately financed to continue along its present course without outside assistance."

GUIDING INSURANCE BUYERS

BY GRIFFIN M. LOVELACE
Professor of Insurance, New York University

This is one of a series of articles appearing in The Times three times a week, dealing with all phases of insurance. Tuesday's article will discuss the manner in which insurance companies invest their funds.

[Copyright, 1926, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

XI.—THE CLEAN UP

In a previous article we saw that if one wishes his family to receive his insurance for their own use it will usually be necessary to provide an additional amount, payable in cash, to pay accumulated bills and final expenses.

In many cases it is necessary to make up a budget in order to ascertain the amount of insurance that will be required to settle, or, in the slang of the underwriter, to "clean up" one's estate. Following is a typical clean-up budget for a person whose estate is not large:

Mortgage on home	5,000
Loans, etc.	1,500
Bills for three months	1,500
D. H. N.	1,800
Funeral, cemetery, etc.	1,000
Miscellaneous	1,000
	$13,000

At death of a person who carried special insurance for such a clean-up budget, it might actually require more or less than the amount estimated. But if the budget is carefully made, it should, as a rule, serve as the necessary maximum, and any balance not used would be added to the family's funds.

Perhaps you may question some of the items. Let us discuss them and you can eliminate any which strike you as being superfluous.

BILLS ACCUMULATE

Taxes: If you pay your Federal income tax quarterly, a year's income tax may be due at any time you die. Unpaid installments of the last year's tax must be paid and a return also be made eventually by your executor or administrator on your income in your last calendar year from January 1 to the date of your death. Thousands of men die when State, county and municipal taxes are due or accrued but not paid. And State inheritance taxes are payable even on rather small estates.

Mortgage: You may want your family to have your present home to live in. Like nearly everybody else, you probably have mortgaged it, and you would want your family to have the money to pay off the mortgage (or to invest and earn the necessary income with which to pay the annual mortgage interest.)

Loans: Most people who have good bank credit borrow from time to time. Thousands of them die while loans are outstanding. Even if they are secured, one usually desire that his securities, which are practically always among the best he owns, shall be released to his family.

Bills and D. H. N.: During a last illness, if credit is good, bills may accumulate for rent, groceries and a score of other things—the usual run of monthly expenses. The time may be short or long. An average illness of three months is not too great to assume; and in the case multiply your average total monthly bills by three.

BUDGET ADVISED

Then at, say $20 a day for doctors, hospital and nurse, ($5, $8 and $7, respectively,) the total is $600 a month, or $1800 for three months.

Finally, it is not too much to estimate $1000 for funeral and cemetery expenses. There are so many things to be paid for at such a time.

Miscellaneous: No matter how carefully one may estimate the actual cost of various items, there will, in almost every case, be some expenses that were not considered, so that there should be a miscellaneous provision.

If you wish to determine how much insurance you will leave your family, make up a clean-up budget and subtract the total from the amount of your insurance.

Although your debts will be legally a charge against your estate, if it is not large enough to liquidate your obligations your family will pay them out of the life insurance you leave to them.

It is astonishing how seldom men and women have estimated the cash requirements necessary to settle their estates. As a result, it often happens that a family is left with more liabilities than assets. Not infrequently widows and children have struggled for years trying to square the father's accounts, to protect his name and their own reputation.

Many a man who has a substantial amount of insurance estimated to produce a given income for his family has entirely overlooked the need of a clean-up policy. As a rule, the amount required is not very large; but the addition of it to one's insurance plans may make a great difference in the family's situation.

VIEW OF GERMANY HOPEFUL

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—In the interesting monthly bulletin of the Chase National Bank of New York, Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson, economist for that institution, reviews the developments in Germany since the adoption of the Dawes plan and the conclusions that he draws give reason for confidence in the future of that country.

That current conditions in German industry and finance present "definitely encouraging picture when one understands the causes which have produced it," is the belief of this authority.

"Business to be sure," he continues, "is depressed, unemployment is great and bankruptcies are numerous, but this is the aftermath of an acute financial crisis which culminated in the autumn of 1925 through which Germany has passed in orderly, disciplined fashion. The depression appears to have touched bottom. The March 1 figures for unemployment show a trifle over the February 15 figures, and the average of commodity prices, which dropped from 122 in August, 1925, to 117.6 in early March, 1926, has risen slightly to 117.8 on March 17, 1926.

"Merchandise inventories in Germany are now reported to be unusually low. A desperate shortage in capital during a part of 1924 and 1925 made somewhat more difficult the process of improvement, but evidence is at hand that Germany actually has accomplished much in her industrial and financial reconstruction."

1—Germany has achieved currency stabilization.

2—Her budget has been balanced.

3—There has been a scrupulous and exact performance of all Germany's obligations to make reparation payments to date.

4—German railways are on a financially sound basis and have made substantial profits.

5—Conditions of living among the German people have been greatly improved.

6—Germany has had a strong industrial revival.

7—The crisis has been passed without a panic and apparently reached in March, 1925, the trough of depression which inevitably follows a panic.

WOOL MARKET UNCHANGED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, April 2.—During manufacturers on the wool market are still on a hand-to-mouth basis. Prices are generally unchanged. A little more firmness is noticeable. Some concerns have refused offers at current prices for real good wools. Fair amount of good bright fleece wool of three-eighths and one-quarter-blood combing were sold at 47 cents in the grease. Some straight Ohio one-quarter-blood combing at 45 to 46 cents for stock moving to the mills from this market. Fine Australian in fibre, selling at around 85 clean for good 64s.

LOCAL BOND MEN ELECT GOVERNORS

Association Organizes Class in Salesmanship and Psychology

Guy Witter of Dean Witter & Co., Leslie Henry of Alvin H. Frank & Co. and H. H. Wagenseller of the California Company were elected governors of the Bond Sales Association for the coming term at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the association Tuesday. Richard Nevins of Hunter, Dulin & Co. was elected secretary.

The Bond Sales Association is a group of sales managers of all the leading bond houses in Los Angeles, formed to promote a better understanding and to maintain the ethics of the bond business on a high plane.

The association has organized the largest class in "creative salesmanship and sales psychology" ever held on the Pacific Coast, and which is now being conducted by Shirley D. Parker, author and lecturer of Chicago.

Future Drift of Wheat Values is Held Uncertain

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 2.—All the American grain markets were closed today in observance of Good Friday which, although not a legal holiday, is observed the world over. There will be no foreign markets Saturday or Monday.

No prices for grain were made today, the storm keeping those who usually come down to gossip around the curb at home.

The wheat market is the most uncertain that the trade has ever known at this season. Absence of stocks at Chicago creates an extremely sensitive technical situation, which results in frequent and sharp fluctuations whenever there is any excess of buying or selling. These conditions make it extremely hard for traders to follow, as pit conditions are more of a factor than news.

On one hand there is the cash situation in wheat, which is most peculiar, as it and May are in the same class. There is no general cash demand except for carlots from millers, and the situation is one where any decided break in cash premiums in Chicago and other markets is expected to bring a collapse in the May premiums which is 23 cents over the July. It would also affect all the other domestic markets, as they are following Chicago to a moderate extent. Kansas City and Omaha are nearly on a shipping basis with Chicago, and Duluth working in that direction. There were deliveries of 116,000 bushels in the latter market on Thursday.

The trade is mixed as to the open interest in May wheat which has been materially reduced, but is regarded as sufficient to make a men trading market. July and September are new crop futures and are being sold short by speculators in anticipation of a big crop, which is possible, with perfect conditions from now until harvest, but it is well to remember that many things can happen between now and July, which might materially affect the size of the harvest.

In the coarse grain situation, there is a large short interest and a light speculative trade, with operators on both sides waiting for each other to move. Supplies are large at primary markets, but the country movement is small.

CREDIT MEN IN LEDGER EXCHANGE

Bureau for Gathering of Information Inaugurated in Los Angeles

Establishment of a Ledger Exchange Bureau, regarded as the modern and effective guide in credit extension, for the members of the Los Angeles Credit Men's Association and the Board of Trade has been completed and is now in operation in Los Angeles.

The bureau covers Southern California, but has available in its files reports on all of California south of San Francisco and the several counties in Arizona adjacent to California.

Members of both organizations file with the bureau a complete list of the firms or individuals to whom they grant credit, showing various information desired in credit extension. Upon the completion of the filing, the report will show a paying record, stating length of time sold, terms, highest recent credit, amount owing, amount past due and general paying record of each creditor.

CHANGES ADVOCATED IN CITIES' BUILDING

DIRECTOR OF STEEL INSTITUTE SAYS STRESS LIMIT CAN BE RAISED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HOUSTON (Tex.) April 2.—Adoption of less stringent regulations in building codes was urged by Charles F. Abbott of New York, executive director of the American Institute of Steel Construction, in an address before local architects and engineers. Mr. Abbott explained that the institute is a non-commercial, nonprofit-making organization, which counts among its members 220 plants in the United States and Canada. The object of the organization is to extend the use of steel more economically and more intelligently. The meeting will be preceded by a banquet.

"Some thirty-five years ago," Mr. Abbott said, "builders and municipalities arbitrarily adopted the practice of building with structural steel on the basis of a stress of 16,000 pounds. Apparently they picked that basis because some one thought it was as good as any. Since then, obviously, the art of steel-making has improved. Steel is better—stronger—it can carry more weight. It is absurd to use the amount of steel ordinarily used in buildings. We advocate and urge the increase of stress to 18,000 pounds.

"As to the safety of adopting the new proposed change in the building code, we can point to sixty cities in the United States already operating such a standard code and finding it entirely satisfactory."

MILLIONS GIVE FUNDS

Wilbur Finds 4,209,000 Children Subscribe to Save Frigate

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Secretary Wilbur has received a report from the Boston Navy Yard that a total of 4,209,000 school children have subscribed to the fund for the restoration of the old frigate Constitution. The work will cost approximately $500,000 and subscriptions now aggregate $200,000.

Requests have reached the Secretary from many coastal and river points that the ship be routed that way when she makes a pilgrimage after the reconstruction has been completed. Although the Constitution draws only twenty feet of water, some of the requests come from towns on waterways too shallow to float her.

UTILITY EARNINGS UP

Gain of 19.95 Per Cent Reported by National Company

Net earnings of the National Public Service Corporation for the year ended December 31, last, amounted to $8,179,768, an increase of 19.95 per cent over the year 1924, according to the company's annual report just issued. Gross earnings were $19,888,904, a gain of 11.80 per cent over the preceding year.

Before depreciation, Federal taxes, etc., there was a balance of net earnings of $4,499,502, while the balance after dividends, other deductions and minority interest was $1,103,316.

National Public Service Corporation properties are under the operating management of the General Engineering and Management Corporation, which also manages and operates the properties of the Western United Corporation of Illinois.

TRACK LAYING STARTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RAYMONDVILLE (Tex.) April 2.—Track-laying has been started on the thirty-two-mile branch line of the Missouri Pacific that is to run from Raymondville to Edinburg. The new road will open to agricultural development more than 100,000 acres of land which borders the irrigated part of the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Three new towns, Lasara, Hargill and Rollo, have been laid out on the new line and are building up rapidly.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

BY WILLIAM FEATHER

A PECULIAR quirk of human nature is the notion that a person cannot advance himself in education except under a particular environment.

In excusing their ignorance, people frequently say, "I didn't take any history at school" or "I don't remember much of my philosophy."

Of such are the hopeless. They would have us believe that books were kept under lock and key, and that knowledge was inaccessible to anyone except a member of an organized educational institution.

Anyone who is determined to know a little about many things, or a great deal about one thing, can do so right where he is. In these days, to apologize for ignorance because "They didn't teach that at school" is childish.

Anything that can be learned at school can be learned out of school, if the disposition and the capacity are right. Lincoln saw this clearly and stated it forcefully. He was himself the brilliant example of self-education.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—About 500 cattle were offered on yesterday's market, most of which were fresh arrivals, there being only around 100 held over from Thursday. A fair trade developed and a good clearance was made on the morning session at fully steady prices. The run was about evenly divided between the stock and steers, but the stock supply was mostly common and medium kinds. A three-car string of 971-pound Utah steers made 8.85, while three cars of 1062 to 1275-pound Idahos went over from 8.00@8.75. A short load of 842-pound California steers made 8.35, while medium 959-pound Idahos made 8.00, with a few lots of common kinds from 6.00@7.00.

Odd head of cows and heifers turned from 7.00 @7.75, while the best in load lots made 6.75, this price taking in a load of 1060-pound Idahos. Odd head and small lots of medium cows and heifers sold down to 6.00, while several sizable lots and loads of common cows and heifers turned from 5.00@5.75, the latter price taking in three loads of 883-pound California grassers. Very common kinds sold down to 4.50, while canners and cutters went over mostly from 2.50@4.00. Bulls remained practically unchanged, the few bologuas clearing from 4.25@5.00, with beef types up to 5.50.

CALVES—The supply in this division was mostly odd head and small lots of calves and vealers. Calves were mostly common kinds and heavies from 5.50@8.50, with a few more desirable kinds up to 10.00, while vealers turned largely from 9.50@ 10.50, with a few choice kinds around 12.50.

HOGS—Only four loads were offered in this division and these turned readily at steady to strong prices. Three loads averaging 185 to 193 pounds topped for the day at 14.75, while a load of 177-pound mixed butchers made 14.25. A few smooth packing sows turned for 11.75. Late Thursday a clean-up of mixed and medium weight butchers made from 14.10@14.40.

SHEEP—Offerings in this division consisted of a deck of common and medium 67-pound California springers. These sold on the morning session at 11.00, with a 15 per cent cut at 9.00. Good and choice springers are quoted from 12.50 @13.50.

TOWN PREPARES FOR GOLD RUSH

Hamlet Near Red Lake Already Surveying Townsite

Warehouse and Hotel Are to be Enlarged

Air Transportation Planned for Prospectors

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HUDSON (Ont.) April 2.—This little town which was dragged up from the obscurity of a tank station in the Northern Ontario wilderness to be thrust into international prominence by discovery of a rich gold strike at Red Lake, is preparing to take its place in the sun by surveying a townsite in anticipation of a tremendous rush when the winter breaks.

Hudson probably will continue to be the headquarters of prospectors who are going into the Red Lake fields with a fortune in prospect. Red Lake itself is only a collection of staked out claims and is destined to remain such, owing to lack of transportation.

Coincident with the townsite plans is the announced intention of the Hudson's Bay Company to enlarge its store and warehouse by a sixty-foot addition. A pretentious hotel will replace the three-room hut which has been the haven of all visitors to date and the Elliott-Fairchild Air Service has purchased 110 feet of ground on the water front for the erection of a warehouse and dock. This company has a six-passenger airplane on the way here and has ordered an air liner capable of carrying sixty passengers, with stateroom accommodation and culinary arrangements.

With the approach of spring the mining camp has assumed considerable activity. The Ontario government has sent M. es Wilkinson, Red Cross directress, into the camp to preserve the health of the men and to insist on sanitary conditions. The place is being photographed to death, stills and motion pictures being shot every day.

A one-arm prospector has made his appearance here. He is S. C. King of Tichford, Ont., a seasoned sourdough. King lost his arm in a sawmill accident when a boy and asserts it does not affect his enterprise.

"I get along pretty well without it," he remarked, in response to a question. "I can hook the coffee pot out of the fire when a man with two hands would burn both of them."

RESORTS OF EUROPE END BAD WINTER

Lure of California Helps to Keep Many Americans Away from Continent

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, April 2.—The winter just past was a poor season for most of the European resorts, due chiefly to a falling off in American patronage, and hotel men's associations and travel agencies are planning campaigns to insure that next winter will not see the decline continue. The lure of California and Florida is one of the principal factors blamed, the French and Italian Rivieras particularly having suffered from these rival attractions.

The most recent factor was the March flurry in Wall street, which sent hundreds of Americans scurrying home on account of financial uncertainties.

The Central European mountain resorts were affected by the bitter exchange of speeches between Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Stresemann, which caused Germans and Austrians to leave Italy and Italians to return from the German resorts.

Expectations of a summer rush of tourists from the United States are the basis of hopes entertained by hotel men throughout Great Britain and the continent for recouping their losses of the slack winter.

Record List of Passengers on Island Steamer

The S.S. Calawali will dock at Wilmington from Honolulu at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon with 420 passengers, the largest passenger list she has brought to this port from the Hawaiian Islands, according to radio advices received from Capt. Sawyer by officials of the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

The cabin liner, in addition to having all of her first-cabin accommodations filled is bringing 232 persons in her third-class quarters representing the usual spring movement from the islands of laborers to mainland occupations.

A substantial cargo of island products including consignments of canned pineapple for local and Massachusetts commission merchants, fresh pineapples for Southern California markets and sugar and eighteen bags of first-class mail, seventy-nine packages of parcel post and six automobiles being brought to the mainland by returning tourists, also are being carried by the Calawali.

BAD CHECKS

The following bulletin on bad-check writing was issued yesterday by the forgery detail of the Los Angeles Police Department, detective bureau:

Merchants are warned to accept no checks bearing the printed name of the Universal Poultry Farms, Universal City, Cal., as six firm checks of this company have been stolen and one was forged on March 24, 1926, by a person using the name of James Lankas. Twenty-five dollars was obtained on this check, which was numbered 1544.

The checks are drawn on the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, Hollywood and Hollywood branch. Description of the person issuing the above-described check are somewhat conflicting. However, merchants are urged to accept no checks of the Universal Poultry Farms without first ascertaining whether or not such check is authentic, and this information may be obtained, either through the office of the company from which the checks were stolen, or the office of the forgery detail in the detective bureau—telephone MEtropolitan 6100.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

RUMOR OF NEW SHIPS REVIVES

Port Hears More About Plan of Luckenbach Line

Building of Two Fast Cargo Vessels on Program

Details Except Power Plant Declared Complete

That the Luckenbach Steamship Company is contemplating the construction of two freight ships larger and faster than any in the intercoastal trade, is a report which, while unconfirmed, persists at Los Angeles Harbor.

Skippers of rival lines arriving from New York say the Luckenbach Line is ready to announce details of the two new ships except for their motive power, which has not finally been decided. While officials of the line are said to look with favor on Diesel ships, they also are interested in the performances of Diesel-electric cargo carriers, like the J. C. Van Dyke and a few others.

Whatever the power, it is said to be the intention that the new vessels shall possess a speed of fifteen to sixteen knots an hour, and be capable of making the intercoastal run direct from New York to this port in thirteen days.

The vessels each would carry 18,000 to 20,000 tons deadweight and would be 626 feet long, about 100 feet longer than any of the nineteen Luckenbach freighters and one tanker now plying to this port in the intercoastal and Gulf trades. The Andrea F. Luckenbach and the Lewis Luckenbach, now among the largest intercoastal freighters, carry about 15,000 tons loaded.

The Andrea F., is due from New York today with 10,000 weight tons for the Coast, including 3000 for this port. Items include twenty-nine tons of sewing machines, 125 tons of soap and forty-three of medicine. The Paul Luckenbach also is due today to load several hundred tons of beans, canned fruit and fish for New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

TRANSPORT CALLS EN ROUTE FROM ORIENT

The American Army transport Cambral put in for bunkers and sailed last night for Panama, New York, carrying 140 troops, forty officers and a number of families. She arrived yesterday morning from Honolulu and Manila. At Honolulu she took on troops from the Orient from the transport Meigs as well as a detachment from the Hawaiian Islands. Maj. Lawrence W. Cramer in charge of the detachment was joined here by Mrs. Young and their two daughters, en route to his new post at New York. Capt. Fred Perkins, who with his wife is en route to Fort Thomas, Ky., had been on a leave of 3000 days, a year and a half of which was at the Kilauea volcano, Hawaii, when the lid blew off, affording excitement. The Cambral is a steamer of 9000 net tons, built at Hog Island in 1920. She has a speed of about fourteen knots.

Fifteen bunkers are due today and tomorrow, flying the flags of America, Great Britain, Norway, Panama and Danzig. Two more are scheduled for today, including the British tanker Patricosa on her first visit from the United Kingdom for the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company; the specially converted motor tankship Lilo, steaming from her first intercoastal trip for General Petroleum. The Danzig tanker Penelope will make her first appearance from Hamburg today.

Coincidental to the return of the United States Battle Fleet to Los Angeles Harbor, comes the report of the sailing of three tankers of the Imperial Transportation Company from this port. The three are the Taurumi, the Iro and the Kenai. They will arrive about the middle of the month, and, after remaining in port several days, will load fuel oil and return to the naval base at Tokuyama. It will be the first visit of Japanese navy tankers here since the three vessels came out of this port two months ago. These tankers charter officer personnel almost every trip, except to carry Norwegian officers familiar with local waters and shore conditions to meet the ships' needs.

Steve Remich, concessionaire at Point Fermin Park, visited old haunts at the harbor for the first time since he was burned by the explosion of a gasoline launch two months ago early in February. His hands and body still show where he was seared, but surgeons have restored his face so his injury is undiscernible.

Making her first trip here direct from the Orient, the Shipper Bar freighter West Jester is due today with her last bill of lading for Struthers & Barry. On discharging here, she will proceed to Eagle Oil Company, where she will be turned over to her new owners, the Quaker Line, which will operate her in the intercoastal trade. The West Jester, operated by Struthers & Barry in operation, sailed for the Orient yesterday with 97,000 cases of oil and several thousand tons of general merchandise.

Large liners among the half-dozen passenger carriers due today are the Canadian Ranger, with 220 passengers from Hawaii, and the Manchuria, with an equal number from New York and Havana. The latter is due early this morning, while the Calawali is expected to dock during the afternoon.

The German steamer Sachsen of the Hamburg-American Line sailed for London and Hamburg last night with a capacity of coastal freight, and fourteen passengers. Those boarding here in Los Angeles are Mrs. Pauline Hilliers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sladis and William R. Chessbourg, for Hamburg, and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Elwood, for London.

Swayne & Hoyt are reported negotiating in Washington for the purchase of additional tonnage for the Pacific Coast-Gulf trade. The firm has had an option on the combination ships belonging to the Shipping Board for some weeks. They recently bought the Holyoke Bridge, the Continental Bridge and the Colonial Brook from the board. On arrival of the three from the east coast, they will be renamed the Point Fermin, Point Reyes and the Point Bonita.

Word was received yesterday that the President Polk, flagship of the Dollar steamship fleet, will not reach this port from New York Sunday until midnight, and will not dock until Monday morning. Among the passengers is S. L. Rothafel, a sort of New York edition of Sid Grauman, and known for his feature presentation of films in Gotham. His orchestra broadcast from many eastern stations, and it is said Rothafel has heard them most of the way on his trip, wirelessing back his compliments or his criticism of their performances.

The former Shipping Board freighter Westhorn will make her first appearance here tomorrow under the name of Jane-Christensen, which she recently was given following her purchase by Peter Christensen. She is stopping for bunkers, en route from Gray's Harbor to New York with a full cargo of lumber.

The pleasure liner Avalon will go back on the daily run between Wilmington and Catalina Island tomorrow, temporarily relieving the Catalina, which will undergo minor repairs and retouching. Both will make daily trips throughout the summer, beginning in June.

The former purse seiner Fortuna, said to be under charter to Mack Bennett, obtained clearance papers from the customs office yesterday for Mexican waters. She will be in command of Capt. Bill Clover, veteran sword fisherman, and will carry a crew of six, and four motion-picture men. They will seek pictures of sea life along the lower coast and in the Gulf of California and expect to be gone several weeks.

ARROWSMITH
by Sinclair Lewis

WHO'S WHO:

MARTIN ARROWSMITH, a young man of friends with to studying medicine at the University of Winnemac. In love with Madeline Fox, a co-ed, and a slave to Prof. Max Gottlieb, professor of bacteriology, whom Martin has endowed with the virtues of a god.

ANGUS DUER, a silent, sharp-faced, curly-headed, rather handsome young student who never squandered an hour or a good impulse.

CLIFF CLAWSON, the class jester.

PROF. MAX GOTTLIEB, instructor in bacteriology, famed on two continents for his work and discoveries, a mystery to his fellow faculty members, but who has taken a liking to Martin.

PATTY PFAFF, a sausage in corduroy, butt for the practical jokes of his fellow-students.

MADELINE FOX, co-ed seeking a Ph. D. degree; red-haired, ritzy and recipient of Martin's affections.

DR. NORMAN BRUMFIT, instructor in English, immoral, agnostic and socialistic externally, but pure, Presbyterian and Republican with all the family's "wild oats."

MRS. FOX, Madeline's mother, mid-Victorian, provincial yet gentle and kind and thoroughly ignorant of the rising generation.

It cannot be said, in this biography of a young man who was in no degree a hero, who regarded himself as a seeker after truth yet who stumbled and slid back all his life and bogged himself in every obvious morass, that Martin's intentions toward Madeline Fox were what is called "honorable." He was not a Don Juan, but he was a poor medical student who would have to wait for years before he could make a living. Certainly he did not think of proposing marriage. He wanted—like most poor and ardent young men in such a case, he wanted all he could get.

As he raced toward her flat, he was expectant of adventure. He pictured her melting; he felt her hand glide down his cheek. He warned himself, "Don't be a fool now! Probably nothing doing at all. Don't go get all worked up and then be disappointed. She'll probably cuss you out for something you did wrong at the party. She'll probably be sleepy and wish you hadn't come. Nothing!" But he did not for a second believe it.

He rang, he saw her opening the door, he followed her down the meager hall, longing to take her hand. He came into the overbright living-room—and he found her mother, solid as a pyramid, permanent-looking as sunless winter.

But of course mother would obligingly go and leave him to conquest.

Mother did not.

In Mohalis, the suitable time for young men callers to depart is 10 o'clock, but from 8 til' a quarter after 11 Martin did battle with Mrs Fox; talked to her in two languages, an audible gossip and a mute But furious protest, while Madeline—she was present; she sat about and looked pretty. In an equally silent tongue Mrs. Fox answered him, till the room was thick with their antagonism, while they seemed to be discussing the weather, the university and the trolley service into Zenith.

"Yes, of course, some day, I guess they'll have a car every twenty minutes," she said weightily.

("Darn her, why doesn't she go to bed? Cheers! She's doing up her knitting. Nope. Damn it! She's taking another ball of wool.")

"Oh, yes, I'm sure they'll have better service," said Mrs. Fox.

("Young man, I don't know much about you, but I don't believe you're the right kind of person for Madeline to go with. Anyway, it's time you went home.")

"Oh, yes, sure, you bet. Lot better service."

("I know I'm staying too long, and I know you know it, but I don't care!")

It seemed impossible that Mrs. Fox should endure his stolid persistence. He used thought-forms, willpower and hypnotism, and when he rose, defeated, she was still there, extremely placid. They said good-by not too warmly. Madeline took him to the door; for an exhilarating half-minute he had her alone.

"I wanted so much—I wanted to talk to you!"

"I know. I'm sorry. Some time!" she muttered.

He kissed her. It was a tempestuous kiss, and very sweet.

Fudge parties, skating parties, sleighing parties, a literary party with the guest of honor a lady journalist who did the social page for the Zenith Advocate-Times—Madeline leaped into an orgy of jocund but extraordinarily tiring entertainments, and Martin obediently and smolderingly followed her. She appeared to have trouble in getting enough men, and to the literary evening Martin dragged the enraged Clif Clawson. Clif grumbled. "This is the damnedest zoo of sparrows I ever did time in," but he bore off treasure—he had heard Madeline call Martin by her favorite name of "Marty-kins." That was very valuable. Clif called him Martykins. Clif told others to call him Martykins. Fatty Pfaff and Irving Watters called him Martykins. And when Martin wanted to go to sleep, Clif croaked:

"Yuh, you'll probably marry her. She's a dead shot. She can hit a smart young M.D. at ninety paces. Oh, you'll have one fine young time going on with science after that skirt sets you at tonsil-snatching . . . She's one of these literary birds. She knows all about literature except maybe how to read . . . She's not so bad-looking now. She'll get fat, like her ma."

Martin said that which was necessary, and he concluded, "She's the only girl in the graduate school that's got any pep. The others just sit around and talk, and she gets up the best parties—"

"Any kissing parties?"

"Now you look here! I'll be getting sore, first thing you know! You and I are roughnecks, but Madeline Fox—she is like Agnes Duer, some ways. I realize all the stuff we're missing: music and literature, yes, and decent clothes, too—no harm to dressing well—"

"That's just what I was tellin' you! She'll have you all dolled up in a Prince Albert and a boiled shirt, diagnosing everything as rich-widowitis. How you can fall for that four-flushing dame—where's your control?"

Clif's opposition stirred him to consider Madeline not merely with a sly and avaricious interest, but with a dramatic conviction that he longed to marry her.

Few women can for long periods keep from trying to improve their men, and to improve means to change a person from what he is, whatever that may be, into something else. Girls like Madeline Fox, artistic young women who do not work at it, cannot be restrained from improving for more than a day at a time.

The moment the urgent Martin showed that he was stirred by her graces, she went at his clothes—his corduroys and soft collars and eccentric old gray felt hat—at his vocabulary and his taste in fiction, with new and more patronizing vigor. Her sketchy way of saying, "Why, of course everybody knows that Emerson was the greatest thinker" irritated him the more in contrast to Gottlieb's dark patience.

"Oh, let me alone!" he hurled at her. "You're the nicest thing the Lord ever made, when you stick to things you know about, but when you spring your ideas on politics and chemotherapy—Darn it, quit bullying me! I guess you're right about slang. I'll cut out all this junk about 'feeding your face' and so on. But I will not put on a hard-boiled collar! I won't!"

He might never have proposed to her but for the spring evening on the roof.

She used the flat roof of her apartment-house as a garden. She had set out one box of geraniums and a cast-iron bench like those once beheld in cemetery plots; she had hung up two Japanese lanterns—they were ragged and they hung crooked. She spoke with scorn of the other inhabitants of the apartment-house, who were "so prosaic, so conventional, that they never came up to this darling hidey-place."

She compared her refuge to the roof of a Moorish palace, to a Spanish patio, to a Japanese garden, to a "pleasaunce of old Provencal." But to Martin it seemed a good deal like a plain roof. He was vaguely ready for a quarrel, that April evening when he called on Madeline and her mother sniffily told him that she was to be found on the roof.

"Damned Japanese lanterns. Rather look at liver-sections," he grumbled, as he trudged up the curving stairs.

Madeline was sitting on the funereal iron bench, her chin in her hands. For once she did not greet him with flowery excitement but with a noncommittal "Hello." She seemed spiritless. He felt guilty for his scoffing; he suddenly saw the pathos in her pretense that this stretch of tar-paper and slatted walks was a blazing garden. As he sat beside her he piped, "Say, that's a dandy new strip of matting you've put down."

"It is not! It's mangy!" She turned toward him. She wailed, "Oh, Mart, I'm so sick of myself, tonight. I'm always trying to make people think I'm somebody. I'm not. I'm a bluff."

"What is it, dear?"

"Oh, it's lots. Dr. Brumfit, hang him—only he was right—he as good as told me that if I don't work harder I'll have to get out of the graduate school. I'm not doing a thing, he said, and if I don't have my Ph. D., then I won't be able to land a nice job teaching English in some swell school, and I'd better land one, too, because it doesn't look to poor Madeline as if anybody was going to marry her."

His arm about her, he blared, "I know exactly who—"

"No, I'm not fishing. I'm almost honest, tonight. I'm no good, Mart. I tell people how clever I am. And I don't suppose they believe it. Probably they go off and laugh at me!"

"They do not! If they did— I'd like to see anybody that tried laughing—"

"It's awfully sweet and dear of you, but I'm not worth it. The poetic Madeline! With her ree-fined vocabulary! I'm a—I'm a—Martin, I'm a tin-horn sport! I'm everything your friend Cliff thinks I am. Oh, you needn't tell me. I know what he thinks. And—I'll have to go home with mother, and I can't stand it, dear, I can't stand it! I won't go back. That town! Never anything doing! The old tabbies and the beastly old men, always telling the same old jokes. I won't."

Her head was in the hollow of his arm; she was weeping, hard; he was stroking her hair, not covetously now but tenderly, and he was whispering:

"Darling! I almost feel as if I dared to love you. You're going to marry me and—Take me couple more years to finish my medical course and couple in hospital, then we'll be married and— By thunder, with you helping me, I'm going to climb to the top! Be big surgeon! We're going to have everything!"

"Dearest, do be wise. I don't want to keep you from your scientific work—"

"Oh. Well. Well, I would like to keep up some research. But thunder, I'm not just a lab-cat. Battle o' life. Smashing your way through. Competing with real men in real he-struggle. If I can't do that and do some scientific work, too, I'm no good. Course while I'm with Gottlieb, I want to take advantage of it, but afterward—Oh, Madeline!"

The next installment of this most absorbing novel—written by the author of "Main Street" and "Babbitt"—will appear in tomorrow's Times. Watch for it.

Californian Who Caused Bergdoll Arrest Returns

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Robert Paul Sachs, retired advertising man who said he was largely responsible for the pending trial at Mosbach, Germany, of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, arrived aboard the liner George Washington today.

He originally went to Mosbach from the University of Heidelberg, where he was studying to ascertain the truth of stories that Bergdoll was being "persecuted."

Evidence he gathered against the slacker was turned over to the prosecuting authorities, he says, and will be used against him when the trial opens the 14th inst.

Mr. Sachs is on his way to his home in Alameda, Cal.

GOOPS!

A Daily Lesson in Manners for Children

—BY GELETT BURGESS—

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

FISHING FOR COMPLIMENTS

Some little girls are fond of fishing—
I mean that they are always wishing
To get a Compliment, and striving
To make you praise them—and contriving
In every way to be admired.
It's Goops like that who make me tired!

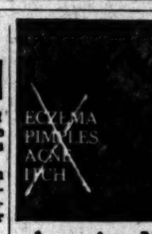
No more RHEUMATISM



IT'S GONE! That awful agony! Rheumatism can't stand the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

But rheumatism will bring pain and misery to your joints and muscles just as long as you are without plenty of rich, red blood in your system.

It's the red-blood-cells that S. S. S. helps Nature build that drive out of your system the impurities that cause rheumatism. And until you do build up your blood to where it is pure and rich and red, you simply can't get rid of rheumatism.

And S. S. S. is the thing. Red blood conquers rheumatism. Everybody knows that.

S. S. S. means millions of red-blood-cells—means health all over. No more rheumatism. Nights of rest — days of joy, filled with the happiness of accomplishment—made possible by a body brimful of red blooded life, energy and vitality.

S.S.S.

That's what the end of rheumatism means—that's what S. S. S. brings to you. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

PUBLISHERS PROTEST

Action Aimed at Postmaster-General New's Motion

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The American Newspaper Publishers' Association today requested the Interstate Commerce Commission to deny a motion filed by Postmaster-General New on March 26, last, in an effort to prevent the publishers from intervening in the railway-mail pay case now pending before the commission.

The publishers challenged the right of the Postmaster-General to consideration before the commission at this time on the ground that he failed to move against them within the time prescribed by the rules of the commission governing its procedure.

AUTO KILLS PEDESTRIAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SALINAS, April 2.—Walter Cordo, 25 years of age, a milker, was killed while walking along the highway at Gonzales, near here tonight, when an automobile driven by John Morissoli struck him. Morissoli said that lights of a machine coming from the other direction had blinded him.

WATTS ANNEXES TO LOS ANGELES

Vote Shows 1338 for to 595 Against

City Makes Population Gain of 21,000

Merged Community Has Had Large Growth

Population figures of the city of Los Angeles were swelled by 21,000 and its great territorial area received a gain of three square miles by the action yesterday of the citizens of Watts, touching the south edge of the city, who by an overwhelming majority voted to annex to Los Angeles, 1338 to 595.

The special election yesterday resulted in the heaviest poll of votes in the history of Watts, with 1933 of the 2513 registered voters casting ballots, according to election officials, exceeding the previous record of 400.

Watts has enjoyed a growth that has been almost phenomenal since it was founded sixteen years ago. A cluster of frame dwellings and two or three stores less than a dozen years ago have given way today to a thriving little city humming with industry.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH

Founded and incorporated in 1910 by the Golden State Realty Company, Watts now occupies what was formerly the H. A. Towne ranch. Mr. Towne has lived there for thirty-seven years and has watched the city grow from a railway station to its present position.

Industrially, the city has advanced to its present status in the last few years. The McClintic-Marshall Steel Company plant, with a pay roll of 400—and covering an area of three acres added materially to the advancement of Watts with its establishment there about a year ago. Other plants include the Seven Grain Milling Company, the Bradford Pickle and Relish factory, and three sash and door factories.

The city has five grammar schools and a new $250,000 high school taken into the Los Angeles school district a year ago, an up-to-date hotel, a Carnegie library, two hospitals, a bank and a Los Angeles branch postoffice established in 1921.

Watts maintain its own fire and police departments. Comprising the law-enforcement body is a personnel of eleven men under Chief A. N. Towne and the fire department is made up of twenty-five volunteers and eight paid members under Chief Irvin F. O'Dell. The fire department was established in 1924. Both departments are housed in the City Hall. Included in the fire-fighting equipment is a combination pumper and chemical Seagrave truck with a 650-gallon capacity. The Pacific Corporation's waterworks, located between Watts and Graham furnishes the city its water supply.

STREETS RENAMED

Practically all city streets are paved, being of concrete construction, and 75 per cent of the pavement has been laid the last two years, according to Mayor Eddy. The Board of Trustees has installed at every street intersection 300-candle power lights and recently this body passed an ordinance renaming the streets of Watts to conform with those of Los Angeles. By this action Main street has been renamed One-Hundred and Third street.

Mayor Edwards led the fight for annexation and bitterly opposing the move were the Watts Chamber of Commerce, Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, Taxpayers' League, the Klan organization and the Watts Welfare League.

Girl Dies From Injuries Caused in Auto Accident

Henrietta Bacicalupi, 24 years of age, died last night at the French hospital as the result of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile last Wednesday night at North Griffin avenue and Main street. The body is in charge of the Coroner, and an inquest will be conducted.

Miss Bacicalupi resided at 612 North Griffin avenue. While attempting to cross Main street she was reported to have been knocked down by a car driven by D. Chacon, 548 North Ford Boulevard.

JULIAN DECISION DUE TODAY

Judge Scheduled to Pass on Restraining Order Aimed at Daugherty in Lead Stock Case

Today United States District Judge McCormick probably will hand down a decision in a hearing which began yesterday morning on a temporary restraining order granted C. C. Julian's Western Lead Mines Company against Corporation Commissioner Daugherty. By stipulation between attorneys it was agreed to end the action during the morning session of the court.

The hearing which was to show cause why the temporary restraining order should not remain in force began yesterday morning before Judge McCormick with the filing of numbers of affidavits by Deputies Widney and Linney for the Attorney-General's office and other affidavits by Attorneys Doherty and Gilbert for the Western Lead Mines Company.

MOTIONS DENIED

Following the filing of the documents arguments were made to the court by the attorneys for both sides and at the close of the session yesterday both sides announced that their cases could be completed in another half a day.

Early in the hearing yesterday Attorney Linney demurred to the complaint but was overruled by the court. Then a motion to dismiss the action was made but denied by Judge McCormick. Following the second motion, a motion to strike out certain portions of the complaint was made and argued. Portions of the complaint were ordered taken out by the judge.

During the course of the afternoon session detailed reports on the Western Lead Mines Company holdings were read into the records both from reports made by Corporation Commissioner's engineers and engineers acting for Mr. Julian. A report said to have been written by Dr. Bruce Clark of the University of California was produced and read by attorneys for the lead mines company. Then a letter explaining and in part denying the report was introduced by

AN AUTHORITY ON CELTIC MYTHOLOGY

Ella Young

FAIRIES ARE REALITIES IN HER WORLD

Irish Writer of Mythical Tales Arrives Here and Will Deliver Lectures

Fairies are as real to Ella Young, Irish writer and lecturer, as the butterflies in your own back garden.

She has written books of fairy-tales and folk-tales, books of verse and prose and is an authority on Celtic mythology. Not only has she made a niche for herself among the most noted writers of her country, but she has also lectured before the Gaelic Society of Trinity College, Dublin, the Irish Literary Society and many other distinguished groups of cultured people.

Coming to New York last fall to lecture at Columbia College, Miss Young was called back for a series of lectures and had the same experience when she appeared at Vassar. It is her first visit to America and she is so fascinated by the country that she has christened it "The Tawney Lioness."

Miss Young is a graduate of the Royal College of Dublin and for a time lectured on English there. But literary pursuits claimed her and she spent twenty-five years gathering the material that makes up the folk-tales in her new book, "WonderSmith and His Son."

It was in her search for the mythological and ancient folk tales that she came to understand that fairies and elfine beings were the link between the floral and the animal world.

Miss Young arrived yesterday at the Chancellor Hotel, West Seventh street, and will appear at the Barker Auditorium next Tuesday morning and at an Ebell Club luncheon next week.

Miss Young deplores the practice of supplying quantities of toys to American children. She is of the opinion that it inhibits the development of the imagination.

THRONGS TO SEE EASTER SUNRISE

Southland Multitudes Will Worship in Open

Transit Companies Prepared to Handle Crowds

Commemorating the greatest event in history and the dawn of humanity's deliverance from ignorance, fear and all the ills that make for human sorrow, Christians of Southern California will gather tomorrow at hundreds of churches and at Nature's temples of worship to lift their voices in song, sermon and prayer to the Redeemer of the world.

Among the scores of sunrise services tomorrow, to be attended by thousands of devotees, and the programs of which were announced in last Sunday's Times, will be the following: Coliseum, Exposition Park; Occidental Bowl, Eagle Rock; Peace Hill, Pacific Palisades; Mt. Washburn, near Pasadena; Fifty-fourth street and Kensington avenue; Mt. Forest Lawn, Glendale; Sparr Heights, behind the Oakmont Country Club; Pacific Military Academy, Culver City; Griffith Park, between the east entrance and Los Feliz Boulevard; Mt. Washington, 3880 San Rafael avenue; Point Fermin, San Pedro; Palm Springs; Mt. Lowe; Mt. Hollywood Congregational Church; Mt. Wilson, at Echo Rock; Encino Country Club, Van Nuys; Hewes Park, three miles east of Orange; Palos Verdes Hills; Angelus Temple, service at Mt. Carmel; Figueroa Boulevard Christian Church, Magnolia-avenue Christian Church; Plymouth Congregational Church; Montecito Hills, Avenue 31 and Griffith avenue.

The Pacific Electric will run a special train for the Easter sunrise service at Peace Hill, Pacific Palisades, leaving the Hill-street station at 3:45 a.m., and arriving at Santa Monica at 4:40 a.m. Busses will convey visitors to Peace Hill for the service, which will start at 5:30 a.m. Rev. Dillon Bronson of Brookline, Mass., will give the principal address. The invocation and benediction will be by Rev. Charles H. Scott, president of the Pacific Palisades Association; chorus singing will be led by Mrs Nancy Kendall Robinson; Dr. Oren B. Waite will be in general charge. A feature of this service is the Lily Recessional, with the worshipers bearing lilies, making the descent from the mountain, led by a band.

TO DEDICATE CHURCH

Rejoicing in the completion of their new $50,000 church, at Twelfth and Valencia streets, Dr. R. H. Jones and his congregation of Welsh Presbyterian Church will dedicate the handsome temple to worship with services tomorrow at 10 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tomorrow will mark the eleventh anniversary of the pastorate of Dr. Jones, who is the leader of the only Welsh church in Southern California. Starting with an enrollment of 150 members, Dr. Jones has built the membership up to 350. The edifice, which is practically new, formerly was a Jewish synagogue. The old Welsh Presbyterian Church on Crocker street, founded thirty years ago, has been sold to the Volunteers of America. At the service tomorrow morning, at the new building, sermons in the Welsh language will be preached by Rev. H. R. Williams of San Diego and Dr. D. L. Jenkins of Los Angeles. The services in the afternoon and evening will be in English and the public is invited. At 2:30 p.m. addresses will be given by Drs. Guy Wadsworth, Herbert Booth Smith, Hugh K. Walker, A. B. Pritchard and G. A. Briegleb. Music will be furnished by the Welsh male chorus, directed by Prof. Will Rees. In the evening the popular cantata "Eastertide" will be given, with E. W. Davies directing and with Mrs. Owen Thomas presiding at the organ.

"THE FLAMING MESSAGE"

Dr. Charles F. Aked, pastor of Wilshire All-Souls' Church, will preach on "The Flaming Easter Message and the World's Eternal Summer" tomorrow morning at the Criterion Theater. Music will be furnished by Julie Keller and her company of harpists. In the evening Dr. Aked will conduct a service at Temple Emanu-El and will discuss McKenna's novel, "The Oldest God."

NEW PASTOR CHOSEN

Rev. Leonard G. Thompson, who for fifteen years has been connected with the Disciples of Christ in Los Angeles, yesterday accepted the invitation to the pastorate of Pico Heights Christian Church. Rev. Claire Luther Waite, who has been pastor of the church for the last five years, left Los Angeles yesterday to take up his duties as pastor of First Christian Church of Riverside. At Pico Heights Church tomorrow morning Dr. Thompson will preach on "The Highest Proof of the Resurrection," the subject for evening being "Christ Is Risen."

FIRST BAPTIST

"How His Triumph Becomes Triumph for Us All" is the subject of a sermon to be preached by Dr. James A. Francis tomorrow morning at First Baptist Church. At 4 p.m. an elaborate musical program will be given and Dr. Francis will preach on "When Two Men First Heard the Easter Message."

ANGELUS TEMPLE

More than 4000 persons are expected to attend the Angelus Temple sunrise service to be conducted at 4:30 a.m. tomorrow on Mt. Carmel. The musical program will include selections by the Andrew Bell Ringers, the Men's Four-square Quartet, the Women's Quartet and the Children's Choir. Serv-

FILM THEME PRIZE GIVEN TOMORROW

Outcome of "Times"-De Mille Contest Eagerly Awaited by Thousands

Tomorrow's Times will carry the news for which thousands of people have been waiting eagerly for weeks—the names of the winners in The Times-De Mille photoplay letter contest.

More than $2000 in cash prizes will be distributed upon the publication of this information, the awards being international in distribution. For the best letter containing the theme selected by Mr. De Mille for motion-picture production, a check for $1000 will be given. Additional prizes of $300, $200, $100 an ten of $50 will also be awarded for other excellent ideas.

The author of the $1000 letter will receive not only the cash award, but also the satisfaction of seeing his or her suggestion carried to the screen by a master producer, who plans to spend between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 on the picture. This production will be the only one to receive the personal attention of Mr. De Mille this year, and he expects to film a picture on the dimensions of "The Ten Commandments," which he produced from an idea received through a Times-De Mille contest four years ago.

The contest, which ended February 27, has received world-wide attention. More than 50,000 replies were received during the four weeks of competition, and it required weeks to segregate the letters down to a point where they could be properly handled. Mr. De Mille gave the competing ideas his personal attention, and it was only afer the most careful consideration that he selected the winners.

Mr. De Mille is now on his way to New York to be present at the world premiere of his most recent feature production, "The Volga Boatman."

TAX FOR BEAUTY ARTISTS

The Council yesterday adopted an ordinance placing a license tax upon "traveling beauty specialists." Assistant City Attorney Whitehead, amid a number of "wise cracks," explained that a tax is now collected from beauty parlors, and the new tax was planned to charge ambulant complexion artists.

HIGH up on the pent house of the new Y.W.C.A. hotel for women, thirteen and a half stories above ground, a half-dozen girls yesterday poured the last load of concrete into the forms of the structure.

The ceremony marked the final step in the actual work of erection of the new $1,000,000 structure, which is to be opened on July 1. Only the interior of the building now remains to be completed.

The girls represented the various phases of activity of the organization. They were assisted in the concrete-pouring ceremonies on their eerie perch above the city by Mrs. Chester C. Ashley, president of the Y.W.C.A., and Miss Charlotte Davis, general secretary of the association.

The girls who participated in the ceremony were Fances Martin, representing the Blue Triangle clubs; Ruth Jett of the health education department; Mary Stewart of the Clark Memorial Home; Shirley Kelley of the Girls' Reserves, and Beta Garreth of the city service department of the association. They wore overalls for the occasion and Miss Kelley bossed the job.

Construction of the new hotel, which is to be known as the Casa Figueroa, was begun on September 23 1925. The corner-stone was laid on January 18, last.

ORATORS AT LONG BEACH APPLAUDED

More than 1000 persons enthusiastically applauded the noteworthy efforts of high school students who competed in the district meet of the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution in Southern California, conducted yesterday in the Long Beach Polytechnic High School.

William Fennell, past president of the Owls' Club, runner-up to the national champion two years ago and prominent in high school forensic circles, was awarded first place. He handled his subject in a knowing manner, spoke with ease and clarity and maintained the platform presence of an old master.

George Shibley, an Armenian youth, placed second and Harwood Stump, a sophomore, was third. Other entrants were Princess Booth, Richardson Hastings, Billie Nute, Theodore Rodriguez and Van Heflin. All presented excellent orations, indicating careful study and accurate preparation.

The Times awards of $25, $15 and $10 for the first three places were presented by Principal Burcham of Long Beach Polytechnic High School. Miss Lillian Breed, head of the public-speaking department of that institution, presided. Prof. William V. McCay is the district contest manager.

HIGHLAND PARK MEETING

Public officials will be featured on the program of the West Highland Park Improvement Association at the monthly meeting at 8 o'clock Monday night in the Adams school on North Avenue 50. Sheriff Traeger will discuss problems of the Sheriff's office and Fire Commissioner Rochester, Commander Bague of Los Angeles Post No. 107, United Veterans of the Republic, and Officer Earle E. Cook, will speak in favor of Proposition 2 on the ballot at the special election of the 30th inst.

EMPLOYERS ORGANIZE TO DEFEND AMERICAN PLAN

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 2.—Confronted by a movement against nonunion workmen and their employers, a number of employers in several cities met here today and devised what they hope will be ways and means for the continuation of industrial freedom in Southern California. More than 100 persons from a score of cities in the Southland participated in the sessions, which were sponsored by the Long Beach Employers' Council.

The conferees directed C. A. Buffum of Long Beach, chairman of the meeting, to appoint a committee to draft principles for a permanent organization of Southern California employers that will work for continuance of the open shop and co-ordinate these efforts in Southern California cities. This committee will report at another meeting to be called later.

Harry M. Haldeman of Los Angeles was appointed chairman of the committee, with the following members: George S. Parker, San Diego; W. D. Ranney, Santa Ana; C. W. Pinkerton, Whittier; W. T. Brown, Fullerton; Watt Moreland, Burbank; Roy L. Kent, Glendale; Fred Von Slagel, Long Beach; A. E. Mills, San Pedro; S. Hazzard Halstead, Pasadena, and John E. Coffin and Harry Chandler, Los Angeles.

The conference adopted a motion by Mr. Haldeman that the first work of the organization be to further the cause of the open shop, and the next to encourage use of products of open-shop concerns and of local industries.

Speakers were present at the conference from San Diego, Anaheim, Santa Ana, Vernon, Ontario, San Pedro, Pasadena, Los Angeles, Long Beach and other communities.

"Southern California," declared an official statement adopted by the conferees after being prepared by Mr. Haldeman, Mr. Halstead, O. N. Robertson, Santa Ana; Paul Langworthy, Los Angeles, and Mr. Von Slagel "on account of its geographical limitations, is in effect a principality in itself and it naturally follows that the greatest measure of prosperity will come to this section of the country if uniform working conditions prevail.

BASIS OF PROSPERITY

"The prosperity of Southern California has been built up under open-shop conditions and we believe that the maintenance of such conditions in all communities offers the greatest possibility for the prosperity and progress of the future. This will insure to the Southern California manufacturer a market for his output and insure to the open-shop workers of Southern California an opportunity for employment in other sections of Southern California in case business is bad in the particular section where they have been employed.

"We know of no city or industry dominated by the closed shop in which the results for the investor, the public or the employer are satisfactory or compare favorably with the conditions in cities or industries where open-shop conditions prevail.

"We find that the dictates of the closed-shop principle result in unnecessary controversies and such waste in production that the cost of the manufactured goods, whether it be building or manufactured products, is out of keeping with the economic value.

"We believe that employers will be greatly benefited by a greater understanding of the industrial problems of the various communities that comprise the district known as Southern California, and we believe the best interests of Southern California will be promoted by the organization of an open-shop association in every city and community therein."

STRUGGLE INTENSE

The struggle for industrial freedom is as intense as any of the political struggles of the past, declared A. C. Rees of Salt Lake City, chairman of the American Plan-Open Shop National Conference, in a speech at the dinner of the conferees tonight. It requires men of greatness, courage and love for posterity to carry on, he said.

In the early days the Colonists might have selected ease and comparative comfort instead of fight-

BREAKFAST CLUB GOES TO CIRCUS

Al G. Barnes Animals and Actors Entertain Members and Their Families

It was circus day yesterday at the Breakfast Club.

A number of acts from the Al G. Barnes show gave an exhibition for members and their families and friends. Six hundred, including 400 children, were present.

Allan Harris was host. Edgar Rice Burroughs acted as ringmaster. Marco Hellman led the band and Robert Weaver, Winslow F. Felix, Norman Manning, W. W. Mines, Maurice DeMond, Irving Hellman and others distributed candy, popcorn and peanuts to the youngsters. Jack Dempsey was an added attraction.

From the Barnes circus came the band, midgets, elephants, clowns, tumblers, singers and other performers.

Word was received here last night of the death in Salt Lake City yesterday of Judge Thomas Marioneaux. Judge Marioneaux was well known here, being a frequent visitor to Los Angeles.

STORM SWEEPING ON CITY

Thorough Drenching in Store for Southland Early Next Week, Says Forecast

A thorough drenching is in store for Southern California and the remainder of the State early next week, according to storm warnings wired to the Weather Bureau here from San Francisco yesterday.

The rains are anticipated from a storm pocket located yesterday between here and Honolulu but moving rapidly eastward. The disturbance is expected to reach here during the early part of the coming week, according to the warnings, and enough rain to aid crops materially is forecast.

But a trace of rain fell in the city yesterday, the Weather Bureau reported. It was too slight to measure. The rainfall to date is 9.94 inches, as against 5.16 inches at this time last year. Normal to date is 14.07. The skies will remain cloudy over the city today, with moderate temperature.

by Harry Carr

THIS is something I have long suspected. And now I know.

I am a Babbitt. Of the most incurable description.

And, therefore, a worm.

And the worm is about to turn.

SLAMS

Within the last two days I have read three high-brow magazines, two of the popular brand and two syndicated newspaper articles on the subject.

All slamming us Babbitts.

Incidentally, I might venture to wonder why, if we are so painfully and disgustingly uninteresting, these Superior Minds should waste so much time on us.

OUR SINS

The sum of our sins seems to be this:

That we talk of golf scores, carburetors and bootleggers.

We should talk of: European politics and finances, the Tacna-Arica dispute, archeology, painting, literature, and Einstein's theory.

OH, HOW SIMPLE

If you start talking about European politics, you come inevitably to two subjects: boundary disputes and the Balkans.

Boundary disputes are so involved that Woodrow Wilson at the Peace Conference stopped in bewilderment and asked to be shown on a map boundaries of countries he admitted he had never heard of.

The thorough, painstaking German Foreign Office said that there were only two men in Europe who really understood the Macedonian question—let alone the other Balkan questions. And one of those two didn't know very much.

YEH, THAT'S EASY

European finances involve a "capacity to pay" which only one or two great experts in each country are hazily trying to figure out. Nobody else knows enough about it even to venture a remark.

PERSHING SURRENDERED

Gen. Pershing tried to find what the Arica and Tacna dispute was all about. Then diplomatically discovered that he ought to have his teeth fixed.

CHAT WITH EINSTEIN

Prof. Einstein, with painful frankness, said that only nine men in the world were capable of understanding his theory.

BLUFFING

On the whole, isn't it better for us Babbitts to stick to our golf scores and to carburetors than to try to show off by bluffing?

BUT WAIT!

Even the carburetor is a dubious chance.

Obviously, not even the manufacturers know much about them. If they did, they would invent one that didn't so shockingly waste the explosive power of gasoline.

THE LAST DRINK

As to bootlegging, I can think of no conversation that would be more interesting than the confession of a candid bootlegger. I imagine no one who heard it would ever take another drink.

OPENS LAW OFFICE

G. W. Adams, for three years member of the legal department of the Auto Club, has opened law offices at Suite 640, Title Insurance Building, Fifth and Spring streets, and will engage in general practice.

ices will also be conducted at the temple at 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. The feature of the evening will be the rendition of Shelley's cantata, "The Risen Christ."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

A lesson-sermon on "Unreality" will be read at 11 a.m. tomorrow at all Churches of Christ, Scientist of Los Angeles, which will be repeated at 8 p.m. at all the churches except Fourth, Eighth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-first churches. Wednesday evening meetings, which include testimonies of Christian Science healing, are held by all the churches. These churches are branches of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

TEMPLE BAPTIST

Picturing a world without the light and joy of the risen Lord, Dr. W. W. Bustard, acting pastor of Temple Baptist Church, will preach at that church tomorrow morning on "A World Without a Resurrection." The sermon will be followed by reception of new members. A drama of the Resurrection, directed by Harold Snell, will be presented by the Bible school in Burdette Hall at 9:20 a.m. Seats in the main auditorium for the regular morning service will be reserved for those who attend the Bible school program. In the evening, following a program by the choir, under direction of Hugo Kirchhofer, Dr. Bustard will preach on "Where Are the Dead?" Dr. Bustard will complete his ministry as acting pastor of this church on the 11th inst. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher is expected to arrive in Los Angeles in time to conduct the services on the 18th inst.

"RESURRECTION"

Two services of interest will be conducted tomorrow at Mt. Washington Educational Center, 3820 San Rafael avenue, Highland Park. The first will be the sunrise service at which an elaborate musical program will be given by Mrs. Ann Etta Mayr, Edith Ford Pla and a chorus directed by Margaret Weeks. An address will be given by Swami Dhirananda, who will also speak at 2 p.m., his topic being "Resurrection." At the meeting of the Mt. Washington Men's Club next Monday evening E. H. Woodward, a student of prison life, will be the speaker. The public is invited.

TO SING CANTATA

Dedication of the great organ at Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church tomorrow evening will be featured by the rendition of Gaul's cantata, "The Holy City," under the direction of Gage Christopher. Soloists will include Miss Georgiana Strauss, Mrs. Ruth Somerindyke and John C. Canton. The public is invited. At the morning hour Dr. Frank Dyer, the pastor, will preach on "Spiritual Resurrection and a Psychological Miracle." Ruth Helen Davis and Philip Hubbard will present "The Resurrection Scene" and the musical program will include harp and organ numbers and selection by the children's chorus.

TO GIVE PAGEANT

"The Living Christ," a pageant in costume, will feature the program at Westlake Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening. Following the production Dr. G. A. Briegleb will preach on "He Shall Reign Forever and Ever." In the morning, preceding a sermon on "The Spiritual Significance of Easter," a musical program will be given by Esther R. Maude, harpist, and Jessie M. Patterson, soprano.

"THE VICTOR"

Dudley Buck's great Easter cantata, "The Victor," will be presented by a choir of 150 trained singers tomorrow evening at First Methodist Church. Harps, violins and the organ will agument the chorus. At the morning hour Dr. E. E. Helms, the pastor, will preach on "Immortality." The doors of the church will be opened at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

Easter Day at St. Paul's Cathedral will be featured by three celebrations of the Holy Communion, at 7, 9 and 11 a.m. The complete cathedral choir will furnish music for the 11 o'clock service and Dr. W. B. Stevens, coadjutor bishop of the local Episcopal diocese, will preach. The evening service, starting at 7:30 o'clock, will include an organ recital by Dudley Warner Fitch, the rendition of Easter carols and a sermon by Rev. William Cowans.

"WORD OF THE TOMB"

Two services will be conducted tomorrow morning at Wilshire Presbyterian Church, one at 10 a.m. and the other at 11:30 a.m. The same sermon and music will be given at both services. Dr. J. A. Eby will preach on "The Word of the Tomb." Nearly 200 new members will be publicly received into the church and baptism will be administered to a large class of children. Tomorrow evening will be known as "Silent Night." There will be no sermon but the motion picture "Jesus, the Christ" will be exhibited.

MIDNIGHT MISSION

A sunrise service will be conducted at 6 a.m. tomorrow at the Midnight Mission, 126 South Los Angeles street, according to announcement made yesterday by "Brother" Tom Liddecoat, superintendent of the institution. Following the music and addresses a special free breakfast will be served. Anyone in Los Angeles who is in need of a good breakfast is invited.

D. J. M. MacINNIS

"Go Quickly and Tell—He is Risen from the Dead" is the subject of a sermon to be preached at the Church of the Open Door tomorrow morning by Dr. John M. MacInnis, acting pastor of the church. In the evening the Bible Institute Women's Glee Club will give a program under the direction of H. G. Tovey and Dr. MacInnis will preach on "Jesus Manifested Himself." A program by the Sunday-school classes will be given at 9:45 a.m.

"THE LIVING CHRIST"

Dr. M. Howard Fagan, pastor of Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church, will preach at that church tomorrow morning on "Christ is Risen" and in the evening on "The Living Christ of Today." Special musical programs, in charge of noted singers and musicians, have been arranged for the services.

TO ILLUMINE CROSS

According to custom, the members of Figueroa Boulevard Christian Church will observe Easter with a sunrise prayer meeting, to which the public is invited. The new electric cross, recently installed on top of the church, will be illuminated for the first time. Breakfast will be served in the church basement.

"TRIUMPH OF LOVE"

An Easter pageant called "The Triumph of Love" will be presented by members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Pico Heights Congregational Church at that church at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. The production will be directed by J. E. Bennett. In the morning Rev. J. M. Schaefle, the pastor, will preach on "The Easter Victory."

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

Two services have been planned for tomorrow at First Congregational Church, one at 10 and the other at 11:30 o'clock, with the same sermon and music featuring both services. A concert will be given in the evening and among the artists appearing on the program will be John Smallman, Homer Simmons, Lorna Gregg, Blythe Taylor, Francis W. Haynes,

PASADENA TO SEE PAGEANT

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 2. — John Steven McGroarty's pageant of early California, "The First Easter," will be given its fourth and most elaborate annual presentation on Easter morning on the lawn of the Hotel Huntington by a cast of 110 players, with a chorus of fifty voices from the famous Mission Play.

Twenty American Indians, Spanish soldiers, troubadors and neophytes from the Mission Play will participate in the historical pageant. Community singing will begin at 8:15 a.m under the direction of Charles M. Pyke, musical director of the Mission Play, and the performance will start at 9 o'clock.

The many Easter services and programs planned in Pasadena will be climaxed at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by a Knight Templar ceremony in the Rose Bowl, in which 5000 Knights of thirty Southern California commanderies will participate.

Go To Church Sunday

Why You Should Go to Church

Rev. W. W. Bustard, D.D.
Acting Pastor, Temple Baptist Church

By Rev. W. W. Bustard—Temple Baptist Church

Because it is Easter Sunday, and we worship a Risen and Living Christ

This fact comforts our hearts, energizes our efforts, and inspires our hopes.

This is the springtime of the year; the birds sing more sweetly, the flowers bloom more brightly. It is also the springtime season of the soul. Sweet flowers of comfort bloom for those who mourn, and the joy-bells of heaven make music in the hearts of those who worship.

Come and worship the Living Christ. Because He lives, we too shall live, and we shall once again meet those whom we have loved always and only lost a little while.

INS AND OUTS

For one thing, a man can live better outside the city and inside his income at the same time.

MONEY MAKERS

The soviet government in Russia is minting coinage for Persia, but is having a hard time in making money for itself.

TREE BIG BUSINESS

There were more than 25,000,000,000 telephone calls in this country last year and lots of the subscribers got the right number the first time.

BEATS THE RAG

The Prince of Wales has taken to chewing gum—American gum, at that. Any time the Prince cares to visit Catalina we will be glad to stake him to a life supply.

COMING AND GOING

The problem of the movie makers is to turn out a film that will suit the old and the young at the same time. The old folks do the paying, but the youngsters are the hope of the industry.

AFTER THE CUP

Sir Thomas Lipton is reported as being about to make another try for that cup. It is a good thing that this cup is not an essential for the brewing of his tea else England would have been mighty dry ere this.

GROWING SOME

Enthusiastic citizens are claiming a population of 700,000 for Toronto, thus demonstrating that Cadana is in the parade of progress. Everywhere the big cities appear to be getting bigger. Nowadays a town must have 1,000,000 to be much talked about.

JAZZ IN CHURCH

A western church has substituted a jazz orchestra for the usual musical service and is said to be proud of the advertising it has received in consequence thereof. While the saxophones are doing "Red Hot Mama" the collections are said to have gone up 90 per cent.

MORE MONKEY BUSINESS

An explorer in the Malay Peninsula reports the discovery of a monkey so dainty that it goes to a stream and brushes its teeth after eating. Next in order will be the finding of a tribe of baboons that shave and bathe on Saturday nights.

ALL ABOUT THE MONKEYS

An eastern newspaper announces in its columns that it will print no more communications on the subject of evolution. It has been running them for some months without settling the question and has come to the conclusion that the attendant problems are beyond the disposal of a mere newspaper. Hereafter it will give more attention to crime and divorce.

ITALIAN RAILROADS

It is said that a deficit of $60,000,000 in the conduct of the Italian railroads has been turned into a profit of $10,000,000 under the control of Mussolini. Most of the money has been saved through the firing of many thousands of union employees who were loafing on the job. The roads are being operated with about 60 per cent of the workers who were formerly on the pay roll.

A GOOD PICKER

Clarence Dillon, the Wall-street genius who cleaned up something like $15,000,000 in the recent Dodge Motor Corporation deal, was a $200 clerk in a brokerage house ten years ago. Now he says that modern business is much too big for any one man to have an outstanding place. It is all a matter of team work and the individual is merely a cog in the machine. Dillon must have picked out a good team to mix with.

HOME INFLUENCES

An Oklahoma judge sentenced two erring boys to the Sunday-school and the home. They will have to keep indoors every evening and must go to church on Sunday. If they are home nights and in church on the Sabbath they won't have much of a field for communal wickedness. It was not stated that the judge bound over the parents to make sure the sentence was carried out, a really very important oversight.

THE STREET MARKERS

An Englishman is introducing a substitute for the lines of white paint that set off boulevards and traffic zones in the cities. The paint wears off in a few months and the upkeep is quite costly. The Englishman uses porcelain studs that can be set in lines or in the form of letters. If these are set flush with the pavement they will last for years and a simple washing or brushing makes them as bright and fresh as ever. The claim is made that in the long run the method is vastly cheaper than the use of paints.

EXPATRIATED DOLLARS

Where are the American dollars working that we send away from home? America is a creditor nation. Our government and private loans and investments abroad amount to something like $25,000,000,000. The government loans, which total with accrued interest about $12,000,000,000 and are distributed among twenty nations, bear a very low rate of interest, only from a quarter to a half that of private loans; but the private investments are, in the main, profitable. While the interest adds materially to the national income, the principle makes possible the development of industry in the States to which it is allocated and plays a very important part in the economic life of many peoples.

Since the war we have heard a great deal about our European loans and investments; but, excepting the government loans, they represent but a very small part of the American capital that is working abroad. Three-fourths of the capital of our nationals invested outside the United States is placed in the two Americas.

Canada forms a part of the British Empire politically, but economically it is much closer related to the United States. Before the World War we had about $400,000,000 invested with our northern neighbor. The present total is estimated at $2,500,000,000, nearly double the amount of British capital invested there and a greater private investment than in any other country.

Mexico, our neighbor to the south, is second in American investment; Chile is third and Brazil fourth. The estimates on which this editorial is based were collected by the American Fund for Public Service and appear in "American Foreign Investment," written by Robert W. Dunn. They represent the most exhaustive investigation of our foreign investments that have been made outside the Department of Commerce.

We hear a great deal about how Britain is being drained to pay interest on the public debt to America; yet it is only a trifle compared to the interest and income payments from Canada; and in place of complaining the Canadians are constantly soliciting and receiving more American capital to develop the industries and the natural resources of that state. An essential element of the development of the countries of the two Americas since the World War is American capital. It is the seed from which these countries reap a bountiful harvest.

Some writers outside this country refer to the American investments as "peaceful penetration;" and they say it gives to us a great advantage in securing foreign markets. And others are fearful that we will use our wealth to exert political domination; but this alarm is without foundation; for the private investors are interested in foreign politics only to the extent that it furnishes security for life and property. They would naturally be opposed to a revolution that would destroy property or to a Red regime based on confiscation; for the only interest they have is that the country in which they make investments shall be prosperous.

American dollars are the pioneers in the development of the natural resources of the South American states. Our investments in Chile have grown from $15,000,000, 1913, to $400,000,000 last year. During the same period Venezuelan investment has risen from $3,000,000 to $75,000,000, and Colombian investment from $2,000,000 to $80,000,000.

And these investments are profitable both to those who lend and those who borrow. They serve to turn the wilderness into productive acreage, to convert into liquid wealth the minerals of the subsoil; to give employment to thousands, who in turn support or give at least partial employment to tens of thousands.

Our "expatriated dollars" some economists call them. They serve to teach to the rest of the world the lesson of American thrift and industry. They are a spur to sustained effort, and they are the sap that nourishes the tree of industry.

Old Polonius would find himself very much out of place in the America of the present generation. His advice, "Neither a borrower nor a lender be" would fall on heedless ears. For, while we have made these investments abroad, all of us have borrowed from some of us through Federal, State, county and municipal bond issues about $30,000,000,000. Our income from abroad pays only about half the interest on the money the Federal, State, county and municipal governments have borrowed from us. It is true that, with the exception of the war debts, most of this money has been invested in public and necessary enterprises. But it must be apparent that we are reaching a point where public borrowing can serve as a handicap instead of a stimulus to industry.

AN ARGUMENT

"The trouble is, there has been too much argument in the world over everything," says John McGroarty. About the only thing an argument has ever settled is the casket into the tomb. An argument in the home is about as pleasant as an old nail in a shoe.

If it were possible to rid the world of argument it might be possible to rid the world of war—and divorce. War and divorce are results, not causes. An argument is the incubator of every war—and the root of all alimony.

A discussion is an argument with the sting pulled out. However, it should be used sparingly. The tongue is a machine gun. It may have plenty of facts at its command; but the world is not half so much interested in facts as in forbearance. Folks do not enjoy facts; they prefer friendship.

The half a mind which we are eternally giving others has about the same soothing effect as a red shirt to a bull. When a man is wrong it hurts his pride to have it proved. No child or man should be reproved or proved in public. We do not want proof; we prefer victory.

Most arguments have self-starters, four wheels and no brakes. When the fiends of perdition get one started they all go off to the beach for a vacation.

An argument usually begins over something inconsequential and waxes hotter and hotter until everything is seething in a conflagration. When all the truth has been used up as fuel, then everything loose, such as old jealousies and family feuds, is flung into the fire.

Hot as it may be, no argument has ever made anybody comfortable. Who would insure a home with a gasoline tank or an argument on the inside? Gunpowder and argument are equally explosive, and happy is the sinner who learns to be polite to each.

Politics and religion furnish the finest fuel. These two important departments of life have to be taboo in company. Our offspring are allowed to grow up heathen and hoodlum because their parents talk too much. The Koran, the Vedas, Greek and Roman mythology with all their sensuality, may be a part of the curriculum; but the best book must be omitted because men will argue.

We argue over the weather, over our cars, over the tariff, over taxes, over prohibition, over evolution, over Bolshevism, over the devil, over vaccination, over the past which we know little about, over the future which we know nothing about, even over Deity whom we ought to worship—and then when we are fagged out and also run out of material we fall to fighting.

BRITISH BOOSTERS

Vitriolic satire of American boosting has given place in England to that sincerest form of flattery, imitation. Staid old London for years has poked fun at us as a nation of boosters. Kipling made scornful reference in his "American Notes" to the San Franciscan who asked him if he had seen "our new cracker factory." Arnold Bennett made subtle, good-natured sallies at the expense of Chicago's insistence upon the importance of its stockyards. H. G. Wells referred to us as "gum-chewing boosters." Los Angeles has come in for its share of abuse in this connection. The delight any of our cities took in the addition of a few extra thousand population has appeared to the British observer as childishly ridiculous and as belonging to a crude sort of civilization.

All this has changed or is changing. London, watching the upbuilding effects of boosting in American cities, has become impressed with its advantages. That Babel of self-assured greatness lately has lost some of its assurance because of the discovery that about $200,000,000 of the $300,000,000 estimated as spent annually by American tourists in Europe is going to Paris and other French cities.

To secure a large slice of the tourist pie the London Chamber of Commerce, the Federation of British Industries and other organizations have combined to sound the slogan, "Come to London!" They are launching a campaign which, for the capital subscribed and the advertising planned, will put even Miami in the shade. They have been studying the methods of the boosters of different American cities and will apply them to old London town. The future visitor to London need not be surprised to see at the Thames landings and terminal railroad stations huge signs of "Welcome to London, the Largest City on Earth!" and on the reverse side of them "Good-by! Come Again Soon!" Reception committees with high hats and flaming badges may extend the glad hand and tell the tourist where to go and spend his money.

Carlyle called London "a great wen on nature's face." Other British writers have referred to its climate as intolerably gloomy because of the fogs. But such local critics probably will be warned that in the future references to wens and fogs will be regarded as high treason and punishable as such.

London boosters have gone so far in their efforts to attract sight-seers as to invoke the lyric muse. They are offering a prize to the song writer who will produce something similar to "The Sidewalks of New York," with its peculiar lure.

All this will impress the average American as being a praiseworthy effort on the part of the Britishers. But some of our enterprising countrymen will accept it as a challenge and perhaps advocate firing a counterblast, or counterboost, having for its eminently desirable object the keeping of that $300,000,000 at home.

FAITH OF FINANCE

Recently Roger Babson sent out questions to fifty representatives of big industries in the United States, according to the American Magazine, as follows:

(1.) Did you have a praying father, a praying mother, or both?
(2.) Do you believe in some power higher than human powers?
(3.) Do you feel we are responsible to this higher power?
(4.) Do you feel we need help from it?
(5.) Do you ever pray?
(6.) Has this feeling of responsibility influenced your life?

Thirty out of the fifty responded "Yes" to the questions. Nine asked to be excused on the ground that these were sacred and personal matters. Seven made no reply. Only one gave a negative answer.

Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller and J. P. Morgan are known to be definitely religious. Clarence H. Mackay, Elbert H. Gary, John Hays Hammond, Robert Dollar, J. Ogden Armour and Nathan Straus replied "Yes" unhesitatingly.

Babson himself is not only a statistician and general adviser of big industries, but he is a religious prophet and usually hangs a sermon to some of the hooks of his figures.

His six questions form a good working hypothesis for bringing the various denominations together for practical effort. Those who could come together upon this platform might be induced to unite in community action.

While Babson sends out these questions to his own class all over the country, they would seem to be the crystallization of his own faith. They are what he considers essential.

It is significant that hard-headed business men, who scan every approach with suspicion and have buffers out in every avenue of entrance, are so definite in matters of religion.

They are not easily fooled by vagaries. Any declarations of these men are far above par. The faith of finance has tendency to commend itself.

THE KANSAS CROWS

A Kansas man recently killed more than 650 crows on one night. Inasmuch as he drew a bounty of a dime a scalp this was something to crow about. He had caws.

THE FROG

By James J. Montague.

The frog fears not the thunderstorm,
For he need but submerge his form,
And round the quiet bayou swim—
Where not a drop can fall on him
And though the thunders roll and roar,
He cannot hear them any more.

And when the inky clouds roll past
And he has need to break his fast,
He whips his tongue about his chin—
And gathers fat mosquitoes in;
The while contentedly he croaks:
"If I eat you, you can't eat folks."

At night he sits about on logs
With crowds and crowds of other frogs,
And till the dawn pales in the skies—
They harmonize and harmonize;
And never from a single throat
There comes a false or jarring note.

It must be nice, all summer long,
To bathe and lift one's voice in song,
It must be nice to think that you
Can live on air and water, too;
And think mosquitoes, gnats and flies
Are just as nice to eat as pies.

But I suppose, if we but knew,
A frog must have his troubles, too!

LETTERS TO The Times

Southern California Home

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As a friend of the Southern California Home and knowing some of the boarders there and also knowing of its aims to make of it a real home for those who are too old to live alone, but have money of their own or children who will furnish the money to make their lives comfortable in their last years—I am sending this to you.

The article in the Sunday Times of March 21 regarding the home is misleading. The article said in one place "Today there are forty-seven boarders, four of them more than 90 years old." Another says "most of the inmates pay nothing whatever for their keep," and again says "a few there are former school-teachers and partly support themselves from their pension." There is just one pension teacher. She gets $55 per month. I am told each woman, excepting the five life members, pay per month $35, or $30 if having a room alone; if two in one room, $25 each. We know that this does not cover the expense of the home, but it helps. There is but one life member who has been there ten years.

The Women's Christian Temperance Unions of all Southern California are helping in many ways to support this home, and the jellies, jams and fruit sent in are more than appreciated.

It is the prayer and hope of all most interested that the new and larger home in Eagle Rock may be ready for occupancy in October, when the national convention meets in Los Angeles.

MRS. KATE COX.

What the "L's" Do

GLENDALE, March 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Mr. C. W. Gray, who writes under date of March 23 regarding the Chicago elevated railways, shows evidence of a decided lack of knowledge of his subject. One is led to believe that it has been so long a time since Mr. Gray visited Chicago that he has forgotten the facts. It is not only true that the elevated line uses Lake street, but it loops the entire central business district, using Wabash avenue and Van Buren and Wells streets for a total distance of nearly three miles. Outside of this particular district alleys are used in most cases, except on Sixty-third street, where the street is used for a distance of one and one-half miles. Cottage Grove avenue is not used as stated by Mr. Gray, but is crossed at right angles.

The use of these several streets as stated has proven decidedly detrimental to business and to values. The property owners would be glad to see the elevated structures removed from in front of their holdings. The noise from the continual stream of trains passing is most distressing.

Letters Held Up

ARTESIA, March 29.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have just moved my law office from Los Angeles to a town about twenty miles from the metropolis. I write many letters to the great city and have been addressing them to "Los Angeles," omitting the word "California." This morning I found several of my letters held up by the local postmaster, who inquires of me where (what State) they go to.

Now, isn't it sad to think that a postmaster twenty miles from the metropolis of the West does not know in what State it is? During the seven years I have lived in Los Angeles I had come to think it quite important.

This being true, you can imagine how amazed and astonished I am to discover that a man selected by the government, for his knowledge, does not know in what State Los Angeles is located. He further informs me that it is a rule of the government that all letters must bear the name of the State as well as the city, because there are many towns of the same name, he even says there are other towns named Los Angeles. Can it be that this is not the one and only Los Angeles? I knew that Florida had appropriated the names of a number of our cities, like Hollywood, Carmel, etc., etc., but to think that anyone had the temerity, the effrontery to name another town Los Angeles is heartrending.

Drink and Machinery

HOLLYWOOD, March 31.—[To the Editor of The Times:] William Sullivan made a speech a few days ago in which he made the wonderful statement that no man could drink liquor, even beer or wine, and be competent to handle, with safety, the high-powered machinery which we employ today, and The Times uses an editorial in applause of Mr. Sullivan's speech.

Well, let's see. We had the same high-power machinery for the last six years of the saloon era and it is a notorious fact that in the six years of the dry era fatal accidents from the use of this same high-powered machinery have not only more than doubled in total but in per cent to the population also.

In fact, the deaths from autos alone in 1925 in this country were more than three times the total number of violent deaths in England from all causes put together. Yet England is very wet.

Now if you argue that a large per cent of those 21,000 killed and 400,000 (according to The Times) injured by autos in 1925 was caused by drink, then you must admit that the Volstead law has been a total and complete failure.

If, on the other hand, you argue liquor was only a very small cause of these accidents, then, again, one of your favorite arguments for the Volstead law is exploded, because if you cannot blame liquor for that awful death record you have to admit that something else is to blame.

"VENALITY OF THE PRESS"

BY LEE SHIPPEY

The other day I heard an old and wise intelligent man talking about "the venality of the press." "The papers are all out for the dollar first, last and all the time," he declared, "and quite generally the news in the way which is best for their pocketbooks."

I could only pity him.

In my somewhat varied career I have worked on a number of newspapers, some large and successful, some small and struggling. But I never worked on one that was venal, nor have I ever known any newspaper staff which was governed by venal considerations. I know that newspaper workers generally have a far higher code than have workers in most lines of business, and their code is for most of them a religion, a passion.

There isn't a day when any newspaper doesn't publish items which rich and powerful interests would rather have unpublished, and would pay good money to have unpublished or glossed over. But the newspaper knows that hundreds of thousands of readers look to it for daily information upon which to base their judgments, and the men eager to get that information never think of the cost. They get all they can, digging hard for the inside facts. In the struggle with which they have to work they are bound to make some mistakes, but they are never venal mistakes.

I once worked on a newspaper which had gone to seed and was tottering. I never worked on one like that, and two striking incidents live in my memory. The paper was a famous old one in the Middle West. Its owners had tried to get into politics personally—hold offices and all that—and it had become more a machine organ than a real newspaper. So it had lost prestige, circulation, and the enormous and steadily mounting costs of production had eaten up its capital. It was in such a bad way that payday sometimes had to be delayed for many members of the editorial staff and the business-office force, and every man on it knew he might have to suspend and leave him jobless at any moment. Nevertheless, it supported the failing political clique to which it had sold allegiance with passionate loyalty—not from venal but from wholly cradely motives—and in all editorial matters its staff were as decent a lot of code-following newspaper men as I ever knew, ready to give even their lives to score a beat on the opposition. I recall that the gray-haired reporter who showed up every day but was only put to work two or three days a week when most needed, and was the shabby he looked like a tramp was told to find out what he could about a crime mystery. He refused into fellowship with a gang of thugs and they used him, finding him their tool—till the day he came out and most of them were captured. He stood a fine chance of being murdered and the report of being bombed—but the story was spread all over the front that he "went out" it got a society man. The daughter of a financial magnate was about to be married to the son of another powerful man. She changed her mind and eloped with another chap, but in the early morning hours the elopers were captured and pledged to secrecy forever. Only half a dozen persons, men, the two families, a few close friends and one seedy reporter knew the story. The two rich fathers, counting on the venality of the press, tried to buy the reporter. Nothing doing. Then they broke all traffic rules to get to the city editor. "Name your price and cut it out," they said. They could have made more money in two minutes then he earned in a year to make in the next two years—but he didn't. Then one father went after the managing editor and the other after the business manager. But the story came out. It didn't prevent the big world-wide next day—it was handled as a romance, not as scandal—but the whole State crackled with it, and while it still was crackling many men who couldn't be bribed were walking the streets, looking for jobs.

RIPPLING RHYMES

MISSING THINGS

In our office we are drooping weary of the beastly grind, for the boss is always whooping of things he cannot find. Divers dads he's mislaying, every one of every day, then we hear him wildly braying, "Who has seen my corkscrew, pray? Some one carried off my ruler, some one carried off my shears; some one should be in the cooler for at a thousand years. Who has cut the costly brushes that I use to clean my type? Who has shot his yellow tushes in the middle piece of my pipe? Everything I need is missing, pens and paper, glue and ink, and a greater mess than Glasing couldn't write thoughts I think." He's a cyclone of disorder and his table is a fright and inside its mussy border the missing things are lost. We will find them soon or later and paws the rubbish o'er, and his wrath will still be greater when he loses them some more. He's losing doodads daily and he always blames the boys, sending up a willow-waly, making a terrible noise. Tired of being chased with stealing, clerks are quizzed now and then, and the old boss claws the ceiling, roasting the ungrateful men. In the office force is dragging, no one humps with loyal zest, for the boss's ever nagging takes the ardor from the best. Oh, the boss's words are hectic, and they scarify and cow, but the boss is apoplectic some day he will explode. Some day he will fly to pieces and the clerks will draw their grosses. Saying, "This at last releases us from jobs that got our goats."

RAIN FOR BAY CITIES FORECAST MONDAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Rain, the first of any consequence since February 20, is expected on the Pacific Coast Monday or Tuesday. Forecaster Bowie of the Weather Bureau today issued a special bulletin. It says:

"A disturbance of increasing intensity is shown by vessels in the Pacific to be central in latitude 30 degrees and west longitude 145 degrees and moving eastward. It will be productive of unsettled weather followed by general rains in California the first part of next week. It is probable that the rains will be in amounts sufficient to materially benefit grain and other growing crops.

"Late this afternoon substantial showers were reported falling in Yosemite Valley."

Bowie has been keeping a graph of weather conditions in the Pacific Ocean this winter and it shows the same condition today as existed late in January just before the long rainy period which extended past the middle of February.

MOTORIST DROWNS

Kentuckian First To Meet Death At Gillespie Dam Crossing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Ariz. April 2.—The first fatality at the Gillespie dam crossing of the Gila River occurred last night in the drowning of F. B. Wilson, who drove his light car over the lip of the dam apron into a river channel twenty feet deep. With him were his wife and a young man who had been picked up on the road.

The passenger, an expert swimmer, seized Mrs. Wilson and dragged her out on the shore, where both were revived by the highway crew. Mrs. Wilson is in the railroad hospital at Gila Bend, where she is expected to recover. The Wilsons, who had been in Southern California, were on the way to their home in Louisville, Ky.

Travel to California is being diverted by the Automobile Club via Blythe, as the Yuma route may be blocked for several days by high water at the dam, which is about fifty miles southwest of Phoenix. Rainfall, usually light, is continuing all over Arizona.

BUILDER IS HELD UP BY BANDIT TRIO

Robbers Take $450, Ring and Bill for $263,000 from George Oswald

Three bandits took a bill for $263,000 from George Oswald, contractor, living at 866 East Fifty-eighth street, last night. The bill, which Oswald was to present to a customer, was taken along with $450 and a diamond ring valued at $2500.

Oswald said he was about to enter an apartment-house at 2632½ Manhattan Place when the trio stopped him. One struck him on the head with a revolver, dazing him.

The bandits took the keys to his automobile so he could not pursue them, and then assisted him to a seat in his machine.

AUTO-CRASH DEATH HELD UNAVOIDABLE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, April 2.—A Coroner's jury here this morning returned a verdict of death from unavoidable causes in the case of Mrs. Maria Cruz, 55 years of age, who was killed at Michigan and Fourteenth streets, Santa Monica, when a car in which she was riding with Jesus Diaz of Van Nuys, together with members of her family, collided with an automobile driven by H. E. Voltaire of this city.

the Attorney-General's deputies. The letter was signed by Dr. Clask.

The action in Federal Court was instituted by Julian several days ago when Corporation Commissioner Daugherty attempted to conduct a hearing into the activities of a number of brokers dealing in Western Lead stock. The hearing was stopped by the Federal Court restraining order and cannot be continued unless the order is dissolved.

In an affidavit filed in the action, and signed by Commissioner Daugherty, he states that his department began the investigation some months ago and continued it up to the time of the hearings and until stopped by the court order. During the course of the investigation Western Lead stock tumbled from a high of $3.80 to a figure below $1.50 at which it was first listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

Affidavits filed by C. C. Julian state that Commissioner Daugherty attacked his stock following an agreement with Harry Chandler of the Los Angeles Times to break the market and ruin him. The assertions are denied by Mr. Daugherty, who set up in his statements that the investigation began and was carried out in an effort by him to perform the duties imposed upon him by reason of his office.

DEATH ENDS FAST RIDE FROM BEACH

Motorcycle Side Car Falls Under Train, Killing Girl; Companion Also May Die

A fast ride to the beach and back shortly after 8 o'clock last night brought death to Mildred Hart, 16-year-old high school girl, when the motorcycle side car in which she was being driven by Leland Johnson, 19, went under a freight train on the Pacific Electric high line at the Washington Boulevard crossing in Culver City.

Johnson suffered such serious injury to his right leg that he may die. He was removed to the General Hospital after being given emergency treatment at the Culver City Hospital. The girl's right leg was crushed at the hip under the wheels of the train and she died on the operating table at the Culver City Hospital. Her body was removed to the Seffy undertaking parlors.

Johnson said he had known the girl only casually and that she accepted his invitation to ride in his side car. They went to the beach and were hurrying back to get the girl home early.

R. F. Nichols, brakeman on the freight train, leaped to the ground in an heroic effort to save the girl when he saw the motorcycle speeding down the boulevard. The train was said to be moving very slowly at the time. The girl's mother is Mrs. Mercy E. Crawford of 341 Georgia street.

Blow With Fist Reported Cause for Loss of Eye

Anton Beinoden of 281 Twenty-first avenue will lose the sight of his right eye as the result of a physical encounter with a conductor on a Temple-street car, the police reported last night.

The records at the Receiving Hospital, where Beinoden was taken, showed he had been drinking. L. G. Polinsky, the conductor, reported to the officers that he put Beinoden off the car, whereupon the latter struck at him. Polinsky said he swung back and struck Beinoden's eye. Police Surgeon Sebastian treated the eye.

EX-POLICE OFFICER FINED AS BOOTLEGGER

TEST FLIGHT MONDAY ON MAIL ROUTE

First Trial Trip to be Made Over Airway Mapped for Run to Salt Lake

First trial flight over the Los Angeles to Salt Lake City airway will be made by the Western Air Express, Inc., Monday, it was announced by officials of the aerial transportation company yesterday. Early Monday morning at least one of the fleet of Douglas mail planes will take the air at the new air mail airport on Telegraph Road to pioneer the route laid out by pilots on a mapping tour early this week.

Flying across Southern California and Western Nevada, one stop will be made at Las Vegas. The return trip will be made probably Wednesday.

While the time of flight for this trial trip is expected to be somewhat faster than the schedule fixed when the mail run opens the 17th inst., it was pointed out that this schedule is well within the cruising power of the planes, and makes allowance for heavy loads and adverse wind conditions.

Plans call for putting all the ships to be used on the run over the airway on trial flights before actual start of the mail service. The last of the planes was delivered yesterday.

HOLLYWOOD POPULATION INCREASES

Gas Figures Show 90,000 Added to Film Colony in Past Four Years

Hollywood has a population of more than 145,000, according to figures released yesterday by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and based on the number of gas meters installed in the film-colony area. If the figures are correct, Hollywood has added more than 90,000 people in the past four years, or an average of nearly 23,000 per year.

There are 39,861 meters in Hollywood, G. W. Simmons, company auditor, announced. This number, multiplied by 3.7, which is estimated as the number of persons per meter, gives a population total of 145,536. Meter installations, Simmons added, have steadily increased in the last four years, with no visible decline toward the close of each year, indicating continuance of construction of all characters, with homes and apartment buildings in the lead.

The company's data were furnished at the request of the research department of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, and the boundaries mapped in the effort to reach a population estimate are from the foothills south to Rosewood avenue and from Hollywood Junction to La Cienega Boulevard.

Native Sons on Record in Favor of Plaza Depot

Native Sons of the Golden West, Ramona Parlor, went on record last night as favoring a union passenger depot to be located at the Plaza as prescribed by the State Railroad Commission. A resolution was adopted following an oral vote at the weekly meeting of the organization. Members characterized the action as a patriotic duty and branded as selfish the opposition of the southern section of the city.

CHAMBERS DELAY DRIVE

Canvass Will Start When Greater San Fernando Valley Association Completes Campaign

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, April 2.—The campaign for funds for the 1926 budget of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of San Fernando Valley has been postponed.

Following the announcement today of the postponement, Leo B. Lesperance, president of the Associated Chambers made the following statement:

"To avoid the confusion and difficulties that would arise from the waging of two campaigns in the valley at the same time, and to give the other valley-wide organization even opportunity to make good on its campaign for funds in the valley, the Associated Chambers of Commerce of San Fernando Valley is going to postpone its drive for $6000 for a few weeks.

"Directors of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Valley point to a tremendous record of achievement for their organization during the last several years, and I am convinced that the associated will have no difficulty in raising its 1926 budget.

"In the tentative plan, submitted by the budget and finance committee, the 1926 budget has been trimmed to the barest necessities, but we will be able to accomplish a stupendous amount of civic development work in the valley with even so conservative a sum as this. This year's work will pave the way for a much greater program for 1927.

"Things are only just beginning to move in the valley in comparison to what will transpire here in the two or three years to come. If we build our foundations solidly and conservatively today the work of the future will take care of itself.

"The other valley-wide organization, when it launches its campaign on April 12, will have the field entirely to itself, and when it has completed its effort, the Associated Chambers will proceed to raise the $6000 it needs, and will have no difficulty, because of the long record of achievement to its credit and because of the sound backing it enjoys.

"Chambers of commerce of the valley have indorsed the work of the associated and ever since its inception have pointed to it as one of the greatest factors in building the valley. When we begin the solicitation of funds we have only to point to the work of the past to convince subscribers of what we are going to do in the future."

Bran fruit cookies are made as follows: Two tablespoonfuls of butter or margarine, one cup of brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup milk, one cup bran, 1 1-4 cups sifted flour, 2 tablespoonfuls baking powder, 1-2 teaspoonful of salt, 1 teaspoonful of cinnamon, 1-2 cup raisins, 1-4 cup figs, 1-4 cup dates. Chop all fruit finely. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and the eggs well beaten. Mix the dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Add the fruit after lightly dredging it with flour. Drop from a spoon on a greased cookie pan and bake in a moderate oven.

Diet and Health

COLUMN RULES

My dear Followers:

Please do not depend upon personal answers from me for conditions that have to have the immediate attention of a physician. And do not depend on the column for such advice, for even though your questions can be answered immediately, it would be at least four weeks before the answer can appear.

My Diet and Health column is a syndicated feature, appearing all over the United States and Canada. It is written and sent out from New York. This means that it has to be prepared three or four weeks in advance. The column creates great interest wherever it appears, and the combined mail from the different places is enormous. In order to be able to handle this and to be helpful to you, there are certain rules which we have formulated which you must follow. Unless these rules are complied with, your letters cannot receive any attention.

First: Address your letters to me in care of this paper. They will be forwarded to my New York office. Sign your name as evidence of good faith. It will not be used in any way. (When I answer you in the column, I use one initial.)

Second: Write legibly and with a pen—if your handwriting is not clear, get somebody to write for you; or use a typewriter. Do not write more than 200 words. Remember the number of letters I get!

Third: When you ask for material which we have offered, you must inclose a large-sized, self-addressed, stamped envelope (s.a.s.e.) The address must include your full name, street and number, city or town, and State. The booklet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must include 10 cents in loose stamps. Do not send money—it is too easily lost in the mails. (Only one booklet can be sent with each request.)

Fourth: Do not ask for diagnosis or for individual treatment. Do not ask questions that are not of general interest and answerable in the column. You must see your personal physician for such information. Watch my daily articles for something similar to the questions you want discussed, and consider yourself answered when you see them, whether your initials are appended or not. I must answer questions collectively in order to save time and space.

Fifth: Allow at least three weeks to elapse before thinking your request for material has gone astray or is not answered because you have not followed the rules. Allow a much longer period of time for an answer to appear in the columns, if it can appear.

Don't forget to inclose a fully self-addressed and stamped envelope with your request for any material which we have offered (and the 10 cents in stamps if you ask for the booklet on reducing and gaining.)

Unless rules are obeyed, your letters cannot receive any attention.

I feel like adding a last rule. It is this: Save some of your 200 words to continue telling me how much you enjoy the column and how much benefit you are deriving from it. Such a message is an inspiration to me and to the followers and makes our work happier and therefore more helpful.

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose stamps in stamps only. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

CAFE MAN'S FUNERAL TO BE MONDAY

Service Set for Edward B. Dunnavant, Veteran Beach Hotel Proprietor

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, April 3.—Funeral services for Edward B. Dunnavent, widely known Venice cafe and hotel man, who died here last Wednesday, will be held next Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock in St. Mark's Catholic Church. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, Santa Monica.

Dunnavant came to Venice in 1905 and was the first manager of the famous old Breakers' Cafe on the Fraser Pier at Ocean Park. After fire destroyed the Fraser Pier, he became proprietor of the Ocean Inn on the first pier built at Venice. Fire again destroyed his place of business, and he later became identified with the company that opened Sunset Pier.

Dunnavant was a native of West Virginia and has two brothers living in the East.

REDUCED FARES MADE TO RAISIN FESTIVAL

Special reduced rates over the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific have been announced in connection with the annual Raisin Day festival at Fresno the 15th inst. Raisin Week will be celebrated from the 11th to the 17th inst. Final return limit on reduced-fare tickets will be the 19th. The reduced fares will apply from all points on the Southern Pacific valley line between Los Angeles and San Francisco and from points on the Santa Fe between Barstow and San Francisco, including branch lines.

WIDENING OF STREET APPROVED

Final Ordinances Adopted for Western-Avenue Work; Other Changes Acted On

Final ordinances for the opening of Ninth Place and the widening of Western avenue were adopted yesterday by the Council. Western avenue will be widened to eighty feet between Twenty-fourth street and Santa Barbara avenue; Ninth Place is a new 300-foot street west of Figueroa to eliminate the present jog. The way is now open for the filing of condemnation suits against the property involved.

The assessment district maps for several improvements were confirmed yesterday by the Council, including Figueroa street between Adams street and Jefferson street, Fairfax avenue between Country Club Drive and Pico Boulevard, Third street between Crescent Heights Boulevard and a point east, and Acacia street between Burlington street and Bonnie Brae street.

Proceedings for the improvement of Florence avenue between Vermont and Western avenues were ordered instituted, as well as Nita street between Leghorn avenue and South Sherman Way and San Fernando Road between Huron street and Tyburn avenue. City Engineer Shaw was instructed to prepare the ordinance of intention for the improvement of Avenue Forty-three between Latona street and Griffin avenue.

Reported Loss of Life in Fire Asserted False

Fire which destroyed a cottage at 443 East Thirty-seventh street early yesterday caused no loss of life, Capt. Enos of the Fire Investigation Bureau reported after an examination. First reports were that three persons were believed to have perished. The fire was preceded by a loud explosion, Capt. Enos was told by the discoverer of the blaze, J. R. Golden of 462 East Thirty-seventh street, but the investigators were unable to determine what caused it.

The place was owned, Capt. Enos said, by Mrs. L. Cardia of 1150 East Jefferson street, and tenanted by Vito Viscitello. So far as the investigators could learn Viscitello was away from home and his wife is in a hospital. Damage was about $5000.

Fruit Dealer Files Petition in Bankruptcy

H. V. Rudy, a Fresno fruit man, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy here, listing liabilities of $353,664.40, and assets of $143,680. There are 236 unsecured claims for fruit furnished him by growers in the last four years, totaling $96,057.45, and other unsecured claims amounting to $258,003.10 in all. Secured claims amount to $85,174.11.

Bank creditors are the United Bank and Trust Company, Fresno branch, $24,182.66, and Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, $57,466.45. The largest items in the assets are notes, $35,000, and stock, $24,182.66.

JEWELRY STOLEN DURING ABSENCE

The loss of jewelry valued at $5000, stolen from beneath a pillow on her bed, was reported to the police yesterday by Mrs. E. Gilbert of 1041½ South Catalina street. Mrs. Gilbert stated that the thief entered her apartment through the unlocked front door while she was visiting a neighbor.

ATTORNEY ACCUSED IN BANDIT CASE

Christensen Charged With Inducing Witness to Go in Hiding to Evade Service

The case of Tom Robinson, accused of conspiracy to rob the mails, will go to the jury today. Instructions will be given by United States District Judge James this morning.

Argument was completed yesterday afternoon by Asst. U. S. Atty. Channesian. He accused Defense Attorney Soren K. Christensen of getting the confidence of Herbert Shibey, the defendant's brother-in-law, and having him go to Elsinore where government process servers could not find him. Shibey testified as a defense witness.

The mail robbery involved occurred November 8, 1921. Robinson, it was charged, accepted $1000 to furnish a house where the mail robbers could hide their loot. Herbert Wilson, preacher-bandit now serving a life sentence, was brought here by the government to testify.

Unidentified Man Killed by Freight Train

According to Detective Sergeant Lipscrew of the Glendale police, eyewitnesses reported the man leaped in front of the oncoming train between Colorado and Harvard streets.

The man was described as being about 30 years of age, dark complexion and dressed in old clothes.

Trial of 'Fence' Suspect Held Up for Sentencing

United States District Judge James held up the trial of Tom Robinson, accused of being a "fence" for the Herbert Wilson gang, long enough yesterday morning to sentence John F. Murray to seven months in the Los Angeles County Jail for sale of an ounce of morphine on March 13, last.

Murray entered a plea of guilty and his case was dealt with hurriedly while attorneys for the defense and government eagerly awaited arguments to the jury in the Robinson case.

Murray was arrested when Federal narcotic agents reported they found $75 in marked money that had been deposited in a bank as a transfer point.

BUNKO MAN DENIED WRIT OF RELEASE

San Quentin Prisoner Fails in Court Appeal to Obtain Freedom

Presiding Justice Finlayson, in Division Two, Second District Court of Appeal, yesterday denied a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Fred Mayne, now in San Quentin on a bunko-charge conviction.

Mayne in his petition declared he is entitled to discharge for good behavior, that he has worked out his time according to the indeterminate-sentence law.

The Board of Prison Directors he declared, had passed a resolution stating he is entitled to discharge and he is being held without cause by the warden of San Quentin.

Mayne was convicted in Superior Court here on August 17, 1920, on charges of having obtained $3000 from Walter F. Evans of Winslow, Ariz., in a fake stock deal, and of trying to get $10,000 in another bunko transaction from Simon Weiss, a visitor from the Middle West. He was sentenced from one to fourteen years in San Quentin and began his sentence September 19, 1920.

The Superior Court decision was reversed by the Court of Appeal and then upheld by the State Supreme Court.

Bail Fixed for Inspector of Rat Proofing

Leo Blume, inspector in the rodent extermination division of the United States Public Health Service, yesterday was arraigned before United States Commissioner Head, charged with accepting a bribe, and held on $2000 bail for a hearing. The complaint declared he took $50 from W. O. Munson to influence his decision in approving construction of a rat-proof wall being built by Munson at 2936 Brooklyn avenue.

Blume was arrested several days ago by police, co-operating with Munson and City Health Officer Parrish. Department of Justice agents have been investigating the rat-proofing situation, and other arrests may be made, it was said.

Hearing Set for Couple Held on Girl Accusation

Charged with contributing to the delinquency of Ruth Russell, 16-year-old Long Beach High School girl, Garland Bessey and his wife, Irma, were arraigned yesterday in Judge Archbald's Juvenile Court. Their preliminary hearing was set for the 6th inst.

The Besseys are asserted to have permitted Miss Russell to occupy the same room at 651 Stanford avenue with James Harrison, who, with L. A. Burns, is charged with a statutory offense against the girl. The quartet were arrested following a wide search for the girl, who recently was reported kidnaped from Long Beach.

CHARGE OF FRAUD IN STORE FIRE PROVED

R. W. Schrader was found guilty in Judge Craig's court yesterday of a charge of burning insured property with intent to defraud an insurance company, preferred in connection with the burning of a store building at 9814 South Main street on January 15, last. A charge of arson was dismissed on a technicality. Schrader, who was said to have been in possession of fixtures and furniture in the building at the time of the fire, will come before the court Monday for sentence.

GRAPEFRUIT ROYAL

Peel and cut in dice four grapefruits, place in a cold bowl and mix with one cupful of strawberries crushed with half a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of maraschino cherries cut in quarters; set in the ice box over night or two or three hours before serving. Serve in stem glasses and garnish with a whole maraschino cherry.

EGGS BENEDICT

Buy six English muffins from the baker, split and toast a nice brown, spread with butter, cover with a thin slice of broiled ham, place a poached egg on each half of muffin and pour over all a tomato Hollandaise sauce.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

Beat in the top of a small double boiler half a cupful of butter to a light cream and beat in, one at a time, the yolks of three eggs; beat hard and beat in one tablespoonful of lemon juice, a few grains of salt and cayenne pepper and beat hard again. Five minutes before serving set the pan over hot water and beat in slowly half a cupful of hot water, adding it slowly, and continue to beat until thick and smooth; beat in two tablespoonfuls of tomato puree or one tablespoonful of tomato paste and serve.

ROAST LAMB

Rub a shoulder or boned leg of lamb with a clove of crushed garlic, dust with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Cover the bottom of a roasting pan with one sliced carrot, one sliced onion, two stalks of celery, one bay leaf and two branches of parsley; place the lamb in the pan and set in a hot oven for fifteen minutes, baste with two tablespoonfuls of butter melted in half a cupful of boiling water and reduce the heat; baste every fifteen minutes with the liquor in the pan. Place the lamb on a hot platter, strain off the liquor, return to the pan, add two tablespoonfuls of browned flour and stir and cook ten minutes; pour the gravy over the lamb and serve.

MINT SAUCE

Stir one tablespoonful of sugar into one cupful of mild vinegar and stir until dissolved; add five tablespoonfuls of chopped mint leaves and set in a warm place for one hour before serving.

IRISH RAREBIT

Place in a double boiler two tablespoonfuls of butter, four tablespoonfuls of milk and half a pound of chopped American cheese; heat over a slow fire until the mixture is creamy. Mix one teaspoonful of vinegar with one teaspoonful of mixed mustard and stir into the creamy mixture; mix well, add one tablespoonful of coarsely chopped sour pickle and pour over squares of hot buttered toast.

Cudahy's Puritan Ham

Finer Flavor because ripened naturally

Distinguished for Its Finer Flavor

This method slowly and naturally diffuses the rich, natural meat juices without forcing or hurrying.

Include Puritan Ham in your Easter menu. It is delicious, appetizing, inviting. Special wrapper for Easter. On sale at your dealers.

Prof. Barclay L. Severns, whose daily setting-up exercises have long been a feature of the station, is to appear on the lecture platform three times next week. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock, he is to give free talks on "How to Acquire Health and Happiness," in Symphony Hall, 232 South Hill street. The professor has recently published a book, explaining his courses in scientific body and health building for the convenience of his thousands of listeners.

KHJ announced a change in the studio's hours for testing new voices and instrumentalists for broadcast. Hitherto aspiring artists have been given tryouts in the morning, but this will hereafter be done from 2 until 4 p.m., using the time formerly occupied by the matinee programs.

A radio debate between the University of Southern California and the University of Oregon will be broadcast tonight over KGW in Portland, according to Sam Gates, manager of the U.S.C. debate team. This innovation is a feature of the 1926 spring forensic tour of the U.S.C. orators. Leland C. Tallman and William Berger of Southern California represent the local university in nine intercollegiate debates.

Radio KMTR announces two Easter Sunday features as a contribution to its listeners-in. The first will be the broadcast of the community sunrise services from the memorial auditorium of the Hollywood High School at 5:45 a.m. with a community choir and soloists furnishing the music and Rev. S. P. Mathiason delivering the address. From 8 to 10 p.m. one of the most ambitious programs yet attempted by KMTR will be put on the air. The central feature of the evening program will be the rendition of an Easter mass, an elaborate musical composition, by a Southern California musician, Juan Aguilar.

YOUTH CONFESSES TO CHARGE OF ROBBERY

George Alicoff, 17 years of age, yesterday admitted that he and Rosern Hard, 21, also under arrest on a charge of suspicion of robbery, had held up and robbed Tom Lalton, 10953 Maple avenue, Lennox, of $52 on March 26, Capt. Peoples, head of the Sheriff's robbery squad, said yesterday. Lalton, he said, had caused the arrest of the two boys by saying he had told Hard's mother in the presence of the youths that he had been saving up the money to pay a traffic fine and that no one else knew he had it.

TWO PLANKS OUTLINED BY McCLELLAN

Candidate for Governor Opens Headquarters With Political Rally

Reapportionment and completion of the State highway system will be two of the main planks in the platform on which R. F. McClellan, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, hopes to win the Republican nomination for Governor of California.

This became apparent yesterday at the political rally that developed when the Supervisor formally opened his McClellan-for-Governor campaign headquarters at 725 South Spring street.

Although McClellan declared he is "for a square deal for the whole State," others who addressed those in the campaign headquarters were of the opinion that "only when a Southern California man is elected Governor" will this section of the State receive its just quota of highway money and adequate representation in the State Assembly.

In addition to the two main planks of his platform, Supervisor McClellan announced himself as in favor of more public playgrounds and parks, both in cities and in the country.

The Los Angeles candidate was described at the meeting as a candidate affiliated with no "political clique or combination," and it was declared that if he could win the majority of votes in Southern California, he could win the election.

Pleas for hard work on the part of McClellan supporters were made, arrangements made for the organization of publicity and finance committees, and it was decided to hold another meeting next Tuesday afternoon at the campaign headquarters.

Among those who indorsed McClellan's candidacy at the meeting yesterday in short talks were: Harry Lee Martin, president of District Bond Company; James A. Murdock, real estate broker; John L. Steel, mining man, and Thomas Price of Sawtelle. Former county Supervisor Jonathan Dodge acted as chairman.

Easter Party at Store Expected to Draw Many

Hundreds of patrons and friends are expected to attend the second annual Easter party and public reception of the Los Angeles Furniture Company this afternoon at the concern's store, 720-722 South Hill street. Store officials have made elaborate arrangements for the affair, which promises to eclipse the initial reception last year.

Souvenirs will be given the visitors, with attractive Easter baskets and Easter eggs for the children and bouquets for the women. A floral display will be a feature of the affair. The success of last year's reception, attended by more than 2000 persons, has resulted in store officials making the affair an annual one. The reception will be from 2 to 4 p.m.

The firm was established here more than half a century ago, opening for business in 1870. Officers of the concern are Mrs. Katherine Fredericks, president; Charles E. Fredericks, secretary, and Thomas B. Bergin, sales manager.

Trains Renamed to Call Attention to Attractions

As part of a campaign to call still greater attention to attractions of the West to travelers, the Golden State Express of the Southern Pacific, running between Los Angeles and Chicago, will be renamed the Apache, beginning Sunday.

The name Apache for the transcontinental train was decided upon by Southern Pacific officials in order to emphasize still more to travelers from the East the famous Apache Trail of Arizona, which is one of the scenic features of the trip to Los Angeles through our neighboring State.

Announcement also is made that hereafter the Southern Pacific's San Joaquin Valley line between Los Angeles and San Francisco will also be advertised as the Yosemite Route.

Third Contest Filed to Break Will of Mother

A third contest of the will of Mrs. May H. McDonald has been filed by her son, Earl A. McDonald, who complains that he was left a much smaller share of her estate than his brother, Frank A. McDonald, who died a few months ago, and his sister, Hazel May Day.

Undue influence was brought to bear upon Mrs. McDonald, the contestant asserts. She died November 24, 1924, leaving property estimated to be worth $350,000. Two previous contests were dismissed before they came to trial.

Discussion of Contract Holds F.B.O. Delegates

Discussion of a standard exhibition contract and of the advertising policy of Film Booking Offices for the coming year occupied most of Friday at the F.B.O. convention at the Ambassador.

Speakers of the day were Joe Schnitzer and Colvin Brown, vice-presidents; Hy Daab and Ed McNamee.

The convention also voted thanks to Fred Thomson, western star, for the Spanish reception arranged for the arriving delegates.

Today will be the last day of the convention, which will conclude with a banquet to be given at the studio tonight.

OPPOSE COMFORT STATIONS

Traffic Body and Business Association Protest to Council Against Private Franchise

Protests against granting ten-year franchises to private individuals to construct and maintain thirty public comfort stations under the downtown streets were filed with the Council yesterday by the Traffic Commission and the Downtown Business Men's Association.

Bids have been advertised and will be opened on Monday by the Council. It is expected that only one concern will submit bids. This outfit has been represented by J. D. Austin.

The franchises were condemned in resolutions passed by both organizations. It was pointed out by the Downtown Business Men's Association that pedestrian traffic will be hindered by the opening upon the sidewalks, and the resolutions stated further that the whole project appeared unsound financially.

The Traffic Commission resolution stated that the time is approaching when the sidewalk facilities of Los Angeles must be increased, and suggested that when requests for such openings upon the sidewalks be made the applicants be informed to maintain their obstruction within the property line.

BANDIT PAIR SENTENCED TO PRESTON

Judge Warns of Pampering Children in Quesenbery and Curtis Robbery Case

In sentencing Jack Curtis and Robert Quesenbery, each 18 years of age, to the Preston School of Industry till they are 21, Judge Keetch delivered yesterday a lecture on pampered children. Quesenbery, son of a minister, had been given, at the age of 18, an allowance of $125 a month spending money, a probation officer's report said.

"The career of robbery on which you embarked was the natural consequence of this indulgence," the judge said. "You boys only lacked horses to emulate Jesse James."

He said he had debated long whether to send them to Ione or San Quentin, and gave direction that if they fail to behave at Ione they are to be taken to San Quentin at once. The youths were accused, with Willie Montfort, 18, of holding up thirty-two persons. Judge Keetch said he had moderated the sentence because of the prisoners' youth and previous good record. Curtis was a bellboy in a local hotel.

MILLIONAIRE LOSES PLEA IN DIVORCE

Change of Venue Denied James Irvine, Jr., in Suit of Wife for $5000 Alimony

The suit of Mrs. Madeleine Irvine for an allowance of $5000 per month and a share of the $8,000,000 community estate, now controlled by James Irvine, Jr., her husband, will be heard in the Los Angeles County Superior Court. Judge Holizer yesterday denied the application of Irvine for a change of venue. He also over ruled a demurrer entered by Irvine, making it necessary for him to answer Mrs. Irvine's present complaint if he wishes to contest the matter further.

Irvine, who told his wife he could be happy only if he could associate with other women, according to her complaint, wanted the case tried in Orange county. Besides the $5000 per month alimony order, Mrs. Irvine also asks for provision for an attorney fee of $50,000.

Pastor Assails Modernism in Easter Address

Criticising "that brand of modernism based only on the ethics of Jesus, eliminating the death atonement," Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, in his address at the Morosco Theater yesterday declared that "Easter will mean little to those who have not gone to the cross of Christ and suffered with Him there."

Designating Good Friday as the most glorious day in the Christian calendar, Dr. Walker contrasted the world's conception of glory with that of Jesus, who, on the darkest day in history, was glorified by that sacrifice which for nineteen centuries has been the criterion for all true greatness and nobility.

"The greatest glory of our Lord was not His wonderful birth nor His miracles, not the Mount of Transfiguration and not even the resurrection, but the death of shame, willingly endured for the redemption of the world," said the speaker.

Dr. Walker will be the preacher at the sunrise service tomorrow at Fifty-fourth street and Kensington avenue.

TRAVELERS' AID WILL ELECT ON WEDNESDAY

The annual election and luncheon of the Travelers' Aid Society will be held Wednesday at the City Club, 833 South Spring street, instead of Sunday, as was previously stated. A program of unusual interest will be offered, with Miss Harriet E. Anderson of New York as the chief speaker. Reservations for the luncheon should be made at once through the Travelers' Aid Society, 220 Coulter Building.

APARTMENT HOSTESS NAMED

Mrs. Blanche Bryson has been appointed hostess-manager of the Los Altos individually owned apartments, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Bryson has been connected with the Rampart, Bryson, Rex Arms and Ardmore apartments.

AUTO DRIVER TAKEN WHEN VICTIM DIES

Man Held on Suspicion of Manslaughter in Accident; Two Others Injured

Following the death yesterday of William Ropera, 50 years of age, a city street sweeper, from injuries suffered in an automobile accident, Detective Lieutenants Kirk and Thompson arrested Randall Mehl, 25, of 853 East Fifty-third street, on suspicion of manslaughter. Mehl's car struck Ropera, Tuesday at Fifty-ninth street and South Park avenue, police said. The inquest will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. Monday at the Hall of Justice.

Nathan Friedman, 30, address not yet known, suffered a skull fracture when he was knocked down by a truck at Fifth street and Central avenue. The truck went on without stopping, but witnesses told police they did not believe the driver knew he had hit anyone. After treatment at Receiving Hospital, Friedman was sent to Roosevelt Hospital.

J. F. Murphy, 52, of 862 1-2 Wall street, was struck at Eighth street and Maple avenue by a car said to have been driven by J. W. Cheanock, 418 Townsend street, Belvedere. He suffered a skull fracture and was taken to Receiving Hospital. Witnesses said Murphy walked in front of the car, and Cheanock was not held.

PHYSICIAN WINS SUIT BY ACTRESS

Dr. W. E Balsinger Held Blameless in Operation to Remove Scar

Dr. W. E. Balsinger, Los Angeles plastic surgeon who has performed bits of "beauty surgery" on numerous members of the Hollywood film colony, successfully defended himself yesterday against charges brought against him in a $50,000 damage suit by Marjorie Fleming, actress. Judge Guerin, after hearing testimony three days, found for the surgeon and ruled that any physical or mental distress Miss Fleming may have suffered could not legally be blamed upon Dr. Balsinger.

Miss Fleming went to Dr. Balsinger to have him correct a scar on her nose suffered as the result of an automobile accident. After four operations the scar, she declared, became worse. Judge Guerin decided, however, that Dr. Balsinger had exercised all possible care and skill in treating the actress; that he had not guaranteed results, and therefore could not be held responsible.

Councilman Asks Bridge Project Given Attention

The Fletcher Drive bridge across the Los Angeles River, construction of which will commence within a few months, came up for casual attention before the Council yesterday. The project of the bridge has been given close attention by Councilman Ash, who recently took some city bonds to New York and stopped off at Washington to observe the halls of Congress.

"I hope no one tries to steal the bridge while Mr. Ash is away," said President Workman.

"I wonder if he's picking out his seat," murmured Councilman Randall, who may find himself opposed by Mr. Ash in the contention for the Republican nomination as representative for the Ninth District.

Discuss Plans for Education Board Survey

A special committee of the grand jury, consisting of Chairman William Cheney, B. O. Miller and Ralph Bennett, yesterday met for several hours with Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Richardson to discuss plans for a survey of the methods of the Board of Education in conducting business and expending the large sums handled by the board.

The committee will report back to the grand jury Tuesday, it was said. The investigation of the Board of Education is devoid of any intimation of questionable actions, it was reported.

FUNERAL CONDUCTED FOR FORMER OTTAWAN

Funeral services for Percy Wright, 59 years of age, resident of Los Angeles for the past three years, a native of Ottawa, Can., son of the late McKay Wright, former member of Parliament from Pontiac, and well-known barrister of Hull, Wright county, who died in this city Tuesday, were conducted Thursday. Burial was made at Calvary Cemetery. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Harriet Heney Wright, of the Plaza Apartment, also formerly of Ottawa; a brother, Norman Wright, of Seattle, and three sisters. Miss Annie Wright and Mrs. D. Holbrook of Ottawa and Mrs. Thompson of New York. Mr. Wright was connected for many years with the railways and harbors department of the Canadian government.

FUNERAL OF PIONEER TO BE MONDAY

Winfield S. Gibbs Service Will be Conducted from Paul's Chapel

Funeral services will be conducted at Paul's Chapel, 2629 North Broadway, Monday at 2:30 p.m. for Winfield S. Gibbs, a resident of Los Angeles nearly fifty years. Mr. Gibbs died Thursday at the General Hospital, from injuries received when he was struck by a Pacific Electric train near Echandia Junction, March 23, last.

He spent the greater part of his life in the employ of the Southern Pacific, being first employed in the shops at Wadsworth, Nev., and coming to Los Angeles when the shops were established here. He was a native of Maine and came West by steamer and the Panama Railway.

LOOKS AS IF WIGS WILL RENEW REIGN

Milady Must Disguise Shorn Locks in Society Circles Now

Behold the New Coiffures

Virginia Jollett, Rita Carewe and Joyce Compton exhibit the latest in fashionable top pieces.

THUS, we are told, the war is on against the appearance of milady in high society with bobbed hair—mannish or otherwise. With hair tonic at such a premium, purveyors of hair goods and wigs believe another law will be passed—to be observed at least in exclusive circles, banning the fair individual with shorn locks.

Time was when the maids of France sacrificed their "crowns of glory" through patriotic love, but that war is over, it is pointed out.

Now, it is predicted, the day soon will arrive when permits similar in nature to that required in moving a house will be required when the newly coiffured lady steps forth to knock 'em cold.

And if she be of fickle mind, she may even combine henna, jet black and silver white in the same headdress. To carry some of these elaborate affairs, such as would put the Leaning Tower of Pisa to shame, she must be steady of head and sure-footed. Miniature derricks, equipped with block and tackle, yet may be devised to lift them off when the evening is done.

Examples of the art were displayed at a recent fashion show of the Paris Hair Company, conducted in the Gamut Club Auditorium. Not only were the modes of tomorrow forecast, but those of other days depicted. At that, there didn't seem to be much difference.

Wearing the various creations of spun glass and genuine hair were Joyce Compton, Rita Carewe, Evelyn Francisco, Myrna Loy, Virginia Jollett, Dorothy Westmore and Martha Barclay, all film actresses.

The many involved coiffures were set in place by members of the Westmore family—George Westmore, the father, and his sons, Ernest, Percy, Walter and Montague, all connected with the leading studios.

Five New Cases of Smallpox in City Reported

Five new cases of smallpox were reported in Los Angeles between midnight Thursday and 5 p.m. yesterday, according to City Health Officer Parrish. Corrected daily reports at the health department this week were: Sunday, twelve; Monday, twenty; Tuesday, thirteen; Wednesday, thirteen, and Thursday, sixteen.

The total for the month to date is twenty-one cases, making the total since January 1, last, 801 cases. Last week's total was fifty-four cases. Totals for preceding weeks were thirty-eight and fifty-five cases. A total of 263 cases were reported last month, which compares to 329 cases for February.

FIRST ADVERTISER VISITOR DUE TODAY

The first arrival for the Direct Mail Advertising Association convention to be held next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the Ambassador, is expected to reach Los Angeles today. H. Lewis Haynes, head of the reception committee, said he will be Edward A. Collins of New York City, who is en route westward with his wife. While in Los Angeles on Tuesday morning, Mr. Collins, who is president of the Insurance Advertisers' Conference of the East, it is understood, will launch preliminary steps for organizing a similar association of insurance men on the Pacific Coast. The meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove.

ASKS DITCH BE FILLED

A bond issue proposition on the August ballot to provide funds for covering the open ditch of the Main-street storm drain in the Green Meadows Addition was asked of the City Council yesterday by the South Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. The communication was referred to the City Engineer and Public Works Committee.

SPECIAL EASTER SCHEDULE

Effective 2 a.m. tomorrow morning, the Verdugo Hills Transportation Company will operate a special schedule, leaving the Union Stage Depot, Los Angeles, at 4 a.m. for Easter services at Forest Lawn Cemetery, Glendale, Oakmont, Collins Hill, Montrose and Mt. McGroarty, Tujunga, it was announced yesterday.

STAND BUILDERS ASSAILED

Engineers Declare Wet Soil Gave Way Beneath Stress of Laden Pasadena Structure

Introducing a new contributing element into the crash of a stand at Pasadena New Year's Day as a result of which ten persons died and hundreds were injured, engineers yesterday testified in the trial of Paul Mahoney, builder, and C. B. Bucknall, building inspector, that wet soil gave way beneath the stress of the heavily loaded structure.

A Pasadena lawn, water logged by many months of irrigation was not sufficient foundation for the stakes which supported the front of the stand, both Engineers E. L. Mayberry and L. A. Parker testified. The slippery loam, with its covering of grass, permitted the stakes to give, they asserted, with the result that the stakes failed to bear the weight imposed on them, thus permitting the bleachers to come crashing down.

Engineer Mayberry resumed his testimony when Judge Burnell opened the session yesterday morning. He stated that had the stand been properly braced there would have been no slipping forward. The soil, however, was so damp that it could not withstand the pressure exerted on the supporting stakes.

"The first cause of the tragedy," Mayberry testified," was the inability of the soil to take the horizontal thrust. If the stand had been properly constructed it would not have given way."

Engineer Parker stated that the stand was not built in a workmanlike manner, nor was it of sufficient strength to sustain a load of 1000 persons, the asserted capacity.

"It could be no means have carried 125 pounds per square foot with a safety factor of four, as provided by ordinance," Parker declared.

There was a stress of 900 pounds on each of the twenty stakes which supported the front of the stand, according to Parker's testimony. His calculations, he testified, lead him to believe that these stakes could not be reasonably expected to bear more than a 200-pound stress.

He also took exception to the nails used in the construction of the fatal bleachers. They were box nails, smaller than what are known as common nails, he said, and should not have been utilized on the stand.

The great weakness of the stand, Parker held, was in the fact that it was not built as a unit, but depended on stakes along the front of the structure to sustain the forward thrust.

OTHER STANDS ATTACKED

Three other stands built by Mahoney were of substantially the same design, Parker said. He expressed the belief that they were prevented from crashing by a cement sidewalk, which acted as a support to keep the stakes from slipping. He said, also, that the soil was probably of a firmer character than at the scene of the collapse.

After checking the stand, which fell, against the Pasadena city ordinance, Parker testified he found it did not meet the requirements of the building code. This last statement was elicited by Attorney Ong, representing Mahoney, the builder of the structure. It was vigorously objected to by Attorney Padgham on behalf of Inspector Bucknall.

The hearing will be resumed at 2 p.m. Monday. Dep. Dist.-Attys. Murray and Dennison said they do not expect to finish their case before Thursday.

Attorneys Ong and Padgham are said to be planning to place Mahoney and Bucknall on the stand among the first witnesses for the defense. Mahoney is expected to testify that he constructed the grand stand to the best of his ability. Bucknall, it is said, will assert that he was not head of the Pasadena Building Inspection Department, and as a deputy is not responsible.

FUNERAL OF REVOLUTION SON MONDAY

Cornelius Lee Peebles Boasted Descent from Notable Colonial Patriot

Funeral services for Cornelius Lee Peebles, 73 years of age, a direct descendant of one of America's first families and one of the distinguished members of the California State Society, Sons of the Revolution, whose death occurred Thursday at his home, 1417 Sunset Boulevard, will be conducted Monday at 2 p.m., from the McIntosh & Mater parlors, 2730 North Broadway, under the auspices of the California Society, Sons of the Revolution.

Mr. Peebles, a direct descendant of William Hurry, who tolled out the message of freedom in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, in 1776, was born February 9, 1853, at Ann Arbor, Mich. Mr. Peebles's great-grandmother, Sara Ann Stetler, named after her grandmother, Sara Ann Hurry, whose brother was a religious writer and speaker of note in the middle of the last century, married a Mr. Norris. A daughter of this match, Margaret Norris, married J. M. Peebles, father of Cornelius Lee.

Mr. Peebles, formerly a druggist, came to Los Angeles several years ago from Ogden and since that time had lived in retirement. His death ended a lingering illness.

Besides his widow, he leaves three daughters Mrs. Robert Daniels, Mrs. Reginald Clapp and Mrs. Edward Colburn.

MUCH INTEREST IN GAMBOL

Seldom in the history of local theatricals has a benefit revue created such interest as this year's motion-picture gambol under the auspices of the Catholic Motion-Picture Guild, to be held at the Philharmonic Auditorium on the 7th inst.

The fund goes to care for sick members of both stage and screen.

George Shima's Funeral to be Conducted Here

Funeral services for George Shima, known as the California potato king, who died suddenly last Saturday while on a business visit in the city from his home in Berkeley, will be conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Hollywood Presbyterian Church, 1716 North Gower street.

The funeral services have been postponed and plans changed owing to the illness of his widow. While not critically ill, it is not known whether she will be able to attend the services today. It was originally planned to take the body back to Berkeley.

The funeral arrangements today will be in charge of Fresee Brothers. The body will be cremated at Rosedale. Besides his widow, Mr. Shima leaves a daughter, Florence Taye, and two sons, Togo and Rengie.

CENTENARIAN HONORED

Scotch Societies Hold Reception for Aged Pasadenan

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 2.—Jonathan Begg, survivor of more than a century of life on this sphere, was honored tonight on his one hundred and second birthday, by a reception at the local Odd Fellows' Hall conducted by the Caledonia Society of Los Angeles and the Associated Scottish Clan of Southern California.

Mr. Begg, who was born in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, in 1824, said he expects to be the recipient of cakes bearing many more candles than the one which was presented him tonight.

Despite his ripe years, he is not the oldest citizen of Pasadena, for Mrs. Anna Hakes, 96 North El Molino avenue, has attained the age of 106, and has outlived all but one of her six children. With that surviving one, Mrs. M. C. Treat, she makes her home.

SUIT BASED ON RIGHT TO NEW DEVICE

Electric Corporation Asks Injunction Against Use of Neon Gas by Others

The use of Neon gas in electrical advertising devices, which is said to have resulted in revolutionary improvements in the illuminated advertising field, is made the basis of two suits filed by the Electrical Products Corporation in United States District Court.

One suit is directed against Neale, Inc., E. G. Neals, Thomas W. Neals, Harry H. Greer, the California Electric Sign Company and Leonard M. Bell. In the other action the General Sign Company, F. A. Guernsay, S. W. Hertz, J. J. Madine, Thomas Cairns and C. L. Langley are named as defendants. The actions are also directed against all purchasers of Neon products.

The actions ask an order restraining the defendants from disposing of devices for the use of Neon gas, and seek an accounting of profits.

Two factories controlled by the Electrical Products Corporation are under way in Los Angeles and New York City, it is said. The directors of the corporation are George I. Cochran, president of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company; W. L. Stewart of the Union Oil Company; John B. Miller, president of the Southern California Edison Company; W. T. P. Hollingsworth, W. R. Hollingsworth, M. M. Kaufman, John W. Harris, Otto Little and Paul D. House.

POLICEMAN SEIZED AS TERRORIZER

Charges of Drunkenness and Flourishing Weapon in Store to be Faced

Arrested after he had terrorized several persons in a San Pedro clothing store, B. V. Phillips, 29 years of age, a police officer of the vice squad, was booked yesterday at the Harbor District Police Station on charges of drunkenness and flourishing a deadly weapon. Chief Davis ordered that he be held several hours and then released on his own recognizance at 9 p.m. to report to the Chief's office in person today.

Phillips lives at 865½ Lagoon avenue, Wilmington, and was graduated from the police school about five months ago. The clothing store he visited was at 422 South Beacon street, San Pedro, and as soon as he appeared there, according to the story gathered by Detective Lieutenant Gentry and Officer Beard, he drew his revolver and became abusive. It was said he struck several persons. A crowd gathered and it was thought at first the officer, who was not in uniform, was a bandit.

He resisted the efforts of Gentry and Beard to arrest him, it was declared. The officers booked him on the drunkenness charge, two civilians, Frank Carlson and C. D. Vickers, making the charge of flourishing a weapon.

Former Venice Dance Official Sues Company

Suit for $100,000 damages for asserted ouster was brought in Superior Court yesterday by R. A. Lewis, former secretary of the Bon Ton Amusement Company, against Austin McFadden, Marie McFadden and George W. Lethy, officers and directors of the company.

The company, according to Lewis, was organized in 1922 to conduct the Bon Ton Ballroom in Venice. On January 10, 1923, the plaintiff stated, he was voted out as secretary of the company.

He asks that the defendants be required to account for money taken in by the dance hall and that they be adjudged as conducting the business as trustees for the stockholders of the Bon Ton Amusement Company.

Inquest Called in Psychopathic Patient's Death

Following the death yesterday at the General Hospital of Robert Moan of 1436 Walnut avenue, Long Beach, a psycopathic patient, Coroner Nance last night declared that an inquest will be conducted over the body Monday at 1:30 p.m. in the Coroner's office.

Moan, a middle-aged man, was taken into custody by the Long Beach police last Sunday and held for a short time in a cell in the Long Beach Jail, according to information given the authorities. Rushing at the steel bars of his cell, he is said to have suffered severe injuries to his head before he was overpowered and removed to the General Hospital.

Among those who will testify at the inquest, it is understood, are the policemen who had him in charge and physicians at the hospital. Hospital attendants last night said, however, that they are of the opinion that the man's death was due more to his mental illness than to the injuries he suffered.

DEATH OF RIVERSIDE PAIR PUZZLES DOCTOR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, April 2.—Dr. Galvin J. Telfer, State district health officer, has been summoned here for consultation with Dr. W. B. Wells, local health officer, concerning two mysterious deaths in West Riverside. He will arrive tomorrow. The deaths are those of Mrs. Eva Heard, 36 years of age, and her child, Ethel Heard, 9 months, and were apparently due to some kind of internal inflammation the nature of which has not been determined, Dr. Wells said.

ANGELENO HEAD OF MISSIONARIES

Mrs. D. M. Thomas Elected New President

Annual Pasadena Meeting Comes to Close

Society Pledges Allegiance to Liquor Laws

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 2.—Mrs. David M. Thomas of Los Angeles today was elected president of the Woman's National and Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbytery of the Los Angeles district, as the organization closed its forty-third annual meeting.

A resolution pledging allegiance to the Eighteenth Amendment was passed and a copy of such action ordered forwarded to President Coolidge.

Other officers were named as follows:

Mrs. R. W. Gleland, honorary president; Mrs. E. T. Bowen, Mrs. J. E. Kline, Mrs. Carl A. Johnson and Mrs. R. W. Jones, vice-presidents; Miss Lillie Hawk, secretary; Mrs. J. R. Mussen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Martha Clingsen, national secretary; Dr. Isabel Crowell, foreign secretary; Miss Olive Wentz and Mrs. F. A. Fysk, assistant foreign secretaries; Mrs. Ida L. Hax, literature secretary; Mrs. Lorraine Morrell, secretary of missions; Mrs. Logan Henshaw, box and overseas hospital secretary; Mrs. O. J. Lowe, stewardship secretary; Mrs. Harry W. Lewis, association membership secretary; Mrs. May M. Samson, senior young people's secretary; Mrs. Harry Babcock, junior young people's secretary; Mrs. E. L. McCartney, children's secretary; Mrs. J. F. G. Finley, secretary and treasurer of life memberships; Mrs. F. B. Caldwell, young people's treasurer; Mrs. R. C. Wray, press secretary, and Mrs. Austin Smith, report secretary.

FIRST WILL INTRODUCED IN CONTEST

Document Submitted as Evidence of Desire to Equally Divide Estate

As evidence that Abraham Goldman really wanted his two sons to share equally in his $200,000 estate, a former will was introduced yesterday in the contest of a testament dated two years later, in the probate contest being heard before Attorney J. Perry Wood, sitting as judge pro tem in the Courthouse.

By the will which is being contested Goldman left his son Ben Goldman only $3000, bequeathing the balance of his estate to his son Harry Goldman. Ben Goldman instituted the contest, asserting that undue influence had been brought to bear upon his father.

The will introduced into evidence yesterday was written in 1913, and carried a codicil dated 1920, whereby it was provided that the two sons should divide the estate. Attorney Charles W. Ostrom submitted this in support of his contention that it was the desire of the father, at a time when he was unbiased, to devise equally to his sons.

Banquet Marks Completion of New Mortuary

W. A. Brown, funeral director, was the guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday tendered by sixty-five of his friends in honor of the completion of his new mortuary at 1815 South Flower street. The structure contains twenty-two rooms and a chapel now under construction will be the largest on the Coast, seating 500 persons.

In building his new mortuary after thirteen years of service to the public, Mr. Brown took into consideration congested traffic conditions in downtown Los Angeles and built two driveways to take funerals out of traffic. Two chapels facing these driveways make it possible, if necessary, to hold two funerals at once with privacy for both.

The building is of stone and concrete construction. It is four stories high, with elevator service. There is a garage in the rear with a capacity for twenty automobiles.

Wylie W. Brown is associated with his father. Young Brown recently was graduated from the University of California.

Officer Injured When Downtown Car Jumps Rail

Traffic Officer William J. Saager was severely bruised, an automobile was damaged and scores of persons had narrow escapes from injury when a street car jumped the track at Eleventh street and Broadway late yesterday afternoon.

The car left the track at a partly open switch, it was said, and swung around, ramming an automobile, knocking down the traffic officer and sending pedestrians scurrying.

Saager, who lives at 2534 Exposition Boulevard, was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where his bruises were treated by Police Surgeon Sebastian.

BENEFIT FOR WAR VETERANS

The annual benefit luncheon and card party by the Division of Cooperation with War Veterans, to raise funds for relief and hospital work will be given at the Catholic Women's Clubhouse, 927 Menlo avenue, at 12:30 p. m. on the 30th inst.

Dr. Culbertson invites his congregation and the public generally to attend the sunrise service at Fifty-fourth street and Kensington avenue.

"THE EASTER HOPE."

The doctrine of immortality "has done immeasurable damage to the cause of human welfare and happiness," according to Rev. T. C. Abel, who will discuss the question "Can We Believe in Immortality?" tomorrow evening at the Unitarian Church of Hollywood. The subject for morning is "The Easter Hope."

LIBERAL CATHOLIC

Sermons and songs appropriate to the day will be heard tomorrow at St. Alban's Pro-Cathedral, Liberal Catholic Church, at 2041 Argyle avenue. At the morning hour Rev. Robert McVicker will preach on "The Resurrection" and in the evening a sermon on "The Sacrifice That is the Life," will be preached by Dr. John A. Ingleman. At 7:30 p.m. today the service will be featured by the Procession of the Blessed Sacrament.

"HAVE I RISEN?"

Following the presentation of the production "Easter Tidings," at Immanuel Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening, Dr. Herbert Booth Smith, the pastor, will give an address on the subject "Is the Resurrection Story a Myth or a Fact?" The subject for the morning discourse is "Have I Risen From the Dead Today?" Elaborate musical programs have been prepared for both services.

"DID CHRIST RISE?"

"Did Christ Rise Bodily From the Dead and, if so, shall We Thus Rise?" is the subject of a sermon to be preached by Rev. Bob Shuler at Trinity Methodist Church tomorrow evening, following the presentation of an Easter cantata. The subject for morning is "Shall We Meet Beyond the River?" Reception of children into the church and baptism of infants will feature the morning service.

EASTER AT HARBOR

Easter sunrise services tomorrow morning at Point Fermin are expected to attract unusually large throngs, due to the return of the Battle Fleet. Large numbers are expected to make a day of it at Point Fermin Park, attending the near-by services and later visiting the dreadnaughts.

While Fort MacArthur will participate in the Easter program and Navy units will not, due to their return to port too late to be included in the exercises, thousands of the blue-clad sea fighters are expected to attend the services on the fort's upper reservation overlooking the fleet.

Shore boats will leave the Fifth street landing at San Pedro every few minutes during the visiting hours from 1 to 4 p. m. aboard the warships.

MOTHER NAMED AS GIRL SLAYER

Long Beach Coroner's Jury Renders Decision

Fit of Despondency Blamed for Knife Death

Husband Testifies of Love She Had for Child

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 2.—A Coroner's jury today found that Margaret Rice, 5½ years of age, met death from wounds inflicted by a butcher knife in the hands of her mother, Mrs. Ila Mae Rice, during a fit of despondency in which Mrs. Rice attempted to take her own life. The inquest was conducted by Deputy Coroner Monfort in the Swan Undertaking Chapel this afternoon.

Mrs. Rice, it was said, had cut the throat of her sleeping daughter Tuesday morning, then had slashed her own throat, partially severing the windpipe. She locked the front door, barricaded the rear door, turned on the gas in the kitchen and living-room, and lay down on the floor by the bed of the dead child, it was stated.

FOUND BY NEIGHBOR

Mrs. Rice was found by Mrs. Laura Mendenhall, a neighbor, and taken to the Community Hospital here, and later to the Los Angeles General Hospital, where she is said to be recovering. A first-degree murder warrant was issued against her after her daughter's death.

Police Surgeon Sweet testified that when he came to attend the woman she could not speak, as she was breathing through the wound in her throat. When she could talk, he said, she declared she had killed the child because she "didn't want her to go through the hell I have been through." She said she had been happy with her husband, he testified.

Mrs. Mendenhall said Mrs. Rice often complained of the inequalities and injustice of life. Mrs. Rice, she said, had told her she didn't want her daughter to go through a similar hell. Mrs. Rice had appeared highly nervous and broken in health, she declared.

HUSBAND TESTIFIES

George G. Rice, Mrs. Rice's husband, testified his wife had been in ill health for some time and was worried by the realization that she could have no more children. She loved children and wanted more, he said. For two weeks before the tragedy she had seemed to be on the edge of a mental and physical breakdown.

She had been so devoted to the daughter she had killed that she could not trust her in the hands of others, he testified. From June until October, he said, the child had suffered from the effects of whooping cough, and Mrs. Rice had been up with her every night. Insomnia had resulted, he said, which he believed played a part in causing her to become mentally unbalanced. His relations with his wife had been happy, he declared.

FAIL TO FIND MALICE IN ACT OF FIRE CHIEF

EFFORT TO BUY GAS FROM PASADENA DIRECTOR BRINGS INQUIRY

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 2.—Investigation of Fire Chief Coop's attempt to buy gasoline for the fire department from Chairman F. B. Cole of the Board of City Directors has so far indicated that there was no malice in the attempt and that there was no intention to trap Cole into an illegal act, City Manager Orbison stated today.

Cole, as a city official, is forbidden by law to sell merchandise to the city and when an order for gasoline for the city was received by his firm under circumstances which he termed "suspicious," he ordered the City Manager to investigate the possibility of a plot to embarrass him.

Cheif Coop says that he merely wanted to try Cole's gasoline and forgot about the technicality in the way. Purchasing Agen E. N. Brown, who countersigned the order, says he did so under the impression that Cole had turned his gasoline station business over to his son.

Cole refused to comment on the case today, except to say that he had asked the City Manager to continue his investigation.

CHIEF OF NAVY BACKS AIRPORT VOTE PLANS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, April 2.—A telegram from Secretary Wilbur of the United States Navy, received by the Clover Field campaign committee for the special bond election to be held here the 14th inst., indorses the plan as follows:

"I believe Santa Monica purchase of Clover Field for municipal airport would be splendid in pioneer development of commercial aviation. Military aviation is largely dependent on commercial aviation. In the inevitable progress of aviation, cities with well-established airports will naturally be first to profit."

Women Present Fund to Buy Trees for Devastated Area

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MUNICH, April 2.—Lida Gustava Heymann, Gertrude Baer and Frau Frieda Perley, representing the German section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, of which Jane Addams of Chicago is international chairman, have just returned from a unique mission to France. They were delegated to present to the municipality of Arras, in the heart of the devastated areas, the sum of 15,000 francs raised among German women for the purchase of trees as an act of good will and as a gesture of German willingness to repair damage wrought in the World War.

DAY-OLD WAIF FINDS HAVEN

Rescued From Exposure on Vacant Lot

Nameless Babe in Hospital

MORE adventure than is packed into ten years of the average person's life was yesterday crowded into a baby girl's first few hours on earth.

Lost or abandoned she was found; near death, she was brought back to life; motherless last night at the end of her first day on earth, she found content in the arms of a hospital nurse. Today perhaps more adventure awaits her.

The cries of an infant yesterday morning attracted Mrs. C. A. Brown of 2234 Crenshaw Boulevard to an open lot near her home. There she found the baby wrapped only in a blanket and near death from the cold. Policewoman Bertha Arenburg hurried the child to the Receiving Hospital, where Police Surgeons Saverien and Dorn worked to save the day-old life.

Later she was taken to the juvenile ward of the General Hospital, where she will be kept until old enough to become a member of the Children's Home or until her parents are found or she is adopted.

Anyway, the nameless waif that yesterday morning was so close to death last night was reported very much alive, a perfectly normal baby despite hardships. Police surgeons declared that it displayed a remarkable tenacity to life in overcoming the effects of exposure a few hours after birth.

BURGLAR ROBS BABY

Takes Glendale Child's Penny Bank With Savings of Years

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, April 2.—Twenty dollars, most of it in pennies, representing the savings of several years in a child's little bank were stolen by sneak thieves last night from the home of C. F. Roeder, 735 Fairmont street, and the burglars also took $15 and a quantity of wearing apparel before they left.

Roeder declares he regrets the loss of his money and his clothes much less than he does the theft of the baby's bank, and the things he said about the thieves who would rob a child of its savings, when he reported the robbery, caused the desk sergeant at the police department, accustomed as he is to hearing all sorts of conversation, to raise an admiring eyebrow.

POSTAL RECEIPTS GAIN AT HUNTINGTON PARK

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 2. Postal receipts at the local office show an increase of 30 per cent for the month of March, over the corresponding month of last year, the total receipts being $9393.24 for March, this year. Postmaster Cleveland states that the postoffice has been an independent office just one year, and that the total receipts for the first year reached $100,008.40.

PROGRESS

Times change, and the world does move. The doctor whose name has passed into the menu attached to "graham" bread had a terrible time getting the consumers of beans and brown bread at Boston in 1840 to accept his innovation. With the bakers as well which he termed "unsalicious," he ordered the City Manager to investigate the possibility of a plot to embarrass him.

Cheif Coop says that he merely wanted to try Cole's gasoline and forgot about the technicality in the way. Purchasing Agen E. N. Brown, who countersigned the order, says he did so under the impression that Cole had turned his gasoline station business over to his son.

Cole refused to comment on the case today, except to say that he had asked the City Manager to continue his investigation.

AMERICA HAS LARGE ANTARCTIC DOMAIN

Early last year preparations were under way for a flight of the U.S.S. Shenandoah to the North Pole. One object of the expedition was announced as the possible discovery and annexation of lands in the large unknow area north of Alaska. For various reasons the project was abandoned.

But while we await the unfolding of Arctic secrets, why not turn our attention to perfecting discoveries at the other end of the earth, made by American seamen more than four generations ago, discoveries of far greater extent and immeasurably higher potential value than anything the unknown Arctic expanse can hold for us?

It has been eighty-five years since the courage and resourcefulness of Commander Charles Wilkes, U.S.N., initiated an American claim to a large sector of Antarctica. Dormant ever since, that claim can be revived and established. Without cost we can acquire an additional area equal to almost half continental United States. We can assure for ourselves and our posterity a source of added wealth that may reach enormous proportions, and release undreamed hidden resources for the benefit of the world at large.

The renewed interest in polar research that successful navigation of the air has awakened recalls the exploits of the redoubtable Wilkes, with his squadron of four little vessels of the United States Navy. His discoveries were made so far in the past that his voluminous report has become little more than a reference work for those of a scientific turn of mind. But recent British acquisitions in Antarctica, coupled with the unlocking of hidden treasures there and in the hitherto impenetrable regions of the North, give a new meaning to his achievements. They assume economic and political aspects of an importance that is certain to expand with the years.

In 1838 Commander Wilkes was placed in charge of the "United States Exploring Expedition." With the vessels Porpoise, Peacock, Vincennes and Flying Fish, he proceeded down the east coast of South America and rounded the Horn into the Pacific. Four years he sailed the South Seas, visiting most of the islands, and examining what is now our own Pacific Coast.

In December, 1839, the party was on the east coast of Australia, and in that month Commander Wilkes set sail from Sydney to explore the oceans to the south.

Up to that time no maps or charts showed any traces of Antarctic land. "We, ourselves," wrote Wilkes, "anticipated no such discovery." But January 12, 1840, when the expedition was about 1600 miles south of New Zealand, land was sighted. High, rocky bluffs, with mountains in the distance, mostly covered with snow, with a barrier of ice extending into the sea, prevented further progress south, so Commander Wilkes steered his ships to the west.

For six weeks they followed the shore line of the new continent for almost 1500 miles, charting it as they proceeded, and making frequent landings to replenish their water supply and to take observations.

Floating ice imperiled the safety of the vessels, while cold and privation impaired the health of the mariners. The Peacock was so damaged that she had to abandon the voyage and turn north for repairs. But Wilkes pushed on until February 17, when a north-and-south coast line was encountered. That shore was followed northward, and on February 21 the ships crossed the track taken by the British explorer, Capt. Cook, in his voyage of 1773. The American expedition broke its contact with land where Wilkes knew the British explorations by Cook had begun, and returned to Australia. —[Boston Transcript.

WINS POINT IN BALM SUIT

Olmstead Sustained in Demurrer by Howard to Suit for $500,000 in Alienation Case

Edward L. Olmstead, banker, won a point in the first court hearing of his $500,000 suit for asserted alienation of affections against William Duff Howard, former president of the Continental National Bank, when Judge Doran yesterday overruled Howard's demurrer to the action. Howard was given ten days in which to file an answer to the action.

While Judge Doran gave a ruling adverse to Howard on the demurrer, he granted a motion of Howard to strike from Olmstead's complaint an allegation that Howard is worth $500,000 and that his wife, Mrs. Lillian Howard, is worth $5,000,000.

The motion was granted on the ground that the allegation was not essential to Olmstead's complaint. Mrs. Howard, widow of the late E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin, was named a co-defendant in Olmstead's suit but she has not yet made an appearance in the case.

Olmstead charged the defendants with alienating the affections of his wife, Agnes L. Olmstead, society leader. A divorce suit is now pending between the Olmsteads in which Howard is named co-respondent by Olmstead.

BAY CITIES ASK REDISTRICTING

Oaklander Asks South's Aid in Reapportionment

G. E. Shelden Here to Study County Charter Plan

Declaring that the East Bay Cities, Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda, are as vitally interested as Los Angeles in reapportionment of the State for legislative purposes, George E. Shelden, secretary-manager of the Up-Town Association of Oakland and representative of the Consolidated Improvement Clubs of the three cities named, stated yesterday that these cities are ready to co-operate in the movement for reapportionment launched some time ago by the All-Parties Reapportionment Committee here.

Mr. Shelden, who is at the Biltmore, came to Los Angeles primarily to obtain information in regard to the workings of the Los Angeles county charter, the people of Oakland and surrounding cities being interested at this time in a new charter for Alameda county, a draft of which is to be prepared for submission to the voters at the next election.

"During my visit I have made some inquiry in regard to the reapportionment movement under way here and will make a thorough investigation of the program being carried out by the All-Parties Reapportionment Committee," said Mr. Shelden. "It occurs to me that the interests of Los Angeles and the East Bay Cities are identical in this matter and that the two sections should co-operate in putting across the aim of the committee here, which is to submit the question of reapportionment to a vote of the people at the next general election.

"It is certain that the East Bay District is not now getting the representation in the Legislature to which it is entitled and this situation should be remedied by reapportionment."

Referring to the specific mission which brought him to Los Angeles, Mr. Shelden said he had made a study of some sixty charters in his quest for information as to the best form for Alameda county.

"At present we have no county charter and it leaves us virtually without home rule. For instance the question as to the number of assistants required to conduct the county offices, and their respective salaries, at present is subject to State legislative action."

The three cities of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda have during the last few months jointly adopted bond issues for civic improvements aggregating $79,000,000, Mr. Shelden said.

Ask Status of Engineering Lines be Kept

Recommendations that there be no change in the engineering lines or the lines of the assessment district of the Tenth-street opening and straightening project were contained in a communication received by the Council yesterday from the Tenth Street District Improvement Association. The letter, which was signed by A. Frank, as chairman, was referred to the Street Opening and Widening Committee.

Chairman Barnes of the committee plans to conduct a public hearing Tuesday afternoon in the Council chamber when the entire matter of the Tenth street project will be thrown open for discussion.

The association's letter urges the Council to continue the $1,500,000 allocation for the project from the Permanent Improvement Fund.

DR. FRANKEL COMES TO COLLECT HEALTH DATA

Dr. Lee K. Frankel, Jewish educator and second vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow to make a survey of health conditions within the motion-picture industry. He is doing this work at the request of Will H. Hays, president of the Motion-Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc. During his stay in the city, Dr. Frankel will assist in the conduct of the campaign on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and he will be one of the principal speakers at the banquet to be held at the Ambassador on the 14th inst., at which time the general drive for funds will be launched.

PASADENAN'S TRIAL ON DRUNK CHARGE PUT OFF

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 2.—The case of Stephen Kerekhoff, prominent young Pasadena society man charged with drunkenness and reckless driving, was postponed until the 10th inst. today in Police Court, where Kerckhoff was scheduled to have received a jury trial. The case has been advanced on the court calendar twice since Kerckhoff's arrest last February, but another postponement was granted today when Dr. Clement C. Troensegaard appeared with an affidavit stating that Mrs. Kerckhoff, a defense witness, is too ill to appear.

Short Life for a Costly Engine

An airplane engine worth about $10,000 only lasts 800 hours, even with several overhaulings. Allowing carefully for the cost of overhaulings and for the salvage value of the parts left over, an authority nevertheless estimates that such an engine depreciates per hours to the expensive tune of $10.60. This is not quite so bad as it would appear at first, since at a cruisingg speed of 110 miles per hour the engine distance of 88,000 miles would have propelled its plane a If the average passenger automobile does 7500 miles a year the airplane engines gives at least the equivalent of twelve years of automobile-engine service.

PARIS ACTRESS WILL TRY TO BE BARRISTER

SEVERAL MEN QUIT BAR FOR STAGE BUT WOMAN WOULD REVERSE PROCESS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, April 2.—Several barristers in France have become actors and one, M. Aveline, left the bar to become a ballet dancer and appeared at the Paris Operahouse, but no example of the reverse process has yet occurred.

The question whether the Council of the Order of Barristers would admit an actor remains unanswered, but a test case soon is to present itself. There is at the present time a young actress in Paris, Miss Alexandre Pecker, "Queen" of the Paris Press Club, who is taking a law course with a view to becoming a barrister and appearing on the stage very evening.

Left with every little money and a mother to keep, she determined to qualify as a barrister and meanwhile to earn a living by acting.

But even when she has passed the necessary exam'nations and if the Bar Council agrees that an actress may be admitted, it is far from certain that the question of earning a living will have been solved. Some 250 women have qualified as barristers in France but there are far more stories of failures than successes.

LONDON PAPER DENIES WOMEN ARE THINNER

ASSERTS CONTRACT WITH FORMER DAYS IS DUE TO CHANGES IN STYLES

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, April 2.—Women are not any thinner than they used to be. They merely look thinner and do not fill out the hollows in their figures as they did in days when stoutness was fashionable to be well-rounded.

Such is the conclusion of The Evening Standard, which refuses to be alarmed over the statement of Sir Bruce-Porter, the well-known surgeon, that girls are less solidly built than their grandmothers.

"It is probable," says The Evening Standard, "that girls are on the whole better built than their mothers were, though not nearly so well bu'lt as their mothers seemed. When the Gibson girl craze was on at the end of the last century it was easy for a weedy girl to give the impression of possessing lovely curves, but the present fashion allows no illusions."

WORLD'S OLDEST SHIP SOLD IN BRITAIN

Jane, the oldest vessel in the world still in commission has just changed hands. She is a forty-ton ketch built in Runcorn in 1800, but after 126 years of sea faring she has found another willing purchaser.

Her earliest history is obscure, the name of her makers is not shown on her register, but for long periods she was employed by a shipping firm at Bridgewater. Afterwards she passed into the family of Captain L. P. Smart of Uphill, near Weston-super-Mare, in whose hands she remained nearlyfifty years.

Now Jane has once more been sold to a Bristol firm, and in her old age she is being used as a lighter, plying her trade up and down the Avbn. Jane has known war and peace, legitimate trading and, perhaps, in the years shortly after her first commission, the thrills of smuggling. Jane was young when the Peninsular War was taking place, and no doubt she bucketed her way up the Bristol Channel, which has always been her home, in company with frigates-of-the-line and heavily laden transports. Jane was still young when the Crimean War was raging, and she retained her youth again when the War of 1914 sent its call to every type of shipping.

She was chartered by the government and used throughout those long war years, playing up and down the Channel, unafraid of submarines and mines. There is no one though, you know Jane so well as Captain Smart, her late owner-skipper.

"Jane stood the sea," he said, "because she was well built and built of good old English oak at that. Six years ago, when I put a new lining into her, I found that her frame was as solid as the day she was built. There were not two bad timbers in her. Not many ships built today will last as long as Jane."—[Vancouver Province.

MOUNTAIN BANNERS OF CALIFORNIA

A traveler who visited the Sierra Nevadas of California describes snow banners floating horizontally from the higher peaks of the range. The occurrence is not common. "Indeed," says the narrator, "during five winters spent in the Sierras I have observed only one display of this kind that seemed in every way perfect." The character of the snow, the force and direction of the wind and the peculiar conformation of these mountains are all factors in the banner display. A prevailing feature of the peaks is a convexity on the north side, due to glaciation; the snow must be an unlimited quantity of dry, light snow dust, and the wind must be a strong one from the north. Under these conditions the snow, instead of being dissipated abroad from where it lies, is first driven up the concave sides as out of a scoop to the summit where it is caught by the blast in its full strength.

The spectacular result is thus described: "Alps innumerable, black and jagged, rise sharply into the azure, their bases set in solid white, their sides streaked with snow like an ocean rock with foam. from every summit streams a banner from 2000 to 6000 feet in length, slender at the point of attachment, then widening gradually as it extends from the peak until about 1000 or 1500 feet in breadth. The cluster of keaps called 'the Crown of the Sierra,' and the majestic ranks marshaled along the axis to the north and south each has its own refulgent banner waving with a clearly visible motion in the sun glow and with not a single cloud in the sky to mar the simple grandeur of the banners." These observations were from the Yosemite valleys. The writer speaks of the mountains miles away, their every feature clearly defined, their black masses delicately streaked and patterned with white where the snow rested in narrow flutings and gorges. The far-streaming banners waved to and fro like flags from the masthead as the wind veered, and even at a distance of twenty miles they were clearly visible, opaque at the point where they were fed out from the peaks, thinning away into filmy and translucent curtains.

Analagous to these snow banners is the visible cloud floating from the summit of Mt. Hood, from which that mountain takes its name. This is formed of vapor. Like the snow banners it is rare among mountain phenomena. The cloud, seemingly attached to the peak, floats from it like a great white pennant. It results from atmospheric conditions caused by the conformation of the mountain top, when the air pressure is reduced on the lee side of the pinnacle by the wind. This modifies the temperature and causes a condensation of moisture that becames visible.—[Indianapolis News.

Electricity and Plant Growth

Despite the fact that experiments have been conducted for many years to determine the effect of a current of electricity upon growing plants, there is still a diversity of opinion on the subject of the influence of electricity upon plant development. In England, where the electrical treatment has been applied by charging a network placed high enough above the growing crops to permit cultivation with horses, increased yields are reported. Eight years of similar experimental tests by the United States Department of Agriculture have not shown any positive response by plants.

PYLE REFUTES WOUND RUMOR

Denies Injuries Received in Arica Dispute

Colonel on Plebiscitary Board in Ventura

Defends Pershing's Handling of Row Over Land

That he had returned home for medical treatment for injuries sustained in encounter of a purely personal nature and with no political significance, is the statement of Lieut.-Col. Pyle, U.S.A. retired, who arrived in Ventura yesterday from South America.

Lieut.-Col. Pyle went there last fall at the call of Gen Pershing, to act as a member of the plebiscitary commission, which is attempting to settle the Tacna-Arica dispute. He denies rumors that he was wounded in connection with his work as a member of the commission, stating that his encounter was on the street with a civilian native on purely personal grounds. He suffered several sprained ligaments, treatment for which was not available in the southern country he said.

"Tacna-Arica is the Alsace-Lorraine of South America," says Col. Pyle.

"The province was taken from Peru by Chile in their last war many years ago. At the time of the signing of peace terms it was agreed that the possession of the province should be settled by plebiscite within ten years, but now forty years later, no vote has been taken.

"Gen. Pershing was sent down by the State Department, but ill health forced him to retire from his post. I was sorry to see the attitude that the press took in regard to Pershing. He was really a sick man when he came home. His recall was not due to dissatisfaction with his work."

WELL HANDLED

"Pershing is both a soldier and a diplomat and handled the situation splendidly, leaving the field in excellent condition for Gen. Lassiter when he arrived. Lassiter is doing well, too, and I feel if a plebiscite is possible Lassiter will accomplish it."

Col. Pyle refused to predict the final outcome of the arbitration, stating that so far as he knows no accurate survey or straw ballot has been taken to determine which nation, Chile or Peru, has the better claim.

Leaving Ventura on Thanksgiving Day, Col. Pyle was twenty days en route to Tacna and was from March 13 to the 1st inst. aboard ship on his return from Balboa to San Pedro on board the U.S.S. Maryland. The reason for the slow trip was that it was made during battle maneuvers.

"We fought all the way home," said Col. Pyle.

Ventura has been Col. Pyle's home for more than a quarter of a century. Leaving Ventura in the ranks of the local troop, Company H of the Seventh California Volunteers, Col. Pyle had his first military experience in the Spanish-American War. Returning to Ventura when he was mustered out of service he enlisted, being sent to the Philippines where he received his first commission, that of a lieutenant in the Scouts.

RICH COUNTRY

"The Tacna-Arica country would grow anything if there was enough water," says Pyle. "The country is naturally very arid and extensive irrigation is necessary to accomplish any agricultural endeavor. Fruit flourishes there, and mining is a rich field.

"My first interest in Tacna and possibly the first interest of the government was way back when I was a boy. The U.S.S. Wateree, a gunboat on its way to the Coast, was caught by an earthquake and ensuing tidal wave and carried several miles inland. It was so far from water that it was impossible to take it back so it was abandoned. The boilers of the old sidewheeler are still to be seen, high and dry far inland.

"I remember reading the story of the Wateree and how it thrilled me. It was my first real contact and interest in South America."

Col. Pyle hopes to make his home in Ventura. He had planned to retire there before his South American detail, which came two weeks after his name had been placed on the retired list. Col. Pyle is staying with his wife at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Forbes.

SAYS HE X-RAYS VEINS

Dr. Forester of France Injects Iodized Oil Into Them

By a process of iodizing oil, Dr. J. E. Forester of Aix les Bains, France, says that he has perfected a fluid that can be injected into the veins of the body which renders them immune to the X-ray and thus makes it possible to examine them in detail.

Hitherto bismuth has been extensively used for the purpose. A solution of bismuth could be placed in the stomach or other organ to be examined and the bismuth solution would be opaque in the photograph or on the inside of that organ, and was, therefore, only partially of value in examination.

The fluid which Dr. Forester has perfected can be injected into certain tissues and those tissues rendered opaque to the X-rays. Thus it would be possible to inject into the bronchial tubes certain doses of the material and the bronchial tubes themselves, and not the hollows therein, would be revealed.

"My trip to this country is to lecture on the methods I have invented," said Dr. Forester, who has been at the Hotel Pennsylvania. "My method has been to visualize cavities which had not been examined by the X-ray before. One of the important items is that there is complete safety in its use. There has been no case of accident and there can be none. Another factor is that the oil is comparatively cheap, enough for a complete examination costing about a dollar in France. I do not know what it sells for here, but I imagine it is but very little more."—[New York Times.

A Coroner's jury at Rochester, Ireland, recently brought in a verdict that a man was asleep while driving his car when it ran from the road and crashed into a tramway, killing him.

CONSIDER THIS
An ordinary rug for your spare room costs from $3 to $5 per sq. yd. and has very small resale value. While a beautiful ocean and mountain view lot, 40x160, in Santa Monica costs less than $2 per sq. yd. and gets more valuable every day. GEO. B. SHRINER CO., Princeton & Montana, Santa Monica.
